Fire Rages in Ruined Nicaragua City.

BULLETIN.

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

BALBOA, C. Z., March 31.—Eleven hundred dead already have been located in Managua and the toll of dead may reach 2,500, according to radio reports received here.

BULLETIN.

New Orleans, La., March 31.—(AP)—The tropical radio here received a report tonight that another quake shook Managua at 9 p. m. No details were given in the message, which said "Another shock of fair intensity was felt at 9 p. m."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 31.—Fire was still raging tonight in this city of 80,000 population, completing the work of destruction begun by the earthquake which this morning killed 1,100 persons and injured several thousand others. The city was completely ruined by the tremor, which began at 12:30 a. m. and lasted two minutes. Eleven distinct shocks were felt.

Several Americans were killed in the disaster. Among the known dead are:

Lieutenant Commander Hugo F. A. Bode, a doctor in the Nicaraguan national guard.

Mrs. Joseph D. Murray, wife of Capt. Murray of the marine corps.

Two unidentified American officers in the Nicaraguan guard and two wives of national guard officers.

List of Americans Injured.

Lieut Col. C. B. Matthews, commandant of the Guardia Nationale, tonight announced the following list of injuries among American marines and their families who are serving in the country:

Chief Quartermaster Clerk James F. Dicks, Vallejo, Cal.; severe internal injuries.

Gunner Sergeant Louis Rossick, Detroit; severe scalp wounds and internal injuries. His wife suffered a fractured skull and may lose her eyesight. Her condition is serious.

Pvt. Sergeant Robert G. Crawford, Summerville, Ga.; severe internal injuries. His wife was injured, but not seriously.

Mal. Robert L. Denig, Sandusky, O.; fractured right leg below knee.

Indiana Man Injured.

First Lieutenant James L. Denham, Chevy Chase, Md.; scalp wound; not serious.

Mrs. Buchner, wife of Gunnery Sergeant Buchner; not serious.

Irving A. Lindberg, collector general of customs; leg injury; not serious.

Line Sergeant Hodskin, U. S. M. C.; scalp and face injuries.

Marines Battle Flames.

The American marines tonight were failing to halt the blaze, which already had destroyed the business section of the city, comprising 20 blocks, and was spreading to the residential districts. These districts were leveled by the quake, but it was hoped to enable the homeless population to salvage personal belongings.

The marines were using dynamite in an effort to check the flames, but up to 9 o'clock this hour tonight had not succeeded. They planned now to blow up the Anglo-American bank, which was badly damaged by the tremors. Hope was practically abandoned of saving more than $500,000 in cash in the bank, since the tottering walls made it unsafe to enter.

The city is under strict martial law and marines and national guardsmen are patrolling the streets, keeping the people out of danger zones. Word from Leon, Granada, and Corinto indicates there was no damage in those districts.

Damage Placed at $30,000,000.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 31.—(AP)—Eleven sharp earth shocks passed into the annals of a few seconds, followed by fire which ripped the heart out of the business section, today spread terror and desolation through this city.

Flames roared up from the wreckage of demolished buildings, sweeping in a circle in the center of the city, where the American and British legations are located.

THOUSANDS WILL PAY TRIBUTE TO FOOTBALL CHIEF

Dies with 7 Others in Plane Crash.

First pictures of wreckage of plane in which Knute Rockne and seven others were killed yesterday are published on the back page. The pictures were flown to St. Louis and sent from there by telephone to Chicago.

Emporia, Kas., March 31.—[Special.]—The body of Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, who with seven others was killed today in an airplane crash 32 miles southwest of here, tonight was on its final journey back to Rockne's home at South Bend, Ind. Accompanied by his two sons, Billy, 15 years old, and Knute Rockne Jr., 13, and Dr. D. M. Nigro of Kansas City, a friend of the Rockne family, the body will arrive in Chicago at 7:45 o'clock tomorrow evening and will be taken directly to South Bend, where funeral services probably will be held early next week.

As the Santa Fe train bearing the casket moved eastward tonight numerous friends and former pupils of the famous coach joined the party and thousands of Notre Dame alumni and supporters of Rockne's famous football teams are expected to meet the train at the Dearborn street station in Chicago tomorrow evening to pay tribute to his memory.

Wing Rips from Plane.

Rockne, with five other passengers—two of them Chicagoans—and two pilots, was killed at 10:45 o'clock this morning when the plane, a Transcontinental Air Transport-Western Air Express sky liner, spiraled out of a murky sky and bored its motors into a pasture near Bazaar, Kas. All of the eight men in the plane died instantly.

The cause of the accident still was in doubt tonight, although it was established that the plane had not exploded and that none of the passengers was burned. The crash was variously attributed to failing motors, the buckling of a wing in flight, and to the formation of ice on the wings. The only definite clew came from witnesses who saw a wing rip from the plane as it rocketed earthward.

The dead:

Knute Rockne.

H. J. Christen, 400 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, an interior decorator.

John Happer, 6313 North Washtenaw avenue, Chicago, controller of the Wilson Western Sporting Goods company.

Spencer Goldthwaite, 25, 333 East 43d street, New York City, an advertising man.

W. B. Miller, 312 Farmington avenue, Hartford, Conn., executive of the Aetna Life Insurance company.

C. A. Robrecht, 10 Oak Park avenue, Wheeling, W. Va.

Robert Fry, 31, pilot, Kansas City.

Jess Mathias, 31, pilot, Los Angeles.

Bodies Strewn in Pasture.

For several hours the identity of Rockne was uncertain, although personal effects strewn about the wreckage bore the name of the Notre Dame coach. His body and the seven others were taken to Cottonwood Falls this evening. There Rockne was finally identified by W. L. White, son of William Allen White, Kansas editor, who knew Rockne, and by Mrs. Jesse Harper, wife of Rockne's predecessor as coach at Notre Dame, whose ranch is situated not far from the scene of the crash.

Four of the bodies, mutilated beyond recognition, were found in a pasture several yards from the wreckage by doctors and nurses who fought their way over muddy Kansas roads to reach the scene.

On Way to Make Talkie.

Rockne had hurried away from South Bend, Ind., Monday evening to complete a contract for a short talking film and several speeches in Los Angeles, taking advantage of a brief interim at Notre Dame for spring examinations. He had just finished the first two days of spring football workouts and was in a hurry to get back, he told friends as he reserved airplane passage in Chicago.

"What's the use of wasting time on trains when there are airships?" he grinned. "This is a fast day and age. I've got to get around and do things."

He boarded a train at 5 p. m. Monday in Chicago and arrived at Kansas City at 7 a. m. today. By a margin of minutes he missed seeing his sons, Knute Jr., 14, and Billy, 11, who arrived there at 9:15 to reenter Pembroke school after a visit with their mother in Coral Gables, Fla. Rockne

TELLS COURT HIS WIFE BEAT HIM WITH UMBRELLA

Trial of the contested divorce case of Mrs. Laura Dwyer Scott and her husband, Frank E. Scott, owner of a chain of theater ticket agencies, was started yesterday before Judge Rudolph Desort in the Superior court. Mrs. Scott, who lives at 2061 Home avenue, filed the original divorce bill, charging cruelty, and Scott countered with a cross bill alleging cruelty.

On the witness stand yesterday Scott testified that his wife threw his eye glasses out the window; that she beat him with an umbrella; threw poison in his face, and painted black stripes on the trousers of his new gray suit.

Mrs. Scott's principal complaint was that on one occasion her husband came into her bedroom and turned the lights off and on for four hours so that she could not sleep. She denied all of her husband's charges. The case will be resumed today.

New Air Band Harnessed by Radio Science

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 31.—The mapping of a virtual "no man's land" in the air by wireless was carried out today between the coasts of England and France. The demonstration was made through a new system developed during months of research by engineers who claim that their discovery forecasts developments comparable to those following the first feeble wireless effort of Guglielmo Marconi.

The new system makes available with this type of radio that band of air contained between the wave lengths of ten centimeters and a meter, which is at present not available to any other wireless system in the world.

Travels in Straight Line.

The usefulness of this device is cramped by the fact that its impulses will not travel over a curve so as to follow the earth's surface. It is, therefore, not usable over a greater distance than the extreme limit of vision. But transmission over this narrow band of air is hailed as revolutionary by its inventors. It makes available to this apparatus, they say, nine times as many avenues of communication as can be used by all other radios known.

The system was developed by the International Telephone and Telegraph laboratories. In describing the system, G. H. Nash, executive vice president, said:

"When somebody discovers what happens when horizontal radio waves strike the earth's surface and die, then the system is open to incalculable developments."

Operates on One-Half Watt.

During the demonstration today telephone conversations were carried on between Dover and Cape Gris Nez, France, with perfect clarity.

The new set operates on a power of only one-half watt, compared with 50 kilowatts in most present systems. It uses a tiny aerial less than an inch long. The set is called a "micro ray" and functions through a "micro ruction" tube producing oscillations at the rate of 1,000,000,000 times a second. The waves are sent by reasons of reflectors which are aimed at the receiving station.

Montpelier, Vt., March 31.—(AP)—Vermont elected Warren R. Austin, 63, dry Republican, to the United States senate in a special election today by a majority of almost two to one over Stephen M. Driscoll, wet Democrat. Almost complete returns showed Austin [R.], 37,629; Driscoll [D.], 18,321.

MOTORIST SHOT IN QUARREL OVER SCRAPED FENDER

Homer R. Barnhart, 24 years old, 4310 Crystal street, was shot and possibly fatally wounded last evening by an unidentified assailant who leaped on the running board of his automobile in front of 317 South Winchester avenue.

With his brother-in-law, Fred Ryder of 2732 West Monroe street, Barnhart had started to the Chicago Stadium to hear a Thompson speech. Near the stadium his car scraped the fender of another in which three men were riding. After a brief quarrel about responsibility for the damage Barnhart drove on, seeking a place to park.

The other men followed. One of them was the gunman. He fired twice, one bullet striking Barnhart in the chest and the other in the leg. The three men escaped in their car. Barnhart was taken to the county hospital.

Another shooting victim of the evening was George Belsky, 18 years old, 2010 Canalport avenue. He told the police that two strangers whom he met under a viaduct at 15th and Loomis streets beat him and fired on him, a bullet striking him in the abdomen. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital in serious condition.

Pipe Bursts; Steam Geyser Shoots Up Seven Stories

New York, April 1 (Wednesday).—(AP)—A steam pipe burst beneath the sidewalk at 43d street and Broadway at 1:15 o'clock this morning and sent a geyser seven stories into the air. Firemen had difficulty locating the source of the pipe so it could be shut off. Steam enveloped Times square and water trickled into the subway. The effect on the district was similar to a heavy rain.

Seize Records in Raid on Lair of Aiello Gang

Underworld records long sought by county and federal authorities were believed to have been seized by operatives of the special grand jury yesterday in a surprise raid on the Italo-American Importing company, 1100 West Randolph street, reputed headquarters of the gang boased by Joe Aiello, who was slain last October.

RICHARD W. WOLFE. [Wallmyer Photo.]

Pasquale Prestogiacomo, known as Patsy Presto, business partner of the slain Aiello, before whose home in North Kolmar avenue the gangster was ambushed and killed last fall, was in his office when the raid was made and was served with a subpoena to appear before the special grand jury today.

Find Checks and Papers.

The raiders, after searching through all the building occupied by the importing company, found more than 2,000 canceled checks and other documents hidden under a pile of boxes in a second floor corner of the offices. The records were turned over to Assistant State's Attorneys Charles Lounsbury and Charles Mueller in charge of the special grand jury inquiry into alleged police corruption. The exact nature of the records was kept secret pending a thorough examination by the investigators.

The raid on the place was made by Sergt. Michael Ahearn and Detectives Robert Bennett and Arthur Wachob, who are assigned to the special grand jury investigation.

Raid Mangano's Place.

This squad also raided an alleged gambling house at 516 South Halsted street, operated by Dago Lawrence Mangano, west side chief for Al Capone, and arrested there Louis Clementi, notorious hoodlum who was implicated in the killing of Octavius Granady, Negro candidate for ward committeeman, who was slain during the April primary in 1928. Clementi was locked up at the Des Plaines street station for investigation.

At the same time Capt. Richard Gill of the Des Plaines street station, carrying out the grand jury's instructions to clean up his district, conducted another series of raids on resorts in his district. Five places were raided and 17 persons were arrested. In three of the places liquor was confiscated.

At 413 South Halsted street, an alleged disorderly resort, Harold Ledi, manager, and two women were arrested. This place was said to be owned by William Grossman, reputed collector for Mangano's west side vice dens.

Pete Genna, one of the two surviving Genna brothers, was arrested on suspicion yesterday at Madison and Canal streets.

Grand Jury Quizzes Wolfe.

The special grand jury pursued its investigations yesterday by questioning Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works in Mayor Thompson's cabinet, who spent two hours before the grand jury. It was reported that the jurors questioned Wolfe about a $25,000 check supposed to have been given to Thompson's 1927 campaign fund by the Hawthorne Kennel club, a Capone dog race enterprise.

Wolfe, it is reported, denied having heard of such a check.

Solly Vision, one of the lieutenants of the slain Jack Zuta, vice lord, also spent several hours before the special jury yesterday.

Capt. James Fleming, in charge of the Shakespeare district, was called before the jury and it was reported that he was given the same orders as were given by the jurors on Monday to Capt. Gill.

DEFENSE ENDS TESTIMONY FOR LEO BROTHERS

Calls 8 Witnesses; Rebuttal Today.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Leo V. Brothers' defense against the charge that he murdered Alfred Lingle is confined to eight witnesses, produced yesterday in Judge Joseph Sabath's courtroom. Seven of these witnesses declared that Brothers was not the man who fled from the murder scene in the Illinois Central subway at Michigan avenue and Randolph street on last June 9.

It was a swiftly moving defense, which began yesterday morning and ended abruptly at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, without the defendant taking the witness stand in his own behalf.

Rebuttal evidence by the state will begin this morning, and arguments to the jury may begin today.

Identification Is Issue.

In this most peculiar of murder trials, the first of all the gang murders that have shocked Chicago in which any one has been brought to trial, the question for the jury to decide is merely that of the credibility of identification witnesses.

The state presented eight witnesses, five of them at least of unimpeachable character, who swore that the man who fled from the tunnel after shooting Lingle and throwing the gun away, was Brothers. There were varying degrees of positiveness in their testimony, and they differed in details of dress and in the color of the fugitive's hair and in whether or not he wore a hat.

Where Testimony Differs.

The seven witnesses for identification presented by the defense were at the scene, they said. They described almost the same scene as that told of by the state witnesses, and the fugitive acted in about the same way.

But the defense picture of the fugitive, as it was built up in their testimony, was that of a younger, slighter man than Brothers, a man whose decidedly blond hair, whereas Brothers' hair is chestnut in color, and he is 6 feet 1 inch in height.

It remained for the state to attempt to destroy the effectiveness of each of the defense witnesses as they came up. Whether this has been done to the satisfaction of the jury, beyond a reasonable doubt, is something that will not be known until the verdict is in, unless something new is given in evidence today.

Defense Is Not Worried.

Brothers and his attorneys have no fear of the electric chair for him, and their strategy in suddenly closing the case without putting on many other witnesses that they had subpoenaed, and particularly without letting Brothers deny the murder before the jury, indicates that they are satisfied with things as they stand.

"There is no doubt that a mistake has been made," said Attorney Louis Piquett, who had the burden of conducting the examination of the defense witnesses. Attorney Tyrrell Krum said last night that the defense was not worried at all as to the outcome.

Attorneys for the state said that it is comparatively easy to get persons, particularly tender hearted women, who have been near the scene of a crime, to testify in favor of some one, but that it is a task of the utmost difficulty to get witnesses to give evidence that may send a man to the penitentiary, particularly in these days of gang retaliation. They are pleased with the way their witnesses went through with their ordeal.

Caldwell Is in Court.

Brothers had four witnesses yesterday afternoon, as Attorney Robert R. Caldwell, one of the defense trial group and participator in the opening phase that led to the sensational ending of that side of the case. It had been the intention of the defense until then to put Brothers on the stand this morning, and his father, mother, and sweetheart had also been waiting in the witness room for a week.

The first witness, Vincent Gallo, a young hotel clerk, had been called as a dangerous surprise witness, but his testimony amounted to so little that the prosecuting attorneys let it go at that. Gallo testified that he was in the lobby of the Sherman hotel at the time of the murder, but that he had not noticed Brothers there. He said that he had been there since 11 o'clock, which is before the time when the witness for the state said they saw Brothers there. Gallo said that he had been in the lobby for about an hour, a fact which the state witnesses had not denied.

Vetich had been in the Taylor Trunk store, 22 feet from the scene of the murder, on the day of the murder, he said, but had not noticed Brothers. He said that he had been there since 11 o'clock, which is before the time when the witness for the state said they saw Brothers there. Gallo said that he had been in the lobby for about an hour, a fact which the state witnesses had not denied.

Lawrence Crawford, a fellow employe of Brothers at the Taylor Trunk store, a fellow employe, said he was within six feet of the man who shot Lingle at the moment of the shooting, and that the killer bumped into him as he ran away. Brothers was called to stand in front of the witness and turn around, like a model, so that O'Malley could observe him at all angles.

"Is that the man you saw in the tunnel?" asked Mr. Piquett.

"No, sir."

"Are you positive that the man you saw was not Brothers?"

"He was not."

On cross-examination Mr. Brooks drew from this witness the admission that he had known Mr. Piquett for seven or eight years, and had met him through an uncle, E. J. Searle, who had worked in a political organization under Piquett.

Realty Operator Called.

Harry J. O'Connor, 6311 Glenwood avenue, a real estate operator, was the third witness. And here comes a peculiar incident. In the first stories of the murder of Lingle it was reported that some one had hailed Lingle as he passed near the tunnel entrance and told him to "Get on Hy Schneider," a horse that was running at the Washington Park track that day.

This at the time was interpreted as the action that identified Lingle to his killer. But O'Connor, who seemed to be entirely frank and sincere in his testimony, said:

"I was walking along Randolph street, when a friend hailed me from an auto and said: 'Be sure and bet on Hy Schneider.' And I replied, 'I've already got him.'"

Later, O'Connor said he saw the fugitive running, shielding his face with his hat. He had told both state and defense, he said, that he did not think he could identify the man. He had never seen Brothers until he faced him in court yesterday.

He Tells His Impression.

"Is that the man you saw?" asked Mr. Piquett.

"I couldn't say," was the reply. "My impression is that he was not that heavy or that tall."

Albert Stein, 735 Bittersweet place, an employé in the county recorder's office, testified that he was with O'Connor that day and saw the fugitive also.

"That is not the man I saw running from the scene," he testified when Brothers was placed before him.

On cross-examination he said that he had known Mr. Piquett a year. He admitted that he had told Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the police department that he could not identify any one.

Mrs. Wilson a Witness.

Mrs. Abigail Wilson, 3926 Vernon avenue, wife of Howard Wilson, a division superintendent for Armour & Co., was the witness who perhaps did the most damage to the state's case. A woman of pleasant, matronly appearance, and gentle demeanor, she said she had come downtown shopping that morning and was in the tunnel at the time of the shooting, ten feet from the man who fired.

"Is that the man you saw, the man who fired that shot?" she was asked, as Brothers stood before her.

"It was not," she said, positively.

Mr. Brooks merely questioned her to show that she had not told any officer of the law about what she had seen, although she knew of the long investigation.

Another Woman Questioned.

Mrs. Helen Madeline Whitehurst, 11247 South Campbell avenue; the second woman witness to testify, was also downtown shopping that day and happened to be on Michigan avenue, near the tunnel entrance when the young man who had just killed Lingle dashed up the stairs. She was six feet away, she said, and had a "good look at him."

"No, sir, that is not the man. I never saw that man before in my life," she said, when confronted with Brothers in court.

Mr. Brooks developed from her that she had been to see Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, six months before the Lingle killing, and had asked him to investigate another murder, that of her second cousin. She said Mr. Roche was very nice to her, took her papers and promised to do what he could, but she never heard from him again.

Then she told of a visit to her house after the Lingle murder by Policeman Fred Joyner of Roche's staff. She displayed great animosity against the policeman and said she had refused to go with him without a warrant.

Story of Fiction Writer.

Paul Thorne, 4514 North Racine avenue, the seventh witness, proved to be a writer of detective stories and mystery fiction. He, too, was in front of the tunnel entrance that day when the fugitive came up the stairs, he said. He heard the shot and faced the man, within five feet of him, he said.

He shouted "Stop that man" as the fugitive was crossing the boulevard. What struck him most about the man, he said, was the extreme blondness of his hair. He gave the man's height at 5 feet 8 inches, said he wore a gray, double breasted suit and carried a straw hat in his left hand.

Brothers was paraded in front of him and the writer looked him over carefully. The only similarity that he could point out was the same square type of shoulders.

"Is that the man?" asked Mr. Piquett.

"I should say not," was the answer.

Talks to State's Staff.

Mr. Thorne said he had been in touch with the special state's attorney's staff investigating this case several times and had told them all he knew. He had been called to look at James (Red) Forsythe, and had told them then:

"Don't call me down again until you get a blond."

Mr. Brooks, in cross-examining Thorne, asked him if he had not tried to sell his story of this affair.

"I did, a few months ago, yes," said Thorne.

He had offered the story, it appeared to a New York newspaper, referring to himself as the star witness for the defense and saying that his story would produce something of a sensation. The story he had written was produced in court by the defense and offered in evidence, but was not admitted.

Pasquale Clarizio, 20 years old, a stock clerk for the Dennison Manufacturing company, 62 East Randolph street, was the last witness for the defense. He was in the stockroom on that day, he said, and saw a man running down the alley leading from Randolph to Lake street between Michigan and Wabash avenues. A policeman was chasing the man.

Witness to Killing

"He is not the man I saw that day that Policeman Ruthy was chasing," declared this witness in a loud voice, as he was asked to look at Brothers.

Clarizio had been interviewed, it developed, by Capt. John Stege soon after the killing and had signed a statement in which he described the fugitive as 35 to 40 years old, weight 150 to 160 pounds, and with dark hair.

He said he had only glanced at this statement when he signed it, but still was in trouble about the hair, saying it was "not black."

It was soon after this that Mr. Piquett said the defense had made diligent search for other witnesses, but they could not be found, and the defense therefore closed its case.

Mr. Brooks said the state would be ready for rebuttal this morning.

Mr. Piquett and Mr. Krum are to address the jury for the defense, while Mr. Brooks is expected to handle it alone for the state.

FIRST DEFENSE WITNESS

The first witness placed on the witness stand by the defense was Vincent Veitch, a hotel clerk, who gave his address as 6019 Winthrop avenue. The examination was conducted by Attorney Piquett as follows:

Q.—Calling your attention to June 9, do you remember that day? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Tell the court and jury what you did that day? A.—I had an appointment. I thought it was for a quarter to twelve o'clock but I had made a mistake. It was for a quarter to one o'clock. I got to Wabash and Randolph where I was to meet this party at five minutes to twelve. I wandered about, wasting time. I saw a bag in the window of the Taylor Trunk company priced at $10 and I went in. There were about three clerks there.

In the Trunk Store.

Q.—What was the description of the man who waited upon you? A.—I don't remember very well except that he had an effeminate voice.

Q.—How long were you in there? A.—About 35 to 40 minutes altogether. The clerk very apparently wanted to sell me. He was very courteous.

Q.—Did you look out the window? A.—Yes, I was watching for the party I was to meet. I saw him finally and left the store very abruptly. I'm afraid I was rude, but I didn't want to keep the party waiting.

Q.—What time was it when you left? A.—I can safely say it was after 1 o'clock.

Prosecutor Brooks waived cross-examination of this witness. Defense attorneys had announced before the opening of court that this witness would testify that he bought a suitcase in the store and gave the name of Doherty. Albert W. Kelfstrom, a trunk buyer in the Taylor store and a witness for the state on Monday, had testified he sold a suitcase about 1:40 p. m., June 9, 1930, to Brothers who gave the name of Doherty.

O'MALLEY ON STAND

The second defense witness was Lawrence J. O'Malley, 7813 Evans avenue, a railroad switchman. With the beginning of defense testimony, Brothers appeared to assume a more cheerful aspect. He had worn a sober expression throughout the presentation of the state's case. Attorney Piquett examined O'Malley.

Q.—Calling your attention to June 9, 1930, were you in the loop that day?

A.—I got down about 11 o'clock to do a little shopping. About 1 o'clock I started for the Randolph street station of the I. C.

Q.—Did you go through the tunnel?

A.—I did.

Q.—Did anything unusual occur?

A.—Yes. A man was shot. I was six feet from the man who did the shooting.

Q.—Could you tell the man who did it? A.—I could.

Orders Brothers to Stand Up.

Attorney Piquett turned to Brothers. "Stand up, Mr. Brothers," he ordered. "Come over here, near to the witness. Now," turning to the witness, "is that the man you saw do the shooting?"

"No, sir, he is not," answered O'Malley.

Q.—Where did you last see this man? A.—In the county jail. I went with you and looked at him in the warden's office.

Q.—How was the man dressed who did the shooting? A.—He wore a gray suit and a straw hat.

Q.—Did you see the gun in his hand? A.—Yes.

Q.—How tall was the man who did the shooting? A.—He was shorter than I am.

Q.—How tall are you? A.—The man bumped into me and his forehead came to my nose. He was two or three inches shorter than me, and I am 5 feet 10½ inches.

Q.—How much did he weigh? A.—I wouldn't say he weighed more than 150 pounds.

Reads About It in Papers.

Q.—Did you know who the victim was? A.—No, sir. I read about it later in the newspapers.

Q.—Did you read in the papers about the arrest of Leo Brothers? A.—I read it not when they arrested him but when they showed him up.

Q.—Did you see a picture of Brothers in the paper?

Objections by the state to this question were sustained by Judge Sabath. Attorney Piquett asked O'Malley once again:

"Are you absolutely positive that the man you saw fire the shot was not Leo Brothers?"

"Yes, sir," O'Malley replied.

BROOKS CROSS-EXAMINES

Prosecutor Brooks cross-examined O'Malley.

Q.—You were a direct eyewitness to the murder, Mr. O'Malley? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—How long did you remain on the scene? A.—Not any longer than I could get to a train.

Q.—Did you report what you had seen to any official? A.—No.

Q.—Did you report what you had seen to any authority at all? A.—No.

Q.—Did you make an effort at any time to get in touch with any law enforcing agency of this city? A.—No.

"That is all," said the assistant state's attorney. Attorney Piquett renewed the questioning on redirect examination.

Q.—Why didn't you notify any one? A.—Well, I own my own home and I was making money, big money, at the time. I didn't want to be bothered—if it was a gangster killing.

Prosecutor Brooks again took the witness.

Q.—How long have you known Mr. Piquett? A.—Seven to nine years.

Q.—How did you meet Mr. Piquett? A.—Through my uncle.

Q.—Who's your uncle? A.—E. J. Searle. He's a precinct captain.

Q.—Your uncle is directly affiliated under Mr. Piquett in a political way? A.—Yes.

O'Malley was excused.

THE THIRD WITNESS

Harry J. O'Connor was the third defense witness summoned to the stand. Brothers was smiling, apparently with relief, at the testimony of O'Malley. He leaned forward, whispering eagerly to Defense Attorney Harry Cantwell.

O'Connor gave his address as 6311 Glenwood avenue, his occupation as a real estate dealer. The examination by Attorney Piquett proceeded:

Q.—On June 9, 1930, were you in the tunnel beneath Michigan avenue at Randolph street? A.—I was.

Q.—Did you notice anything unusual? Tell the jury what you saw. A.—I left my office about 1:15 or 1:20 to catch the 1:30 train at Randolph street for the races.

O'Connor was instructed to take the pointer and indicate his route to the station on the large chart which is in evidence before the jury.

"I was walking along Randolph street on the north side of the street," he said. "Just before reaching Garland court a friend of mine pulled up alongside in a car. I waved to him. He continued slowly along, talking to me. He shouted out: 'Be sure and bet on Hy Schneider.' I said: 'I've got him.'

"There were two men with me. I crossed the street and was within ten feet of the subway exit when I heard a very large report. I remember thinking it was a torpedo. The Fourth of July wasn't very far off. I stopped momentarily. Then I saw a man running along the ramp on the east side of Michigan boulevard. He held a hat in his left hand and was sort of hiding his face in his hat in order to prevent recognition.

Story Told to Prosecution.

Q.—Ever have occasion to go to the state? A.—I told this story almost word for word to Mr. Brooks, Mr. McShane, and Mr. Rathbun. When you telephoned me about testifying I called Mr. Brooks and he said there was no objection to my testifying. He thanked me for calling him. That was all.

Q.—How tall was the man you saw that day? A.—I thought about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches.

Q.—How much did he weigh? A.—About 140 or 150 pounds.

Q.—How was he dressed? A.—He wore a gray suit.

Q.—Did you notice the color of his hair? A.—No.

Q.—What kind of a hat did he have? A.—A sailor straw.

Q.—Were you asked to identify Brothers? A.—The prosecutors asked me. I said I couldn't identify him.

Brothers Again Steps Up.

Attorney Piquett turned to Brothers, sitting expectantly in his chair.

"Walk over here," he directed. Brothers complied. "Turn around," the attorney ordered. Brothers turned, slowly, gracefully, like a manikin in a style show. He stood with his profile to the witness, his shoulders squared, his eyes fixed forward.

Q.—Is this the man you saw that day? A.—I couldn't say. I don't believe he is that tall. Or that heavy. I don't believe he was that heavy.

Prosecutor Brooks made his cross-examination very brief.

Q.—Do you remember talking to me, saying you wanted no part of this case? A.—I didn't think I could identify anybody. He had his face in his hat.

Q.—And running as he was, with his face in his hat, you could hardly give an accurate estimate of his size? A.—I don't think hiding his face in his hat would have any effect on his height.

STEIN TAKES STAND

Albert Stein, 735 Bittersweet place, an employé in the county recorder's office, said he was a companion of O'Connor on June 9, 1930, as they went to take a train for the race track. He was also questioned by Attorney Piquett.

Q.—Was any one else with you and O'Connor? A.—Yes, Thomas Kane.

Q.—Tell us what happened. A.—I heard a shot fired. I saw a fellow running from the scene. I was five feet from the exit on the east side. I saw a fellow coming up the steps.

Q.—How tall was that man? A.—Two or three inches shorter than I am. I am 5 feet 10½ inches.

Q.—What was the color of hair of the man running? A.—The sun was streaming down. He had light hair.

Q.—Would you say he was a blond? A.—Yes, he was.

Q.—Well, there are several kinds of blonds. What kind would you say he was? A.—Well, a Scandinavian blond. On that order.

Q.—Did you ever go to the state with your story? A.—I talked with some gentlemen in the Temple building. I told them this same story. I went out to look at Brothers with Capt. Gilbert. I told him I'd never seen the man before.

Brothers was instantly on his feet, ready to enact his little scene when the lawyer turned to him. He walked over and faced the witness at a distance of about ten feet.

Q.—Was the man as tall as that? A.—No, sir.

Q.—And it's not the same man? A.—That is not the man I saw running from the scene.

Defense Quizzes Stein.

Prosecutor Brooks cross-examined:

Q.—How long have you known Mr. Piquett? A.—About a year.

Q.—Did you come out to look at Brothers some time ago at the request of the prosecution? A.—Capt. Gilbert asked me to come out.

Q.—Did you tell Gilbert you would never be able to identify the man—that you didn't want to be called as a witness? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you tell us that Mr. Piquett wanted to talk to you and did we tell you to go over and tell the truth? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you tell Capt. Gilbert it was a heavy man you saw that day? A.—Yes, sir.

WOMAN IS QUESTIONED

The women in the courtroom murmured when Mrs. Abigail Wilson, the first woman witness to appear in the case, was called to the stand by the defense. Mrs. Wilson spoke in a voice almost inaudible until she was asked to speak louder. Attorney Piquett examined her.

After testifying that she was the mother of four children and that her husband was employed as a division superintendent at Armour & Co., the questioning continued as follows:

Q.—Directing your attention to June 9, 1930, were you downtown? A.—Yes. I left home about 11:45 a. m. and had lunch with my daughter, Bernice, at the junior high school on Cottage Grove avenue. Then I came down on the I. C. and got off at the Randolph street station.

Saw Shooting, She Says.

Q.—Did you walk through the tunnel? A.—Yes. I saw a shooting.

Q.—How far were you away when it happened? A.—About ten feet, I would think.

Q.—Did you notice the man who did the shooting? A.—I saw him very well.

Q.—Did you see the man who fell? A.—Yes, but not so very good.

Q.—What was the color of hair of the man who did the shooting? A.—Light in color.

Q.—What do you signify by light? A.—Blond.

Q.—Would you say an extreme blond? A.—Yes. Pretty blond.

Q.—Did you see where the man went to? A.—I did not. I stayed around a few minutes, then went to Marshall Field's, where I was going to buy wedding clothes for my daughter, who was getting married on June 22.

Once again Brothers was asked to stand up and turn around.

Q.—Was this the man you saw that day? A.—It was not.

Four Questions by Brooks.

Cross-examination by Prosecutor Brooks was confined to four questions.

Q.—What is your husband's full name? A.—Howard Wilson.

Q.—How long have you been in Cook county? A.—About three years.

Q.—From that day to this you never told any official of the city, or county, or state what you had seen? A.—No.

Q.—And you understood and knew that an investigation was going on which needed such information? A.—Yes.

CALL MRS. WHITEHURST

Another woman was the next defense witness. She gave the name of Mrs. Helen Madeline Whitehurst, 11247 South Campbell avenue. She said her husband worked at the Commonwealth Edison company. Attorney Piquett began:

Q.—Calling your attention to June 9, 1930, where were you? A.—That was the Monday after my husband's pay day. I came down to go to the Davis store. I got off the Rock Island train at the station and went over to the store. Then I went to the gas people, looking for a laundry stove.

Q.—And then? A.—I went across Michigan avenue to the east side and started walking north.

Mrs. Whitehurst was here asked to point out her route on the chart.

Man Coming Out of Tunnel.

Q.—Did you see any one come out of the tunnel? A.—Yes. I saw a young man coming up the steps. Then I heard a shout: "Stop that man!"

Q.—Did you get a good look at him? A.—I certainly did.

Q.—How far were you away from him? A.—A couple of yards or so. I'm not such a good judge of distance.

Q.—What was the color of his hair? A.—A very light blond. I usually call it a cotton head. He kind of hesitated as if looking for somebody. He was bewildered like. Then he darted across the street.

Attorney Piquett spoke to Brothers. "Stand up, Mr. Brothers," he ordered. "Come over here and turn around."

"Is that the man you saw?" he inquired of Mrs. Whitehurst.

"No, sir," she replied.

Q.—Are you sure? A.—No, sir, that is not the man. I never saw that man before in my life.

UNDER STATE QUIZZING

Prosecutor Brooks subjected Mrs. Whitehurst to a longer cross-examination than any of the previous defense witnesses.

Q.—When did you first meet Mr. Roche? A.—I saw him when I went to ask him to investigate the murder of my second cousin, who was burned to death in January, 1930.

Q.—And you had a little argument with him, didn't you? A.—No. He was very pleasant and promised to investigate it.

Q.—Do you recall a police officer named Fred Joyner visiting you? A.—I say it was a visit. He came to get me.

Q.—You told him you would have nothing to do with Roche, didn't you? A.—Well, no; he was very rough and with such a mean face and after he manhandled me I told him I wouldn't go. I called my attorney and my attorney told me I didn't have to go.

Mrs. Whitehurst here launched into a long description of the interview with Policeman Joyner, detailing the manner in which, she said, the policeman had treated her. At the end of her talk the prosecutor announced there would be no further cross-examination of the witness.

Judge Sabath then adjourned the morning session until 2 p. m.

WRITER TESTIFIES

Paul Thorne, 4514 North Racine avenue, was called as the next defense witness at the opening of the afternoon session. He said he was a writer specializing in detective and mystery tales, naming two books he had written. Attorney Piquett questioned him.

Q.—Were you downtown on June 9, 1930? A.—Yes. I was over to the Daily News building and left there a few minutes before 1 o'clock. I took a Washington street bus at Canal street and rode to the southeast corner of Randolph and Michigan, where I got off to transfer to a north side bus.

Q.—What happened while you were there? A.—I had to wait 20 minutes for a bus, which was unusual. I heard a shot as I was standing on the curb. It came from the tunnel. I turned and walked towards the entrance and was within a few feet of it when a young man came up the steps.

"He was not over 5 feet from me," Thorne continued, "and he stood in the glare of the noonday sun. I saw him full face and profile. He hesitated a few seconds while I looked at him, then he dashed across the street to the safety island.

"As he continued on an automobile nearly hit him and he jumped back to the safety island. It was then that I heard behind me a shout raised, 'Stop that man!' I realized something had happened. I looked at the policeman and pointed out the man to him and repeated the cry. I saw the policeman take after him."

Q.—Then what did you do? A.—My bus came along and I got on it and went home. I was very anxious to get home.

Q.—Did you notify any one of what you had seen? A.—First I wrote an anonymous letter to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, then later I called the authorities and went to the bureau of identification, where I looked at a number of pictures. Still later on, when I read that the board of strategy had opened its offices in the Temple building, I saw Mr. Roche and Mr. Rathbun. Once I was called down to look at a suspect. I said it was not the man.

Describes Tunnel Fugitive.

Attorney Piquett asked Thorne to describe the man he saw coming out of the tunnel.

"I can describe him quite exactly," said Thorne. "He had on a gray suit, I would call it a slate color, a sort of grayish blue, double breasted, buttoned up. His straw hat was in his left hand.

Q.—What was the color of his hair? A.—A very light blond. Would you like me to describe it in detail?

Q.—Yes, if you please. A.—It was not a golden blond, but of the type sometimes seen on German or Scandinavian types. It was curly at the edges and fell over the face on either side of the head.

"Step up to the front, Mr. Brothers," Attorney Piquett instructed the defendant. "Now, will you tell the court and jury, Mr. Thorne, if that is the man you saw come out of the tunnel?"

Thorne descended from the stand and stood about four feet from Brothers.

"I am six feet tall and I had to look down at the man who came out of the tunnel," he explained. "You see, I have to look up at Mr. Brothers. The man who came out of the tunnel was a much shorter man."

Q.—Well, are you positively sure that this is not the man you saw that day? A.—I certainly am.

THE CROSS-EXAMINATION

Prosecutor Brooks gave Thorne a vigorous cross-examination.

Q.—You're a writer of fiction, isn't that it? A.—That's what it's termed.

Q.—A majority of your stories are mystery or detective stories? A.—Yes.

Q.—You heard a shot in the tunnel that day and were not even concerned? You didn't go down into the tunnel? A.—I did not.

Q.—You called to a policeman, then calmly got on a bus and went home, is that right? [Objections by the defense were overruled.] A.—Well, I did.

Q.—And what hour of the day did you see this? A.—I noticed it was 1:35 o'clock by the Wrigley clock a few minutes before.

Q.—What were the colors on the man's straw hat band? A.—I can tell you that. There were two colors, one red, a sort of maroon, and gray.

Talks to a Messenger.

Q.—You're quite an observing man? A.—I have to be.

Q.—Were you home that afternoon? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you discuss the case with any one? A.—Only with a messenger that happened to call.

Prosecutor Brooks suddenly fired this question: "Did you try to sell this story?"

"I did, yes, sir," replied Thorne.

Q.—And you declared this story to be a great sensation? A.—No, I didn't.

Prosecutor Brooks then read from a telegram sent to the New York Times by Thorne offering to sell the story and quoted the telegram which read: "The story will cause something of a sensation." The witness then admitted he had used those words.

A Question of Sensation.

Q.—Would you consider it sensational to join nine other persons in testifying for the prosecution in this case?

Objections by the defense to this question were sustained.

Q.—In these articles you attempted to sell you referred to yourself as a "star witness" for the defense, did you not? A.—Mr. Rathbun once referred to me as the star witness for the state.

An article containing Thorne's story as written by him was produced by defense attorneys. They asked that it be admitted into evidence.

"O, I'm going to object to any mystery stories being introduced into this case," said Prosecutor Brooks. His objection was sustained.

LAST DEFENSE WITNESS

Pasquale Clarizio, 20 years old, of 5111 Warwick avenue, was the last defense witness. He said he lived with his parents and was employed by the Dennison Manufacturing company, 62 East Randolph street, as a stock clerk. He also was questioned by Attorney Piquett.

Q.—Where were you on June 9, about 1:30 o'clock? A.—I have my lunch hour between 1 and 2 o'clock. I was sitting on a stool in the shipping room which looks out over the alley between Randolph and Lake streets.

Q.—Did you notice anything unusual? A.—I noticed a gentleman running down the alley.

Q.—Was any one chasing him? A.—Yes. A policeman and several fellows.

Q.—Did you know the policeman? A.—Yes. Ruthy, the policeman at Randolph and Michigan.

Q.—How far away was the man when he passed you? A.—About fifteen feet.

Q.—Did he have a hat on? A.—It was in his hand.

Q.—What was his height? A.—About 5 feet 8 inches, about my own size.

Q.—What was his weight? A.—About 150 pounds.

Brothers was asked to stand up and approach the witness stand.

"Now is that the man you saw running down the alley? Attorney Piquett asked.

Clarizio almost shouted: "He is not the man I saw that Ruthy was chasing that day!"

Hair of Light Color

Prosecutor Brooks immediately asked, when the witness was turned over to him, the following question:

"What was the color of the running man's hair?"

"Well, a light color," said the witness reluctantly.

Q.—What do you mean? A.—Well, it wasn't black.

Prosecutor Brooks produced a statement made by Clarizio to Capt. John Stege at the time of the murder.

Q.—Did you say at the time to Capt. Stege that a man in a gray suit with dark, black hair came running by?

After much parrying, Clarizio said he had made this statement. He declared he was "pretty well excited" at the time. He had also in his statement described the running man as 5 feet 10 or 11 inches tall and between 150 and 160 pounds in weight, he admitted.

A recess was taken and the defense then rested.

FACTORY TOILERS SET RECORD FOR CERMAK IN POLL

Cast 74% of Straws for Democratic Nominee.

Mayoralty Poll

Straw votes—	Cermak.	Thompson.	Totals.
Previously reported	16,747	9,193	25,940
Yesterday's vote	3,854	1,520	5,374
Totals to date	20,601	10,713	31,314
Percentages	65.79	34.21	100.00

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The mechanics and laborers showed up strongly for A. J. Cermak, the Democratic candidate for mayor, in the straw vote yesterday. A canvass was made of 23 factories, mills, plants, and shops.

A total of 3,580 straws was collected yesterday and more than 74 per cent of them expressed a preference for Cermak. This is the highest portion of straws which the Democratic nominee has obtained from any group of citizens so far canvassed. It is so high that possibly the same percentage may not be for Cermak at the polls, but it is certain that sentiment among the real workers favors Cermak decidedly.

Shows Striking Contrast.

This factory poll, in comparison with the 1927 factory poll, supplies some striking contrasts. At the Illinois Steel plant yesterday 84 registered for Cermak and 34 for Thompson. In 1927 Thompson obtained 53 straws at this same plant to 17 for Dever and four for Robertson.

The Pullman shops gave Cermak 114 straws yesterday and Thompson 27. Four years ago Dever obtained 97 and Thompson 85 and Robertson 21.

At the Pressed Steel Car company yesterday Cermak received 20 and Thompson 8. In 1927 Thompson got 15 and Dever 6. The McCormick Harvester works gave Cermak 79 yesterday and Thompson 38. At this same plant four years ago Thompson got 87 and Dever 46.

At the Deering Harvester works Cermak obtained 119 yesterday and Thompson 42. In 1927 Thompson obtained 43 and Dever 13. Still another illustration is supplied by the Karpen Carpet factory. Cermak there yesterday was given 313 and Thompson 99. Four years ago Thompson's straws numbered 153 and Dever's 79.

A comparison of the 1927 factory poll—when Thompson carried the election by more than 83,000—with the factory poll of yesterday is supplied by the following two tables:

1927 POLL OF FACTORIES.

24 plants—	Dever.	Thompson.	Robertson.	Totals.
Straws	1,660	1,850	249	3,759
Per cent	44.16	49.21	6.63	100.00

1931 POLL OF FACTORIES.

	Cermak.	Thompson.	Totals.
Straws	2,655	925	3,580
Per cent	74.16	25.84	100.00

In addition to the poll of factory workers yesterday, selected street corners were also canvassed for the purpose of ascertaining the effect of certain propaganda. The results obtained at the street corners are summarized as follows:

	Cermak.	Thompson.	Totals.
Straws	1,199	595	1,794
Per cent	66.83	33.17	100.00

The total 5,374 straws collected yesterday from both factory workers and on certain street corners, were distributed among the candidates as follows:

	Cermak.	Thompson.	Totals.
Straws	3,854	1,520	5,734
Per cent	71.72	28.28	100.00

The list of the factories polled yesterday, with the straws for each candidate, follows:

A Night Letter from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ari., March 31.—[Special.]—In this little gay home in the west, where I have been ever since I can remember, there is a rule that none of the inmates is to be disturbed between 2 p. m. and half past 3. During that hour and a half we are all supposed to be taking a nap.

Well, the young mulatto lady who keeps the thermos bottles supplied with fresh water crashed into my cell today at a quarter after 3, did her chore, and walked out. She was observed by a nurse and severely reprimanded. The nurse asked her whether she had found me asleep. "I ain't sure if he was or not," said the mulatto young lady. "He was writing on that little typewriter." From which it may be inferred that she is one of my readers.

Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Strawn, and Russell Tyson.

Woman from His Home Ward Praises Cermak

The independent women's committee in the campaign headquarters of Anton J. Cermak yesterday made public another of a series of interviews with women who are supporting Cermak. Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank heads the committee.

Asked why she was going to vote for Cermak, Mrs. Edward F. Dombrowski, 2556 Fitch avenue, a director in the Polish Welfare association, said:

"I lived in Mr. Cermak's ward all my life until recently. I've known him since I was a little girl. There isn't a better man in Chicago."

WM. R. DAWES SAYS CITY NEEDS CERMAK VICTORY

Makes Plea to End Tax Fund Extravagance.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Speaking as a representative of the business men's committee that is supporting A. J. Cermak for mayor, William R. Dawes, three times president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, a life long Republican, made an emphatic radio appeal for the Democratic nominee.

"Chicago," he said, in opening his speech, "is confronted with a civic crisis. The gravity of the situation can scarcely be exaggerated."

And again in closing he spoke of the "grave responsibility upon the voters.

"Great Need for Change."

"A due regard for the best interest of Chicago will compel your presence at the polls," he said. "There should be no standing on the narrow ground of political, racial, religious or social bias.

"Emphatically there is a great need for a change in the management of Chicago's affairs. Business requires it. Chicago's reputation will suffer without it. The only practical way to accomplish this change is to vote for Mr. Cermak."

Before taking up his detailed argument on behalf of Cermak the speaker criticised the present city administration.

"The deplorable state of the finances of the city and the board of education," he said, "has handicapped their current operations, has delayed needed improvements, and has seriously interfered with the normal functioning of county and state activities.

"No Effort to Economize."

"A voluntary, nonpartisan citizens' committee effected some measure of legislative and temporary financial relief. The succeeding inertia of the present city administration, however, practically nullified the accomplishments of this committee.

"There was no apparent concerted attempt to economize on expenditures or to enforce remedial policies of administration. There seems to have been a sad lack of business judgment, to say the least, in the discharge of the ordinary everyday duties of the administrative offices of the municipality.

"Tax burdens have increased enormously without those corresponding benefits which should accrue from efficient administrative control."

He commented on the lack of a sense of "civic responsibility" and said that Chicago's reputation has suffered in the last four years through loss of confidence in the administration.

Finds Progress Slower.

"Mayor Thompson," he went on, "is claiming credit for everything of a constructive nature that has occurred in Chicago for the last four years. The facts do not justify any such claim. The momentum of the growth and progress of Chicago has materially lessened under his administration.

"Municipal affairs have been characterized by inattention, inefficiency, and extravagance. There seems to be too little evidence of a wholehearted intelligent devotion to civic duty and the public welfare."

Dawes said that a continuation of this condition "can be nothing but detrimental to the best interests of the city" and then told why he and the business men associated with him in this movement are for Cermak.

"Our confidence in Mr. Cermak," he said, "is based upon his known ability as a public administrator and upon his record in public office. As president of the board of commissioners of Cook county he has given substantial evidence of his business and administrative ability and his purpose to administer public affairs in a commendable manner."

Points to Cermak's Record.

Explaining that his allotment of time would not permit him to go into a more thorough analysis of Cermak's record, Mr. Dawes took up two phases of that subject, the construction of the present Criminal court building and county jail and the purchase of forest preserve lands.

In connection with the first of these the speaker told of Cermak's appointment of a commission headed by Joseph R. Noel which supervised the location, the plans, and the letting of contracts.

"It is a matter of public record," the speaker said, "that the Criminal court building was constructed at a low cost to the taxpayer and without suspicion of graft or misuse of public funds."

Meet at Stadium.

In an effort to equal the attendance mark for massmeetings set by Cermak last week the city hall machine marshaled forces sufficient to fill the Chicago Stadium last night. The crowd was surprised when Thompson failed to use up the full hour it was announced he would speak. He talked slightly more than half an hour and, when he finished, there was a scurry to find a speaker to finish out the hour on the radio. Joseph P. Savage, a member of the school board, and Michael Kelly, an employé of the board, filled the gap.

Thompson's speech was the one he has been making ever since the primary.

WOMEN CHEER CERMAK AT TWO BIG GATHERINGS

Crowds Attend North and South Side Meetings.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

In the ballroom of the Drake hotel yesterday a throng of more than 1,000 women of Swedish extraction heard and applauded Anton J. Cermak and a coterie of his campaign speakers.

On the south side, Negro women of both parties staged a "lost luncheon," so designated because the crush was so great it became almost impossible to get to the tables in the Grand Terrace café, at Oakwood boulevard and South Park way, where the event took place. Besides Mr. Cermak, speeches were made by Judge Harry M. Fisher, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

Both the main floor and the balcony of the Drake hotel ballroom were filled to capacity with Swedish supporters of the Democratic nominee. Mrs. John E. Ericsson, a Republican, is chairman of the Swedish-American Women's Cermak for Mayor organization, which sponsored the gathering. The meeting gave Mr. Cermak a hearty welcome when he arrived on the platform.

Women Are Speakers.

Resolutions endorsing his candidacy and deploring the "present mismanagement" of the city were adopted by the women.

Mrs. Conkey, Mrs. Fairbank, Mrs. Peter Delin, Miss Genevieve Corkell, and Mrs. Othelia Myhrman presented their reasons for preferring Mr. Cermak to pilot Chicago through the World's Fair era rather than his opponent.

Mrs. George Bass will preside this evening at a formal dinner in the gold room of the Congress hotel for Mr. Cermak.

More Women Back Cermak.

Tomorrow evening the Hyde Park League of Women Voters will hold a meeting in Mandel hall at the University of Chicago, to which both nominees for mayor were invited.

Two new organizations of women advocating the election of Cermak were announced yesterday from Democratic headquarters in the Ashland block. Mrs. James M. Van Slyke heads the Better Citizenship Committee for A. J. Cermak for Mayor. The organization is composed of students and business girls. Mrs. Joseph W. Serhan was named head of the Bohemian Women's Cermak for Mayor club, with Mrs. Otto Kerner and Mrs. F. J. Fara vice presidents.

JUDGE DENIES ELECTION BOARD PLEA ON SUITS

Judge Thomas Taylor of the Circuit court yesterday overruled 22 demurrers to the mandamus suits which seek to compel the board of election commissioners to replace the names of the candidates of several parties recently stricken from the ballot by the election board. The hearing will be resumed today.

Even though Judge Taylor rules in favor of the petitioners, it was apparent that only the candidates of the two major parties will appear on the ballot. Former Gov. Edward F. Dunne, counsel for the election commissioners, said that he will appeal to the Illinois Supreme court if the court rules in favor of the ousted candidates. A decision from the higher court would not be handed down until after the election.

Injunction proceedings to restrain the election board from omitting the other party candidates from the ballot were dismissed by Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel on the ground that the action was a duplication of the suits pending before Judge Taylor.

FINANCIAL PLAN OF CAR MERGER MADE OPERATIVE

Final Consolidation Waits on U. S. Court Action.

Actual merger of the surface and elevated lines into the new Chicago Local Transportation company approached a step nearer reality yesterday when Halsey, Stuart & Co., reorganization manager, in a formal statement declared operative the financial reorganization.

Holders of approximately 175 million dollars' worth of the outstanding securities of the lines have indorsed the plan, according to the announcement. These indorsements, in the opinion of the reorganization officials, were sufficient to warrant the declaration that the plan is operative and ready to be carried out through the proceedings in the federal court.

Explains Officials' Action.

"The significance of today's action," explained Charles F. Clarke, president of the Local Transportation company and one of the Halsey-Stuart officials, "lies in the fact that it marks the consummation of a plan which originated on Dec. 6, 1928, when the citizens' transit committee was appointed, and of all the steps which followed in the legislature, city council, and at the polls when the plan was approved by the people. All that remains to be done will be done in the federal court."

Everything possible is being done to expedite the federal court proceedings, Mr. Clarke said. Attorneys have been working for several weeks drafting the papers and documents which must be presented to Judge James H. Wilkerson for his approval.

Court Action Necessary.

The court action is made necessary because the properties of the surface lines are now being operated by receivers appointed by Judge Wilkerson. If the court approves the sale of the properties to the new company the consolidated organization will then be in a position to accept the transit ordinance approved at the referendum and to start unified operation immediately.

Under the ordinance the unified lines will be augmented by subways through the loop and feeder bus extensions in the outlying territory. A universal transfer system is to be established.

The new company is pledged to spend 65 million dollars in improvements and extensions during the first three years of operation.

Hope for Speedy Completion.

"There is no way of determining the exact time the new company will commence functioning, as this is dependent entirely on the court," said the statement of Halsey, Stuart & Co. "There is danger always that the organization can be delayed by appeals, which would prove costly to the riding public and the city. It is hoped, however, that the proceeding will be completed in the shortest possible time.

"As reorganization manager, we call attention to the tremendous accomplishments of the groups which have contributed so much to the successful consummation of the transit plan. Its consummation will mark the dawn of a better transportation day for a greater Chicago and marks the fruition of the labors of the citizens' committee headed by James Simpson, chairman of Marshall Field & Co."

Most of Securities Available.

As a result of ten months work by the security committees, it was explained, all of the securities necessary to the transfer of the elevated line properties into the new company are now on deposit, while more than 86 per cent of the surface lines securities have been deposited or are available as parties to the plan. Included in the available securities are 86.5 per cent of the first mortgage bonds of the Chicago Railways company [18th and west side lines], and 88.5 per cent of the first mortgage bonds of the Chicago City Railways company [south side lines].

The Halsey-Stuart officials announced that while the federal court's approval of the decree of sale will be sought immediately, it has been decided to give those who have not yet deposited their securities a further opportunity to do so. The time for such deposits has been extended to April 15.

Efforts to have the State street property owners reach an agreement on the State street subway are to be made today at a luncheon at the Chicago Athletic association, Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, announced yesterday.

Mr. Faherty said he would point out to representatives of the property owners that it would be unprofitable to them to stage a court fight.

NO TAX BOOST IF CONGRESS KEEPS WITHIN BUDGET

Hoover Plans a Program Without Increase.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 31.—[Special.]—Although the government is faced with a deficit of from 800 million to 900 million dollars by July 1 next President Hoover announced today that the budget he will present to congress next December will call for no increase of taxes.

If it should become necessary to boost taxes it would be as the result of the next congress increasing expenditures above the amount contained in his budget, according to the President.

"There will be no increase in taxes," said Mr. Hoover at the press conference, "if the next congress imposes no increase upon the budget or other expenditure proposals which the administration will present.

"But for congress to do this the people must cooperate effectively to discourage and postpone consideration of the demands of sectional and group interests."

Bars Special Relief.

By the "demands of sectional and group interests" the President meant such proposals as the export debenture farm relief plan, loans to veterans, and appropriations in the nature of a dole for the relief of sufferers from the drought and economic depression on the farms and from unemployment in the cities. In the last congress the President accused the authors of dole "proposals of "playing politics at the expense of human misery."

Mr. Hoover made his statement to the press immediately following the cabinet meeting at which the business situation and the finances of the government were thoroughly canvassed. Previously the President had discussed the estimates of expenditures of the executive branch of the government for the fiscal year 1933 with Col. J. Clawson Roop, director of the budget. The question of holding down appropriations by the next congress the President also discussed with Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.], majority leader of the senate and Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], assistant leader.

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon did most of the talking at the cabinet meeting and his opinion that a tax raise would not be necessary was what determined the President to make his announcement carrying reassurance to the business interests which have been disturbed by recent disclosures of the mounting deficit coupled with demands for a tax boost.

Mellon Sees Upturn.

Mr. Mellon reported that there is evidence of a distinct turn for the better in business conditions. Industry is reviving and unemployment is diminishing. He gave it as his opinion that the corner is turned at last and that a steady improvement may be counted upon. It is this revival of prosperity, even if it be extremely slow, that the treasury secretary is relying upon to produce the revenue eventually which will wipe out the deficit without resort to increase of taxes.

The President's reference to congressional tampering with the budget evoked an answer from Senator William E. Borah, radical Republican of Idaho, who is demanding higher taxes on large incomes.

"The record is," said Senator Borah, "that for the past two years congress has appropriated less than the budget called for."

He was willing to help cut expenditures, he said, by cutting out the 90 million dollar naval building program. For his part, he remarked, he had been ready during the last congress to omit the 30 millions for modernizing the battleships Mississippi, New Mexico, and Idaho.

He did not know, he said, to what the President referred when he mentioned the demands of sectional groups.

"But if he had such legislation as the veterans' bonus in mind," said Senator Borah, "ther I agree with him."

They are Joe Solare, 18 years old, of the Cortland street address, and Edward Howard, 19 years old, 1642 Dixon street.

William Newman, superintendent for J. O. Stoll & Co., magazine distributors, reported that two armed men entered the company warehouse at 2453 West Grand avenue while he was alone and compelled him to surrender $400.

Two men robbed the National Tea company at 1523 Dayton street of $30 after terrorizing a clerk, Miss Anna Beckins.

T. A. T. STARTS NEW HIGH SPEED SCHEDULE TODAY

New York to Los Angeles in 33 Hours.

New York, March 31.—[Special.]—Transcontinental Air Transport, often called the "Lindbergh line" since Col. Charles A. Lindbergh surveyed the route and acted as technical adviser to the company, was opened on July 7, 1929, on a forty-eight hour combined air-rail schedule of which the railroad legs were operated by the Pennsylvania railroad and the Santa Fe railroad. C. M. Keyes was the first president of the line.

The company was combined with the Maddux company early in 1930 and J. L. Maddux became president, Mr. Keyes taking the chairmanship of the board. In the first year of operation 30,000 passengers were carried.

Two Lines Merge.

After the passage of the Watres act, permitting airmail operators to carry passengers with mail loads and passenger airline operators to carry airmail, an operating merger with Western Air Express was formed on Nov. 2, 1930, under the corporate name Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc. A thirty-six hour schedule between New York and Los Angeles was maintained. This schedule included an overnight layover in Kansas City. Tomorrow a new schedule goes into effect on a thirty-three hour basis, the night stopover being maintained.

Many innovations for passenger comfort were made on the line. Motion pictures and bridge games became ordinary pastimes in the air. Meals and light refreshments were served.

Fares Are Reduced.

Early in 1930 fares were reduced to a point slightly below the total of railroad and Pullman fares for first class accommodation, but were later again raised somewhat, so as to average about 7 cents per mile.

A very elaborate ground organization, with landing fields, intermediate emergency fields, and a full system of radio and weather reporting is part of the equipment of the line.

New Chicago-Detroit Service.

Detroit, Mich., March 31.—[Special.]—Trans-American Air Lines corporation, division of Thompson Aeronautical corporation, pioneer mid-western United States air mail, passenger, and express carrier, will formally link Cleveland, Detroit, and Chicago with fast, frequent, thorough United States air mail, passenger, and express services, utilizing amphibions and tri-motored land transports tomorrow.

The army flying corps will play an important rôle in inaugurating the new services, with 58 planes of the first pursuit group of Selfridge field, Mount Clemens, Mich., under the command of Maj. G. E. Brower, participating. The entire formation, operating with the aid of radio, will meet the Detroit bound amphibion from Cleveland over Canada and escort it to Detroit, later taking off with the first tri-motored mail plane to accompany it for a part of the way to Chicago.

Mail Pilot in Auto Crash.

Cleveland, O., March 31.—(AP)—Robert P. Hopkins, 30, crack air mail pilot for the National Air transport, was critically injured early today when he drove his automobile into a concrete abutment of the high level bridge which spans the Cuyahoga river.

Chicagoans Plan Air Race Course with Pari-Mutuals

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Chicago aviation promoters are planning to borrow the glamour of horse racing and to combine it with the speed and thrill of flying for the purpose of establishing here the first permanent air race course in the world. Pari-mutuel betting would be a part of this novel venture.

These plans became known yesterday when it was learned that Prof. Fred D. Fagg, manager of the air law institute of Northwestern university, and Maj. Reed G. Landis, air adviser to the Cook county board, are drafting a bill which may be introduced at the present session of the state legislature with a view to making pari-mutuel betting on air races legal.

Idea of Maj. Schroeder.

This plan to popularize air racing originated with Maj. R. W. Schroeder, Chicago aviation pioneer, who yesterday signed a lease for Sky Harbor airport, west of Glencoe, where, according to reports, the first air race track will be established if the state legislature sanctions the proposed bill.

Associated with Maj. Schroeder in the management of Sky Harbor will be Lawrence W. Scudder, an early organizer of aviation companies in Chicago, and George Fisher, former manager of the airport.

Maj. Landis said yesterday that the revenue which would accrue from taxation of the air race fields would contribute substantially to the support of the proposed Illinois Aeronautical commission. A bill seeking the establishment of such a commission is pending before the house. Maj. Landis also pointed out that the chief revenue of the state agricultural department is derived from taxing turf tracks.

See Benefit to Industry.

Those who are sponsoring the new plan believe that popularized air racing would result in greater speeds for airplanes and would benefit the aviation industry in general. Under the proposed legislation each race course would be properly supervised by the aeronautics commission and the planes and pilots carefully selected.

If the plan is adopted several weeks of continuous air racing, participated in by the country's foremost speed flyers, would be held in Chicago each summer.

HERO OF CRASH OF SHENANDOAH KILLED IN AUTO

Akron, O., March 31.—(AP)—Lieut Charles E. Bauch, 34, U. S. N., assigned to the staff of the Zeppelin Akron, died in a local hospital today from injuries received when the auto in which he was riding crashed into a bridge last night.

LIEUT. C. E. BAUCH.

Bauch is well known in the aeronautical world as a pilot of airships and racing ballons. He was one of the Shenandoah crew members to escape death when the dirigible crashed in Ohio in 1925.

Lieut. Bauch is survived by a widow at Lakehurst, N. J. He was born May 26, 1897, at Boston, Mass., and attended Tufts college, Boston.

In the Shenandoah crash he directed the free ballooning of the after end of that craft safely to the ground, saving many lives.

ARREST SUSPECT IN KIDNAPING OF WEALTHY BREWER

Claim Other Victims Have Remained Silent.

Herman Weiner, 35 years old, 426 Surf street, is being held by Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office on a charge of kidnaping for ransom, a crime punishable by death.

Weiner is alleged to have been the leader of a band of men who seized Frank Richley, a resident of Evanston, described by prosecutors as a wealthy brewer, in Evanston last Wednesday and kept him a prisoner until he had finished paying a total of $4,000 for his liberty.

Suspect Other Kidnapings.

According to Roche and to Assistant State's Attorney James E. McShane, Richley made no report of the kidnaping to the authorities. They believe that his case was only one of several that have occurred recently, the victims usually being men engaged in some illegal business and consequently unwilling to draw attention to themselves. The trail in one of the other kidnapings led to Weiner and Roche's investigators discovered later that Richley had been made to pay.

Rather reluctantly Richley admitted that he had been held a prisoner. He maintained, however, that he did not know his captors.

Compromise on Ransom.

According to Mr. McShane, there were five men in the plot. The Evanstonian was blindfolded by them and taken to a hotel room in Chicago, where they demanded a percentage of his income regularly. He is reported to have refused and the men demanded $5,000. A compromise on $4,000 was later agreed on.

Richley paid $500 which he had with him and the following day was taken, Mr. McShane said, to a bank. In front of it the kidnapers removed Richley's blindfold, but replaced it with a pair of dark glasses. They also donned colored spectacles themselves. These precautions prevented the kidnaped man from recognizing his captors.

While the five men sat in an automobile Richley entered the bank and cashed a check for $1,000, which was taken from him when he reëntered the car.

Friend Pays Balance.

The same day a friend of the victim got in touch with the kidnapers and paid the remaining $2,500. It was through this go-between, whose name is being withheld, that the authorities learned Weiner was the principal figure in the plot. Richley was uncertain whether Weiner's quarters on Surf street were the scene of the captivity, it was said. Weiner, however, was found there.

Weiner is known to the police as a west side hoodlum who had been arrested several times on robbery charges.

HOUSE GROUP O. K.'S MEASURE TO REOPEN LA RABIDA MISSION

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—[Special.]—Following the appearance of George F. Getz, Chicago capitalist, and others before the house committee on municipalities today the Schnackenberg bill to allow the mission of La Rabida—a sanitarium for children convalescing from heart disease—to be reëstablished in Jackson park was reported back to the house with a unanimous recommendation that it pass. From the 1893 World's Fair until 1918 the old mission stood on a promontory just south of the 63d street beach, and it is planned to rebuild it on the same spot.

Mr. Getz and Dr. Robert A. Black of Chicago told the legislators that the group of 250 women headed by Mrs. Louis H. Orr, 5225 University avenue, has raised $300,000 to rebuild the sanitarium. The institution is nonsectarian and is operated through charity. In recent years it has been maintained in various quarters in the city.

Mr. Getz pointed out that Jackson park has every advantage for the well child and that it now is possible to make it a haven for the sick or convalescing child. Thomas E. Wilson, John J. Mitchell Jr., Judge Henry Horner, and George W. Dixon are members of the sanitarium advisory board, he said.

REPEAL BILL ON GOVERNOR'S DESK BY TOMORROW

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—[Special.]—The O'Grady-McDermott state prohibition law repealer is expected to be laid on Gov. Emmerson's desk either tomorrow or Thursday, ready for submission to Attorney General Carlstrom for an opinion on its legality. The governor's friends are predicting today that he will not veto the measure. He has ten days in which to act.

Within forty-eight hours after it reaches the Supreme court building the bill will be sent back to the governor, with an opinion, the attorney general said today.

The line of attack now being planned by the drys is reported as a fight on the title of the repeal bill—the declaration being made that the law is unconstitutional because the title is faulty. Liberal leaders did not seem much impressed by the charge.

A resolution calling upon congress to repeal the Volstead act and all other federal prohibition legislation was introduced in the house today by Representative James P. Boyle [Dem., Chicago].

"A great majority of the individual reports of the members of the Wickersham law enforcement commission favor a modification of the present stringent prohibition regulations," the resolution read. "The repeal of the present federal legislation—referred to as the Volstead act—would of itself and without the necessity of constitutional change, return to the several states the whole subject of prohibition regulation for legislation conforming to popular opinion and demand in each particular state."

CAPONE APPEAL IS PRESENTED IN CONTEMPT CASE

The bill of exceptions in the case of Al Capone, chief public enemy, who is appealing from a conviction and sentence to six months in jail for contempt of court, was presented by Attorney John J. Goshkin to the United States attorney's office for approval yesterday. The bill must have the approval of Federal Judge Wilkerson before it is filed with the Circuit Court of Appeals. Assistant United States Attorney Jacob Grossman said the case would be rushed with the hope of having it heard during the April term of the court. Capone was charged with feigning illness to dodge appearance before a grand jury.

Saw Still Through Window, So Dry Seizure Is Upheld

Charges that prohibition agents entered the home of his client, Julius Schmidt, 1339 Sheffield avenue, without a search warrant were made yesterday by former United States Commissioner James P. Walker held Schmidt to the grand jury.

CHICAGO GAINS 3 CONGRESSMEN IN REDISTRICTING

Tentative Plan Drawn by Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—[Special.]—The metropolitan area was taken today as a basis for congressional reapportionment by the joint subcommittee of senate and house. An understanding was reached that in drafting a tentative remap to submit to the legislature the counties of Lake, Will, and Du Page should be lumped with Cook county and that this area should be carved into fourteen new congressional districts. The drafting department was instructed to proceed on this theory in preparing its charts. The proposal was approved by downstate members as well as those from Cook county, and it was argued that by using the metropolitan district as a base the downstate antagonism against giving Cook county full representation in congress will tend to evaporate.

RICHARD J. BARR. [Associated Press Photo.]

Among those supporting the proposal was Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet, Republican leader of the senate. He argued it would tend to remove opposition and to make more sure a congressional redistricting this session.

An Aid to Chicago.

"Under such a plan," said Senator Barr, "Cook county would be sure of a minimum of 13 congressmen, and it might have 14, depending on who won in the outlying districts."

At present under a districting system which is thirty years old Cook county, with more than one-half the population of Illinois, has only ten of the twenty-five district congressmen, and Lake county is included in one of the districts, the Tenth. In other words, 54 per cent of the population has only 40 per cent of the congressional districts, and five of these have dwindled into vest pocket boroughs

Two congressmen are elected at large, due to the failure to reapportion. In carving the state 27 new districts are to be created, and under a strict application of the census Cook county, with 52 per cent of the population, would get 14 seats.

Metropolitan Area Enlarged.

By retaining Lake county in the general area and adding the 200,000 population in Du Page and Will counties, the metropolitan area as the proposed basis for remap, would contain 4,289,240 inhabitants. These would have 14 districts. The average population of each district would be 306,000. The precise ratio, if the population is divided by 27, would be around 282,000 to an Illinois district.

NEW BILLS GIVEN FOR LEGISLATION IN STATE ASSEMBLY

Police Reserves Put on Duty in Area.

Approximately one thousand commission wagon drivers and helpers, members of the Commission Wagon Drivers' union, local 703, employed in the South Water market, will refuse to go to work this morning as a protest against a proposed cut in wages and increase in hours, it was learned last night. Employés of the Fulton street, Randolph street, and 71st and State streets markets will not be affected.

Contracts between the market associations and the unions, signed on April 1, 1930, expired at midnight last night. Members of the Market Service association, composed of the South Water group, refused to sign a new agreement under the old terms, it was stated. According to union officials other market associations have agreed to retain the old wage scale.

George C. Brodeson, assistant secretary of the South Water Market association, said last night that members of the association had no desire to create an open shop but were making preparations for the hiring of non-union men if the union persisted in its present attitude. Two hundred policemen were ordered held in reserve this morning in stations near the market area at Racine avenue and 14th street.

William Hanley, secretary of local 703, said it was not a strike but a lockout. "We are willing to work," he said, "but the association insists that we go to work at 5:30 instead of 6:30 a. m. and receive no overtime. Drivers of big trucks would be cut from $42 a week to $31. Wagon drivers would be cut from $38 to $31 a week and helpers would be cut from $36 to $30 a week."

LAWS TO PURIFY ELECTIONS URGED ON EMMERSON

Commission Suggests One Primary in August.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—[Special.]—Measures to purify elections, thwart vote thefts, ballot box stuffing, short penciling, and padding of registry lists were recommended today to Gov. Emmerson and the general assembly by the Illinois commission on revision of election laws.

MILTON J. FOREMAN.

Fewer elections and smaller ballots in place of the present horse blanket sheets are urged as prime reforms. Widespread dissatisfaction with the direct primary system is reported by the commissioners. They suggest that one election day be held each year in November, with polls open from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. and that primaries should be moved from April to August.

Personnel of Commission.

The commission, which was appointed by Gov. Emmerson two years ago, is composed of County Judge E. K. Jarecki of Chicago, Judge James S. Baldwin of Decatur, and Gen. Milton J. Foreman. The secretary is Harris Dante and the attorneys are Robert L. Taylor and Cassius M. Doty. The report represents two years of research into election law problems.

Some of the suggestions, as the proposed change in the primary date, have already been controversial matters in the assembly for weeks, the argument being advanced that before the primaries were shoved from September to April defeated candidates had no time to contest nominations.

On direct primaries, the commission says it has not yet arrived at any fixed view as to whether they should be continued or abandoned. Without making any recommendation it says:

"We have encountered a widespread dissatisfaction with the system of nominating candidates of political parties by direct primary elections.

"It was asserted the system is so burdensome and expensive that only those possessed of great wealth, or backed by powerful and influential groups capable of procuring large campaign funds, can aspire to be nominated for important public offices.

"It was contended by many that direct primaries had removed from party leaders all sense of party responsibility for the character and qualifications of party candidates without destroying the capacity of the managing groups of political factions to secure the nomination of candidates of their own choice. It was insisted the system has contributed to a general deterioration in the quality of candidates for public office."

Chief Recommendations.

Chief among the fifteen specific recommendations which the report sets forth are:

1. That the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November be made an annual election day; that all elections except primaries be transferred to the fall to occur in different years on that day. The plan is that of a cycle of elections in each period of four years which will include all elections which now take place in November in the even numbered years, and also all elections which now are held in the spring. Elections of judges of the Supreme court and of Circuit courts are fixed for June by the constitution.
2. Primary dates to be changed from April to August. The commission says this "will make campaigns shorter, less expensive and laborious and will give to the people a season each year when public attention will not be agitated or disturbed by election matters."
3. Abolish nominations by caucus. Increase the signatures for independent petitions for state office to 25,000, for other offices not less than 5 per cent of the votes in the district who voted at the last election. Require that names of all independent candidates be printed on the ballot in a single column.

Decrease Paper Expense.

This will decrease the immense amount of white paper at the right of the blanket ballot.

4. Put all state-wide propositions on the general ballot.
5. The hours of voting at all elections should be from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m.
6. Make judges and clerks officers of the court, so that they may be effectively disciplined for misconduct or neglect of duty.
7. Purge the registry each month of the names of deceased and convicted persons.
8. Where tally sheet show signs of tampering, let the ballots be recounted in the precincts affected, the results to be substituted in the canvass without filing a contest.
9. Where illiterate need aid in marking ballots, provide that none shall get such assistance unless he has sworn at time of registration his inability to mark his ballot for himself.
10. Create a state election commiswide registration.

The commission reports it found a sentiment for trial of the office group type of ballot.

On the short ballot it recommends a study be made of elective offices which might be made appointive.

WOMEN CAN SERVE ON ILLINOIS JURIES, FEDERAL JUDGE SAYS

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—(AP)—The right of women of Illinois to serve on juries was upheld by Judge Louis Fitzhenry in federal court here today in denying a motion for a new trial of the J. C. Hubinger company of Keokuk, Ia., convicted with nine Springfield men of violating the federal prohibition laws.

Judge Fitzhenry in a lengthy opinion rejected the plea of the convicted men, which was based on the contention that woman juries in Illinois are not legal. Voters of the state, the pleas set forth, had no right to act on such a proposition.

Judge Fitzhenry cited numerous decisions of other courts and went into detail to show that women have as much right under the present laws to serve as jurors as men.

The Hubinger company was charged with selling sugar for use in the manufacture of liquor.

AUTO THIEF SUSPECT DIES.

1,000 KILLED IN MANAGUA QUAKE; MANY AMERICANS

Nicaraguan City Is Laid in Complete Ruin.

legation and causing property damage estimated at $30,000,000.

At least 150 persons were killed and probably the same number injured, reports just before midnight said, in the national penitentiary. Until the prison walls are cleaned up the number of dead and injured cannot be ascertained exactly.

The marines took over immediately, declaring martial law and superintending the removal of the dead and injured. Hundreds were treated at the one hospital left standing.

Water mains burst at the first shocks. Telegraph wires were down, railroads destroyed, and the only means of communication with the outside was by airplane and radio.

Fortunately, a large part of the population was out of town, most of them having gone to the seashore for the holy week holidays.

All the American women and children who were not killed or injured were put up for the night in the marine barracks, and many other homeless families were sheltered in pup tents and any sort of temporary accommodations which could be arranged.

Rolling kitchens were issuing soup and coffee, but food was scarce. Supplies were expected quickly from the Red Cross and other agencies.

Over it all Col. Frederic L. Bradman of the marines took charge. The falling masonry of a collapsing building struck him on the head, but he stayed on the job.

American Minister Is Safe.

M. E. Hanna, the United States minister, was in Guatemala when the blow fell, but as soon as he was informed as to what had happened he boarded a plane with Mrs. Hanna and started back here.

The duration of the quake was brief, but it brought down the greater part of all the buildings in the city, especially the higher ones.

Fire immediately started in the central market, which was crowded with women and children. It was reported one section of the market collapsed, enveloping 35 persons. The Lupone hotel, the largest in the city, had but one wall standing and dead and injured in the building could be seen from the street.

Women Flee from Flames.

Scenes in the streetes were indescribable. Screaming women, many with children in their arms, ran from the flames and falling buildings. Many of the streets were completely impassable, so choked were they with debris. A pall of smoke overhung the city.

The steel frame of the cathedral remained standing, but all other churches were in ruins.

The lighting power plant was still in working condition, but the current was cut off as a safety precaution, leaving the city in darkness.

Irving A. Lindberg, resident high of customs, was in the National Palace when the walls came tumbling down. He and 30 employés got out safely, but Mr. Lindberg's chauffeur was killed by falling masonry. It was believed that at least 100 others in the palace perished.

U. S. WARSHIP ON WAY

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
PANAMA CITY, March 31.—Rear Admiral St. Clair Smith, commanding the special service squadron here, ordered his flagship, the U. S. S. Rochester—the famed old New York of the Spanish-American war days and the navy's oldest service battleship—rushed out of the Balboa dry dock at a moment's notice this morning and left this afternoon for Corinto, Nicaragua, with doctors and medical supplies for the quake victims. Shortly after the naval cargo ship Salinas also left with supplies. They are due in Nicaragua Friday morning.

Admiral Noble E. Irwin, commanding the fifteenth naval district, also ordered the oil tanker Sapelo, as well as the United States navy geodetic survey ship, the Fulton, to be ready to sail for Corinto immediately. Two amphibian planes will leave the air station at Coco Sale at dawn for Managua. The cruisers Ashfield and Sacramento will also leave tomorrow for Corinto.

The hospital ship Relief, which was accompanying the American fleet north en route to San Pedro from the recent naval maneuvers, has been ordered to return to Corinto. The Relief transferred all its patients to battleships of the fleet.

American Civilians Safe.

Washington, D. C., March 31.—[Special.]—No members of the American civilian population at Managua were killed during the earthquake today, according to a dispatch received at the state department from Willard Beaulac, second secretary of the American legation, although several deaths were suffered among the American service men and their wives.

Another message said no American casualties occurred among the personnel of the second brigade, marine corps.

HOOVER ORDERS RELIEF SENT TO QUAKE VICTIMS

Airplanes and Ships to Rush Aid to Nicaragua.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 31.—Within fifteen minutes after the first news of the Nicaraguan disaster reached the White House all the relief machinery of the American government had been set in motion. President Hoover took immediate charge of relief arrangements and personally telephoned the heads of the war and navy departments, as well as the Red Cross, to make every effort to aid the sufferers of the earthquake stricken city of Managua.

ERNEST J. SWIFT.
[A. P. Photo.]

Tonight aid is being rushed by aircraft carrier, airplane and surface ships to the Nicaraguan capital. Following a meeting in the Red Cross building this afternoon attended by army, navy and state department officials, a central relief committee was organized to operate from Washington. One of the first acts of the Red Cross was to turn over $10,000 to Secretary of State Stimson for use as an emergency fund pending completion of the Red Cross relief plans.

Ample Supplies at Hand.

A quick survey of facilities at hand disclosed that the Red Cross was amply supplied with relief facilities, while the army and navy has supplies of tents, cots, blankets, medical stores, and food which could be transferred to Managua from the Panama Canal Zone, ships and various sections of the United States. Among the immediate emergency steps were the following:

Army officials advised officers at the Panama Canal Zone to do everything possible to assist the victims of the earthquake. The army transport Cambria, at San Francisco, was ordered to prepare to depart for Nicaraguan waters without delay.

The navy department ordered the huge airplane carrier Lexington to proceed at once from Guantanamo bay, Cuba, to Bluefields, on the eastern coast of Nicaragua, about 150 miles from Managua. Planes from this vessel will be sent across the republic, if necessary, as a relief measure.

Red Cross Chief on Way.

Ernest J. Swift, acting director of insular and foreign operations for the Red Cross, left Washington tonight by train for Miami. If weather conditions are favorable he will go by plane from the Florida city to Managua. He has been directed to take charge of relief forces at the Nicaraguan city.

It was estimated that about 2,500 Americans are in Nicaragua. According to marine corps records, 1,440 marines are stationed there. With them are seventy-five surgeons of the medical corps of the navy. An army engineer battalion, engaged in surveying a route for the projected Nicaraguan canal and numbering 148 officers and men, is also there. Ten diplomatic officers are stationed in Nicaragua and the lists obtainable here showed 845 American civilians in the republic.

MEXICO FORBIDS BROADCASTING OF CHURCH SERMONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, March 31.—No sermons in Mexican churches will be allowed to be broadcast over the radio by an order of the department of the interior today. Previously churches, when disposed, have broadcast sermons or other services of Catholic or other church societies.

The government has ruled that the clause in the constitution, which decrees that public worship shall be within the walls of churches, applies to broadcasting.

Catholic circles believe that it is a move to block Catholic propaganda because the church was preparing to take advantage of the enormous sales of radios in Mexico during the last year to reach greater numbers through this medium.

King Carol Demands Early Crowning Without Helene

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 31.—(AP)—King Carol today expressed the wish to be crowned ruler of Rumania shortly without Princess Helene, who has persistently refused a reconciliation. King Carol returned to the country on June 6, 1930, after five years in exile, and was proclaimed king a month later, superceding the Crown Prince Michael.

Wife Divorces Explorer Andrews; 'Away Too Much'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 31.—The long absence of the famous explorer, Roy Chapman Andrews in the Gobi desert, Mongolia, and other archeologically interesting places, cost him his wife today, when Yvette Borup Andrews won her divorce in the Paris courts on the grounds of desertion. They were married in 1914.

STATE INCOME TAX BILL BRINGS WORDY WRANGLE

Chicago and Downstate Solons Clash.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—[Special.] Closing a bitter joust between Cook county and downstate members, the senate voted to third reading the Lantz income tax bill late today. No record vote was taken but the ayes seemed concentrated on the Republican side, the Democrats being vocally strong but numerically weak in the opposition.

Legislative reapportionment, the expiring bug-bear of the session, stalked through the debate to tantalize the downstaters and drew from one, Senator Andrew S. Cuthbertson [Rep., Bunker Hill], the heated ultimatum, "Once and for all, Cook county will never get reapportionment until it consents to limitation in one house."

"And Cook," replied Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago], just as heatedly, "will get reapportionment when it sends a Chicago governor down here."

"I can live under a Cook county governor," said Cuthbertson.

"Wait just one more year, senator, and you will," was Ward's parting shot.

How Controversy Started.

This controversy grew from the demand of Senator Simon E. Lantz [Rep., Congerville] to push his bill, imposing a tax on net incomes of all residents of the state, from second to third reading. Ward and several others, including Senator Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago] objected. A number of Democratic senators from Chicago were absent.

"Can't this go over a week?" Ward asked Lantz. "Our minority leader, Senator Courtney, couldn't be here today and since the bill so vitally affects Chicago we should give every one a chance to talk for or against it. Can't it wait?"

"Move it to third reading today," said Lantz, shortly, "and then you can vote it up or down when it comes up for passage."

"What's the rush?" cried Ward. "Cook county will have to pay the bill. Why saddle this additional taxation on us? The farmers won't pay it. They're busted now. This is just one more case where Chicago will pay and pay.

A Talk on the Mayoralty.

"Some of our Democratic senators are up there today trying to elect a mayor. We haven't had a mayor in Chicago for a number of years. We're already disfranchised and now you want to put another tax upon us."

This reference to the denied reapportionment drew the fire from Cuthbertson and when it had died down the bill was advanced to the passage stage over the protests of most of the Chicagoans.

COMMUNIST IDEA A MENACE, SAYS WOLL; FIGHT IT, HE URGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 31.—[Special.]—Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, tonight assailed communism as a world menace threatening the security and economic well-being of nations outside of Russia.

MATTHEW WOLL.

Speaking under the auspices of the National Security league, Mr. Woll warned Americans to be "on guard against soviet communistic attempts to drag the citizens of this country to the level of Russians of today." He pledged the full support of the American Federation of Labor in a drive to combat communism.

"We," Mr. Woll said, in emphasizing the opposition of organized labor to communism, "are opposed to communists and communism at every point. We are opposed to their despotic government, to their economic system of state socialism, to their abolition of personal liberty, to their state monopoly of all education and culture—and above all, we are opposed to their system of forced labor. posed to their system of forced labor."

SEEKS DAMAGES OF HUSBAND FOR AUTO INJURIES

Little Rock, Ark., March 31.—(AP)—Mrs. William Katzenberg of St. Louis has asked the Arkansas Supreme court to decide whether she can recover damages from her husband whom she charged with "carelessly and negligently driving the family automobile off a road and injuring her."

The Crawford county circuit court sustained her husband's demurrer, saying she was entitled to nothing on the ground that a wife cannot institute such action against her spouse.

Forthwith she appealed to the higher tribunal.

The accident occurred near Wynne, Ark. Mrs. Katzenberg claimed she was pinned under the car as it turned over.

NOVICE PLUNGES 1,200 FEET IN PLANE; MAY DIE

A novice pilot with only a few hours of flying experience fell from an altitude of 1,200 feet and crashed on the lawn of a Willow Springs home yesterday noon, incuring injuries which may prove fatal.

The flyer is Ralph C. Wilson, 23 years old, of 3243 South 7th avenue, La Grange. He holds a student pilot's license. He is the son of Mrs. Laura O. Wilson, clerk of Lyons township. Physicians at the Hinsdale sanitarium, where he was taken after the crash, said the flyer had suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries from which he might die.

Wilson had taken off from the municipal airport earlier in the morning in a Great Lakes trainer biplane, the property of the J. & L. flying service at the city field. He was seen cruising about over Willow Springs by Chief of Police C. L. Burg, who watched his maneuvers from the tower of the city hall.

At an altitude of 1,200 feet, Chief Burg said, the plane suddenly faltered and started spiraling toward the ground, wabbling in a fashion that indicated that the pilot was fighting for control of his craft. The plane crashed on the lawn of R. A. Knief, 4241 South Franklin avenue, barely missing the roof of the home. The engine was buried in the ground and the pilot thrown forward from his seat in the rear cockpit.

HOUSE HOLDS UP JOLIET'S MONEY TILL QUIZ ENDS

Acts on Motion Made by Igoe.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—[Special.]—Because a legislative committee has not completed its investigation of the Joliet prison riots the $25,000,000 appropriation bill for the state department of public welfare—the agency that controls the penitentiaries—was held on second reading in the house of representatives this morning instead of being advanced to third reading, the passing stage.

Representative M. L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago], a member of the committee, moved the postponement.

"If you advance this bill," Igoe told the house, "you are, in effect, telling the committee to cease its work. We are not through there and we will have some legislation to propose when we end our sessions. Some of it may make a change in the appropriation. I say, let it stay on second reading for a time." No opposition from the administration forces ensued and the measure was not pushed.

Pass Appropriation Bills.

Just prior to that the house had passed appropriation bills totaling $25,264,256 without a dissenting vote. These bills will supply operating expenses to the state treasurer, the secretary of state, the department of public works and buildings, and the fifty-eighth general assembly—the 1933 legislature.

During the day resolutions were passed in both house and senate calling for the appointment of a joint committee to visit prisons in Ohio, New York and New Jersey and compare the convict work being done in those institutions with that performed at Joliet and Stateville. Since many of the complaints from the prison have been that the prisoners have nothing to do, the committee wishes to bring back suggestions that may result in new industries being started in the penitentiaries.

No committee has yet been named in the house. In the senate Lieut. Gov. Sterling appointed Senators Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet]; John Broderick [Dem., Chicago], and Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield] to represent the upper chamber. No date has been set for the departure of the group.

Parole Board Defends Self.

Joliet, Ill., March 31.—(AP)—The state board of pardons and paroles today issued a reply and an ultimatum to attacks on its administration of cases at Illinois' twin penitentiaries, stating that "clamors inside and outside the walls will not deter us from following out the laws laid down for our guidance."

Over the signatures of Chairman W. C. Jones and other members here for their regular monthly meeting to consider the cases of prisoners seeking parole the board said it "did not intend to let prisoners fix their own sentences or sit in on its deliberations."

The board assumed responsibility for administering parole laws and asserted its willingness to transfer the duty "to other hands if the time ever comes when the demands of prisoners are to prevail."

Will Enforce the Law.

"The board will continue its present policy of giving every prisoner careful and honest consideration," the statement said. "No prisoner will receive any the best of it because of influence and no prisoner will receive any the worst of it for lack of it.

"We assume full responsibility for our administration of the law, and we do not intend to let prisoners fix their own sentences or sit in on our deliberations.

"We owe a duty to the law-abiding citizens of Illinois to protect them against murderers, rapists, gangsters, gunmen, and other wilful violators of the criminal code. Clamors inside and outside the walls will not deter us from following out the laws.

"All laws providing for prisoners' conduct will be taken into consideration in prisoners' application for parole and only those who conform to prison regulations will be entitled to consideration.

"If the time ever comes when demands of prisoners are to prevail, or any external influences or pressure shall be substituted for the judgment of the board in its determination of cases, then the members of the board will be perfectly willing to transfer the administration into other hands."

A CATECHISM FOR TAXPAYERS.

Q.—Now that Judge Kavanagh has refused to enjoin the county officials from issuing the tax bills, is it fair to assume that the bills will be in the hands of the taxpayers within a few weeks?
A.—Yes.

Q.—In general, are taxes in Chicago going to be higher or lower than in the last bills? A.—They will be higher.

Q.—How much? A.—On the average, about 20 per cent.

Q.—That is, if my last tax bill was $500, I must expect to pay $600 this spring? A.—Precisely. There will be slight variations in the increase, depending upon the park district within which you live, but your statement is substantially correct.

Q.—And the valuation of my property, I assume, is substantially the same as it was before. A.—That is right. Some changes have been made by the assessors and reviewers, but they are not striking. Certainly there has been no general lowering of assessments throughout the city. You will be fortunate, indeed, if your valuation has not been increased. Therefore you must expect to pay a fifth more this spring than you did before.

Q.—And if I don't pay it my property will be sold for taxes? A.—Certainly.

Q.—Is it possible to fix the responsibility for the increase in taxes? A.—It is.

Q.—How can you do so? A.—By noting the tax rates for the various governments within Chicago. Here is a comparison between the rates contained in your last bill and the rates as they will be contained in your next one:

	Last bill.	Next bill.
State	$ .30	$ .39
County	.46	.45
Forest preserve	.10	.09
Sanitary district	.46	.57
City	1.75	1.99
Schools	1.53	2.04
Total	$4.60	$5.53

You see that the total increase is 93 cents. To that must be added the increase in the rates for the parks, but that varies somewhat. The west park rate will be 8 cents less than it was in the last bill; the south park rate will be 7 cents higher, and the Lincoln park rate 5 cents higher.

Q.—My property is on the south side. According to your figures my tax rate, then, will be exactly $1 higher than it was last time. That is, for every $100 of valuation I will have to pay $1 more than I did before? A.—Precisely. I should add that the figures are not mine. They are the official figures as announced by the county clerk.

Q.—And of that $1 of increase, the schools alone account for 51 cents, a little more than half? A.—That is correct.

Q.—And the city government, which pays for the police and fire departments and removing garbage and that sort of thing, accounts for another 34 cents? A.—Precisely.

Q.—So that exactly 75 cents, or three-fourths of the increase, is to be credited to the city and schools together? A.—Right.

Q.—Does the mayor appoint the school board? A.—He does.

Q.—And is he the chief executive of the city? A.—He is supposed to be.

Q.—So that if any one is responsible for this three-fourths of the tax increase it is the mayor? A.—I don't see how that conclusion can be avoided.

Q.—Now let's take a look at some of the other rates. I see that the rate for the state is up 9 cents. And the sanitary district rate is up 11 cents. But here is the county rate, which is lower by 1 cent. And the forest preserve rate is also 1 cent lower. To whom do we owe these decreases? A.—The county board is also the forest preserve board. Therefore, we owe those savings to the county board.

Q.—Who is the chief executive of these two governments? A.—Mr. Cermak. He is chairman of both boards.

Q.—And while Mr. Thompson's governments are costing the taxpayers an increase of 75 cents in their tax rates, Mr. Cermak's governments are costing the taxpayers somewhat less? A.—Precisely.

Q.—Do you suppose the taxpayers are going to bear these facts in mind when they go to the polls next week? A.—You may draw your own conclusions.

WARNING TO THE SQUIRES.

A standard bit of sophistry in the excuses of the Illinois squirearchy for nullification of the constitution and denial of equal representation to Chicago is that the masses of the city, in their uniformity of purpose and action, would have a devastating influence on legislation. That theory is a self-evident fraud, revealed as such to the squires themselves by experience. The city is a field of criticism and debate. Its opinions are diversified. Its citizens are not in regiments. They are individualistic and inquiring. They divide along many lines. On nearly every important question they go before the legislature pro and con.

Rural constituencies present a much more solid front of common interests promoted by united action than city constituencies ever do. The city seldom insists that rural Illinois shall accept an idea which will not work well elsewhere than in a metropolitan area. It is legislative practice to restrict legislation required in Chicago to the city alone by the customary classification of cities by population.

Downstate Illinois has had no evidence of a city menace in fact or in prospect, and the repeated reference to it is mere chicane. Chicago has asked for fair treatment and equal rights with continuing good nature, expecting, evidently, that a sense of justice must soon prevail in the general assembly. It will be natural for this spirit to change to one of resentment.

It is not to be expected that citizens will submit to inequalities in government with never a thought of reprisals, that a majority will take its legislation from a minority and be contented with the results. That is a fighting issue, and, in spite of the fact that the people of Chicago are slow to unite for a common purpose, this question is one which eventually will unite them. Then the minority represented in the squirearchy may find that the political consequences are as unpleasant as they are unfortunate. The squires will be suppressed by administrations elected by Chicago to retaliate upon a misguided minority which would not give fair play and which overestimated its own immunities.

STEAL OR STARVE?

A leading railway president has recently declared in a public address that he would steal rather than starve. The assertion is discussible, but hardly debatable. The law of self-preservation is pretty generally understood to be paramount. Men have been sent to jail for acting upon it, but that was because the agencies of the law did not admit that starvation was the only alternative to the theft. This, in fact, is the weakness of the law of self-preservation in practical operation. Few will deny that they would steal rather than starve. Fewer still will deny that a man may be justified in stealing if his only alternative is starving. So the railway president's generalization breaks no new ethical ground. It is not required of men that they should die rather than invade a right of ownership in property.

But why public assertion of an unchallenged principle at this time and in this country? In spite of the recent condition of food shortage, even of famine, in some districts in the United States, starvation is not an alternative that actually presents itself to Americans to justify stealing. There has been a food shortage in certain relatively small drought stricken areas. The whole nation rushed to the aid of the sufferers. They were hungry and alarmed, but they did not starve. The assertion that it is justifiable to steal rather than starve is therefore either merely academic or it is an excuse for stealing, a moral covering for a weak acceptance of conditions or for a deliberate dishonesty. It is neither practical nor timely, and however harsh conditions may be for some of our people these conditions do not justify a relaxation of respect for the rights of others. The declaration has the appearance of a warm humanitarianism, but its practical influence is demoralizing.

FOR MORE SEVERE DEPRESSIONS.

Income tax rates were increased this year, but in spite of the higher rates the government is spending more than it is receiving. The deficit, according to a recent estimate, will soon amount to seven hundred million dollars, or more. This is startling, if not alarming. Mr. Borah and Mr. Norris are convinced that something must be done about it.

They are agreed that the thing to do is raise taxes. The deficit exists, of course, because congress has appropriated more money than it could expect to receive from the taxes it imposed. It apparently did not occur to either of the senators that reduced expenditures would solve the difficulty.

The government's income has been reduced because business has been poor and profits have shrunk. Many corporations are paying their dividends in whole or in part from the earnings of previous years. Unemployment is serious, but it would be far worse if corporations and individuals did not have the accumulations of better years to fall back upon now. The program of higher taxation promises a more rapid depletion of the pools of capital upon which the business of the country draws in times like these. Heavier taxes on the incomes of individuals and corporations are a long step in the direction of more severe and protracted depressions in future.

Editorial of the Day

RECITATIONS.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

What is it that makes a recitation live for generations? Nobody can tell. When Fitz-Greene Halleck wrote "Marco Bozzaris," did he imagine it echoing through the one room little red schoolhouse all over America? Did Mrs. Caroline E. S. Norton think she had done something wonderful in "Bingen on the Rhine"? She surely could not have pictured an international assassin like Conradi as a soldier of the Legion lying dying in Algiers. When Tennyson wrote about the "Noble Six Hundred," making the last word rhyme with "blundered," would he have been more careful if he had foreseen the verse as a common recitation? Puzzles persist.

We are told that at the age of 80, in California, Rose Hartwick Thorpe recently listened to a broadcast from New York of the words she wrote when she was 17, "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight." It is no exaggeration to say that this was recited by some budding elocutionist in every hamlet of America. The story, imagined by a girl in her teens, sticks in a million memories, the maiden whose lover was to be executed when the curfew bell rang, who couldn't persuade the faithful but deaf old sexton not to ring it, and who climbed up into the belfry and held the bell clapper with her hands. And then the climax:

"O'er the distant hills came Cromwell; Bessie saw him and her brow,
Lately white with sickening terror, glows with sudden beauty now;
At his feet she told her story, showed her hands,
all bruised and torn;
And her sweet young face so haggard, with a look so sad and worn,
Touched his heart with sudden pity, lit his eyes
with misty light;
'Go, your lover lives,' cried Cromwell. 'Curfew shall not ring tonight!'"

We may suppose that there is something soft somewhere in the hardest heart, something that responds to a thrill of pity or of enthusiasm. Possibly Kipling's "Gunga Din" and "Danny Deever" will stick longer in more people's minds than his "Recessional," just because they lent themselves finely to recitation. The highbrow critic may scorn them, but he has precious little influence over vogue with the masses, and hence is fairly negligible.

CROSS-BREEDING AMONG HUMANS.

It is not possible to say that cross-breeding races makes a new race that is either better or worse than the parent stocks. The difficulties of such study are great, far greater than those of crosses in lower animals. Economic considerations, political equations, climatic conditions, religion, domestic affairs, temperament, customs, and many other elements are factors in the problems of crossing of human races.

In spite of all these difficulties a fair number of studies have been made and a few conclusions are possible. Probably the most scientific studies have been those made in Scandinavian countries and that relate to crossing of Lapps with Swedes and other Scandinavian peoples. Next in scientific rank are the studies made in Java of crosses between Dutch and natives. Studies of crosses between whites and blacks have been made in North, Central, and South America, and in Africa. Those made in South America are more valuable than those made in North America because of outside influences present in North America that create cross currents.

One of the conclusions arrived at by the studies taken collectively is that the different human strains are pretty closely related, because crossings between them do not result in loss of fertility. Contrary to some loosely held notions, mulattoes of all dilutions are just as fertile as either whites or blacks. If two animal strains are far removed from each other they cannot cross or, if they do, their progeny are infertile. Not so with human strains.

Taking all qualities collectively Davenport, who writes on this subject, thinks crossing between French Canadians and Indians resulted in a stock which is superior to either of the parent stocks. Another cross which has proved advantageous from the racial standpoint is that of Chinese and Hawaiians. On the other hand, certain crossings have not resulted in improvement. The crossing between whites and blacks belongs in this class. However, there is some inaccuracy which comes from too much generalization. Certain qualities may be improved in crossings where the sum total represents a loss, and vice versa.

MENDELIAN LAW.

Blue Eyes writes: Both my mother and father had blue eyes. I have a brother with brown eyes. The other brother and my two sisters have blue eyes. My husband and I both have blue eyes. We have four brown eyed children and five blue eyed.

BUTTERMILK.

S. C. H. writes:

1. Is buttermilk fattening?
2. What causes the stomach to swell after eating?

REPLY.

1. Not very. It contains an abundance of water and almost no fat. However, if one eats considerable food and drinks freely of buttermilk in addition he will put on fat.
2. You refer to a feeling of fullness after eating. Among the causes are overeating, overdistending the stomach with fluids, rapid eating, air swallowing, constipation, reverse peristalsis due to gall bladder trouble, eating improper foods.

DEFERRED PAYMENTS.

Chicago, March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I purchased a radio on time. Was unable to meet some of the payments and reached a verbal agreement with the store to cut the payments in half. Have kept payments up to date according to new arrangement, which was made eight months ago. Now I receive a letter from collection manager instructing me to pay the amount due to date according to original agreement or to let them send a man out to refinance the balance. 1. If I am unable to meet the demands and keep up payments according to new agreement can they take the radio? 2. What is the maximum lawful percentage they can charge for refinancing? M. S.

1. It is probable that the contract is so worded as to give them this right.
2. Depends upon what it is that is covered. If the refinancing charges are in fact a subterfuge to take the place of interest, then they would be covered by the following statement: The maximum that can be stipulated for by contract is 7 per cent per annum in ordinary cases. In absence of agreement as to interest 5 per cent is allowed after due on notes or other instruments in writing; on money lent; on accounts settled; on money received to use of another and retained without owner's knowledge; on money withheld by an unreasonable and vexatious delay, and on judgments. Pawnbrokers may charge 3 per cent per month, and licensees of state board of trade and commerce may charge 3½ per cent per month on loans of $300 or less. An agreement to pay more than the legal rate is usurious and only the principal can be collected. Under 1929 statute the 7 per cent limit does not apply to collateral loans exceeding $5,000. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

AFFIRM INSTEAD OF SWEAR.

Chicago, March 30.—[Friend of the People.]—1. At what court are petitions for citizenship filed? 2. What is the form or what are the words for people whose religious belief does not permit them to swear? H. W.

1. In Chicago, the United States District court.
2. Such persons may affirm.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director U. S. Dept. of Labor.

LOST DIVORCE NOTICE.

Chicago, March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Could my husband get a divorce from me without me knowing about it if I have not been out of the city of Chicago at all? We have been separated three years, he having left me at that time. Please let me know if this is possible and where I can go to get information how and when it was done. A. J.

The statute authorizes the securing of divorce on notice by publication and mailing in special cases, such as where an affidavit is filed that the defendant's residence is unknown or that he is a nonresident. Obviously, such a notice might miscarry. A divorce secured on a false affidavit is invalid. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

GOODNESS, April First! R. H. L.

THE DANGER OF BEING FOOLED TWICE

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 1, 1915.

WASHINGTON.—The destruction of the British steamer Falaba by a German submarine, causing the death of Leon C. Thresher, an American citizen, brings the United States face to face with the gravest question yet presented to it by the European war. If the circumstances of the sinking of the ship by a torpedo and killing of more than 100 passengers are correctly reported, they constitute in the view of the United States a violation of the law of nations. The United States will seek to determine the responsibility for the sacrifice of the life of Thresher and to obtain redress.

LONDON.—King George has added his plea to that of the ship owners and, in some cases, to that of the Laborites themselves, that some vigorous measures be adopted to cope with the question of drunkenness, which it is urged is delaying the delivery of munitions of war. The king has volunteered, if it is considered advisable, to give up the use of all alcoholic liquors and to issue an order against their use in the royal household. According to German newspapers received here, the German federal council has passed an order strengthening regulations regarding the sale of liquor in Germany. The order permits authorities of each state, at their discretion, to limit or prohibit the sale of spirits.

PARIS.—The ministry of war statement says that in the Champagne there have been artillery actions in the region of Beausejour and Ville-sur-Turbe, and that in the Argonne, between Four de Paris and Bagatelle, fierce fighting at some points was so close that a trench mortar struck by a heavy bomb of the French was projected into their lines.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 1, 1901.

LONDON.—The emperor of Germany and the czar of Russia, according to dispatches, are satisfied that they have been selected as targets of assassins. News from Kiev is that an officer of the czar's household fired directly at him and, missing, committed suicide before he could be arrested. While Emperor William leans to the belief that the injury inflicted on him by Deitrich Weiland at Bremen recently was from an air gun, investigation is afoot to determine whether Weiland had been an associate of anarchists or Socialists.

MANILA.—Capt. Frederick J. Barrows of the 30th volunteer infantry, quartermaster of the department of southern Luzon, together with seven commissary sergeants and a large number of others, has been arrested on the charge of wholesale frauds in government supplies, the full extent of which is not yet known, but which are said to have amounted to not less than $100,000 a month.

CAVITE, P. I.—Lieutenant Commander Jesse Mins Roper of the United States gunboat Petrel lost his life during a fire in the sail room of the gunboat trying to save the lives of some of his men. Twenty-two of the men were seriously prostrated.

CHICAGO.—Frederick E. Coyne assumed the duties of postmaster of Chicago, succeeding Charles U. Gordon.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 1, 1881.

NEW YORK.—Secretary of the Treasury Windom came up to New York to have a talk with financial men of the east. He brought with him Attorney General MacVeagh, J. J. Knox, controller of the currency, and others. Many prominent bankers flocked to his hotel to meet Mr. Windom. Among these were John A. Stewart, Jesse Seligman, Franklin Haven and Joseph B. Moors of Boston, and H. E. Thompson of St. Paul. The venerable Peter Cooper also visited Mr. Windom.

LONDON.—There was great anxiety throughout the country regarding Lord Beaconsfield's condition. The queen sent special messengers to make inquiries in addition to receiving hourly bulletins from the sick man's bedside.

LONDON.—Herr Most was indicted and remanded to prison without bail. It is denied that any foreign pressure has been used to induce the government to undertake proceedings against Most's paper, Die Freiheit, which published an approval of the murder of the czar.

AT ORCHESTRA HALL.

Chicago, March 27.—After years of weary stair climbing to the gallery of Orchestra hall, I have discovered the existence of an elevator, which, for no reason whatsoever, remains motionless and unused, and which, if put into use, would prevent much suffering and indignation on the part of the gallery patrons.

When one, finally exhausted and panting, reaches the last portal to heaven, there stand three ushers, one of whom is ready to stab with forbidding glare any one who has the courage and strength to comment on the system, such as it is.

The discipline by this usher over the patrons causes one to feel almost like a child under the stern, cold rule of a cruel schoolmaster and tyrant. And as for smoking—words fail me!

I am disgusted; yet I know that I shall still keep on attending every Saturday night to hear the greatest symphony in the world play the greatest music of the universe. Regardless of all I have said, I shall climb wearily, until I shall be too old; then out of sheer pity maybe they will send me up in the elevator, which I reiterate should be put into use. GALLERYITE.

DIANA.

Evanston, Ill., March 25.—I feel as though Miss Harriet Monroe and Diana need a little more support, and I am delighted to offer mine.

The critics of that work of art are hampered by prejudice. They are accustomed to seeing their marble and bronze women in the conventional poses of cultivated maturity. Even young girls, in the usual methods of sculpture, assume studied poses of extreme grace which would be ridiculous in the flesh.

The subject of Diana is, however, not one of grace, culture, or studied poses. Here is a wild creature, a huntress. The keynote of her being is her intense activity, her muscular life. She's physical, not mental or social. She's dynamic, virile, vital and savage, and yet she's a goddess. Her ethereal quality of unearthliness is most remarkably portrayed by Mr. Milles. Here's a huge piece of bronze weighing several hundred pounds, and by its line and arrangement of forms it becomes the weight of a feather. She's alighting on the reeds as a bird would, and weighs as little. To emphasize this impression he has employed the large, heavy mass of bronze below the small marble figures in the water. Such weight, such a handicap of flesh these figures have! They climb laboriously or lie heavily and are full of lust.

All of this translation is not needed to explain the beauty of the piece, but to allay the prejudices of the habit forming human mind. ALLEN B. WILSON.

THE MAKING OF COMMUNISTS.

Chicago, March 26.—I have read in the newspapers that a large mail order company is venturing into the insurance business. This is just another encroachment into the field of the independent business man by big business and should be prohibited by law. Why cannot such a large concern be satisfied with its present line of business instead of constantly trying to grab more and more? It is just those tactics by big business institutions that makes communists of the average American citizen. E. C. R.

SLAVERY.

Chicago, March 28.—So "C. B.," who voiced his view on marriage in the March 27 edition of THE TRIBUNE, has for ten years lived with his wife posing as a little tin god. How can a man, whose wife permits him to dominate her and make a slave out of her, love and respect her? She is as human as any man and deserves the same right and privilege to live. A woman's mental ability and intelligence has been proven to be superior to that of man. C. B.'s wife must not be of average intelligence to permit a mere man to dominate her so that she is not permitted to live her own life. I wonder if the Hon. Mr. C. B. thinks he is making his wife happy or just kidding himself along by telling himself what a man he is! Why, some of the slaves in the old days had more privileges than he permits his wife. If I were he, I would not advertise what a stupid woman he married. If a man and wife loved each other, there would be no necessity of either one dominating the other. R. A. B.

A NEW USE FOR THE HEAD.

Chicago, March 27.—Now that C. B. has discovered what is wrong with marriage, I suppose we should take down our hair and have a good cry. This big hearted little fellow who buys his wife's clothes, tells her when to wash and iron, what to eat and how to cook it, and allows her to go to a show once a month, should be allowed to sit on a tack. What's wrong with his wife? Dead from the neck up or merely using her head to keep her ears apart? M. L. M.

THE SOFT ANSWER.

Chicago, March 27.—In my home I wear the pants and we have an ideal home. My husband never tells what I should do. Just let him start. If he tried to he would get his block knocked off. L. S.

A MIRACLE.

Chicago, March 27.—After a couple of years he probably stretches his heart and buys her a dress. Imagine! It's a wonder he hasn't had strychnine in his coffee before this. M. E. B.

YOU COULDN'T TREAT ANNIE THAT WAY.

Chicago, March 27. — I think C. B. must have taken his wife from an orphan asylum when she was a baby and raised her with a club. How about building a cage for him and putting him in the Lincoln park zoo? Then we could all have a look at him.

ELIZABETH MCCARTHY.

THE THEFT OF BICYCLES.

Chicago, March 25.—Why does one boy steal another's bicycle? My boys have had three bicycles stolen, one being recovered after it had already been painted another color. Do those boys that steal them think the other boy is made of different material? The boy that owns a bicycle loves his bicycle and to have it stolen is a shock to him. Often they are saved for and the boy that takes it for ten fingers never attempts to save for one and often the parents could buy one. It isn't always they haven't the money to buy it. MRS. HERE'S THE STORY OF WHY RUSSIA WARS ON KULAKS

Peasants Fight Giving Up Grain at Low Prices.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 25.—[By Mail.]—Collectivization of the farms and mobilization of the peasants was an inevitable step in the communizing of Russia by the soviet government.

Conceived for the proletariat, the city dweller and the industrial worker, communism could not live if the rural elements and the farmers refused to produce the food necessary to satisfy the appetites of the factory laborers.

Things muddled along for the first decade after the revolution, when the country was torn by civil war, and during the days of worthless paper money and the initial attempts at reconstruction. But they were focused to a crisis three years ago, when the government launched its ambitious five year plan to equip the country with its own industry.

Peasants Begin to Resist.

With every effort concentrated on establishing an interlocking industrial scheme embracing every factor, from the production of raw material down to finished manufactured products, the authorities abandoned all attempts to supply the agrarian population with the "store goods" it had always craved and on which it had always expended the income derived from its produce.

When this occurred, beginning as far back as 1927, there became evident a systematic and semi-organized resistance by the peasants to selling their grain to government purchasers for consumption in the cities and towns, while peasants could buy back nothing in the empty stores in their communities.

Peasants stored grain, hid it, squandered it in orgies of gluttonous eating, used it recklessly for illicit distillation of vodka—"samagon," as it is called—or surreptitiously disposed of it to private dealers under the new economic policy, then in existence, for higher prices than the government offered.

Menace of Hunger Arises.

A short grain crop in 1927 and another in 1928 brought the menace of hunger for the proletariat home to the government and it was realized that measures must be taken to ensure for the factory workers adequate food supplies—wheat, rye, barley, some corn, dairy products, vegetables, fruit, meats and poultry.

It was then that the government adopted the plan of raiding peasants' barns and confiscating whatever stock of grain and other produce they found and which the peasants had failed to offer openly for purchase by the state.

Some peasants were shot for hoarding, many were arrested, plenty were exiled to distant regions, after their farms and belongings had been confiscated, and the private food dealers were legislated out of existence by a decree which entirely nullified the new economic policy.

It was during this phase of developments that the "kulak" became defined and named. A "kulak" is the bolshevik name for a rich peasant, and it immediately became the stigma to apply to all farmers who, through reluctance to part with their produce at arbitrary prices fixed by the state, withheld any part of it.

Peasants in Three Classes.

Always in Russia, even during the old imperial régime of the czars, the peasants have been divided into three classes—the rich, the middle class, and the poor peasant. A "rich" peasant could scarcely be distinguished from his neighbors in the average village or farm community by the naked eye. According to American standards, even the "rich" peasants were miserably impoverished, with no culture, comforts or recreation, illiterate and of a low order of intelligence.

But in every community in Russia, as in America and elsewhere, there were certain peasants who, through their relative hard work, thrift, and capacity for farming, fared better than their neighbors. Gradually they acquired more land from the less efficient villagers, by lease or through mutual arrangement to work it; they had two cows instead of one; perhaps three horses instead of one; two rooms in their wretched log cabins instead of one.

This was the rich peasant, the class that was marked with the label of "kulak," the nearest approach to a new capitalism in this racked and ruined country. And as such this class was doomed to dispersal and destruction by the authorities.

Only a Score of Large Cities.

Russia has a population today in excess of 160,000,000. Of this more than 80 per cent, more than 130,000,000, are peasants. Only a bare thirty millions comprise the proletariat, the city dwellers, in the few large cities. Moscow, Leningrad, and Kharkov are the only three of more than a million. There are a score of fairly large cities and a few hundreds of good sized towns scattered over the enormous area of the country, occupying as it does one-sixth of the land surface of the globe.

Of the 130 million peasants, it was estimated arbitrarily for the fixation of tax lists by local authorities, an average of 4 per cent were kulaks, and taxes on them should be considerably higher than on their brethren in the community.

This meant between five and six million "kulaks" recognized as sinister influences working against the state and classed as the element in the country forming a new "capitalism."

A farmer was termed the dread word "kulak" by his envious and avaricious neighbors because as such he was set down to pay far more than the ordinary average pro rata share of the village community taxes. This enabled the rest of the peasants to escape with lighter levies.

Here's One Definition.

In a lawsuit over the shooting of a wife's lover by her husband, the accused claimed the dead man was a kulak. Asked why he defined him so, he explained triumphantly:

"He had a sewing machine."

In the drive again the so-called new capitalism the government disfranchised and confiscated the property of thousands of kulaks. Without warning, agents appeared and ordered them from their homes and allowed them to take only the clothing they wore.

Thousands were exiled from their homes to newly developed areas or to distant regions where climatic conditions hindered colonization. Thousands were sent to the barren steppes along the route of the new Turkish-Siberian railway, running from Turkestan, along the Chinese-Mongolian frontier to Siberia. Thousands more were shipped to the icy north to work in the timber trade, which the government was anxious to speed up to obtain foreign credits.

And that is the crux of the "forced labor" decision which the United States has taken on soviet lumber and wood pulp from the northern districts.

SENATE PASSES BILL SOFTENING DRASTIC BAUMES LAW PENALTY

Albany, N. Y., March 31.—[Special.]—The state senate today voted to modify the drastic provisions of the Baumes fourth offender laws by passing the Slater bill making prisoners serving life sentences eligible for parole at the expiration of fifteen years of their terms.

With party lines obliterated, the measure was passed by a vote of 36 to 9. The bill, which is sponsored by the Lewisohn prison commission and has enlisted behind it the support of Gov. Roosevelt, the commissioner of correction and the parole board, now will go to the assembly, where, oddly enough, its companion measure, the Goodrich bill, was defeated a week ago.

COURT UPHOLDS WIFE WHO SAID: "NO CHILDREN"

Albany, N. Y., March 31.—(AP)—The attempt of Alfred A. Kahn of New York to obtain an annulment of his marriage to Marion Kahn on the ground that she refused to bear him children failed in the state's highest court today.

Kahn contended that prior to his marriage his wife had agreed to bear him children, but that after her marriage, when she found herself in the way of becoming a mother, she submitted to an illegal operation.

He did not claim that an annulment could be granted simply because his wife bore him no children, but that an express representation had been made by his wife before her marriage that she would become a mother, upon which the husband relied. He alleged submission to the operation was evidence of fraud which would entitle him to an annulment.

E. B., 702 GUARANTEE TITLE BUILDING, CLEVELAND, O.—"I have been reading the Chicago Tribune more regularly and for a longer period of time than any other daily newspaper—yet, I have never lived in Chicago, my place of residence having been first in New York City, and thereafter in Cleveland. Ten years ago I sought a capable accountant as a partner. I advertised in a New York and in a Cleveland paper, but received no replies. I tried both papers once again and received one reply, which was not worthy of consideration. Why had I not tried the Chicago Tribune, since it was my favorite daily? I wonder. I finally did try it—and a unique result came to pass. I received four replies—one from Cleveland and three from New York! It was hard to make a choice, but the partnership was soon formed and it still exists. Not alone that, but I have had some pleasant and profitable relations with two of the other three accountants who answered my advertisement."

MRS. J. H., ROUTE NO. 2, BIG RAPIDS, MICH.—"In September, 1927, I purchased a rooming house through the Tribune Want Ads, and after operating it for about a year I became dissatisfied and decided to dispose of it. I listed it for sale with various brokers and followed the matter up constantly during the next two years, offering price and other concessions as time went on. However, these brought no results. Finally, it occurred to me that inasmuch as I had purchased the business through a Tribune Want Ad, why not try to sell it through one. In July, 1930, I placed a modest ad in the Sunday Tribune and got three prospects, and the first of these to inspect the business bought it on the spot. The result was that by August 1, 1930, the new owner was in possession and I was installed on my poultry farm purchased with the proceeds. A Tribune Want Ad accomplished in two weeks what could not be accomplished otherwise in two years. Incidentally, and this was quite an item to me, the Tribune ad cost me only $4.00 or $5.00."

MRS. J. C. WILKINS, Bradley, Wis.—"Having summer cottages to rent, I inserted an advertisement in the Sunday Tribune and received so many requests for cottages that it was necessary to return many of the deposits sent me for cottages. Thus, through one advertisement, a nice business was started and maintained which we still enjoy from year to year. Thanks to the popularity of your paper!"

MRS. R. W. WATTS, 8339 INGLESIDE AVE., CHICAGO, ILL.—"One night during the latter part of 1929 my dog "Nig" disappeared. Nig had been a constant companion of my daughter from birth. She was very much attached to the dog, and while she was not quite four years old, the dog's absence caused her to grieve a great deal. She became ill, could not sleep, and would not eat. The doctors attributed her condition to grieving for her dog, and asked that every effort be made to locate it. Although I had advertised in evening papers, I did not obtain any results. Friends and doctors suggested using a Tribune Want Ad. I complained to the advertiser the importance of getting the dog back, and she prepared a short ad for the Lost and Found column. I had over twenty answers before noon of the first morning the ad appeared in the Tribune, including one from the lady who had the dog. The condition of my baby immediately changed when she saw Nig. This experience impressed upon me the value of calling the Tribune Advaker the first thing in the future when in need of such inexpensive and valuable assistance."

C. A. CARLTON, 6307 WOODLAWN AVE., CHICAGO, ILL. — "Three months ago I had to go to the hospital for an operation. Before that I had been in poor health for about two years, and had not been working for several months. When I was told that I had to have the operation, I felt at a loss as to where to secure the money for hospital and surgical expenses, my savings having been almost exhausted. I had a Chrysler, model 77, 1930 sport coupe. I saw the selling of this car as the only means by which I could raise the amount I needed. But, in my financial situation, it was of particular importance that I obtain the highest price possible for it. I placed an ad in the Tribune for three days. It brought seven prospects, and I sold the car to one of them for $975.00."

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

FINISH DESIGNS HERE FOR SOVIET PACKING PLANTS

Head of Meat Trust Ends 7 Months' Stay.

The tenant on the fifteenth floor at 20 West Washington street is listed under a name which even the elevator starter can't pronounce—Soyusmiaso. Under this name for the last seven months a staff of 65 architects, engineers, and draftsmen have been at work drawing plans from Chicago models for a chain of packing plants to supply meat products to 160,000,000 Russians. Soyusmiaso is the soviet meat trust.

With the planning work now almost finished, N. L. Volynski, chief of Soyusmiaso, was packing his bags last night at the Stevens hotel, preparing to start back this morning to Moscow and report to his chief, A. Mikoyan, soviet commissar of supplies.

Start Packing Plant Work.

A small, frail man, Mr. Volynski gave an interview yesterday through an interpreter. On the walls of his office hung maps of Russia showing the progress of the five year plan, while in the bright, spacious room outside young American engineers bent over their drawing boards, plotting blueprints which, Mr. Volynski said, will help the plan succeed.

Already, Mr. Volynski said, foundations have been laid for the first two packing plants, one at Moscow and one at Semipalatinsk in the Kasakstan district southwest of Siberia. Covering 1,000 acres each, the plants are to be six story structures of reinforced concrete with a slaughtering capacity equaling some of the largest in the Union Stock yards.

Chicago Architect Designs It.

At his back was a prospect photograph of the Moscow plant, showing a series of great buildings with trim, square lines resembling somewhat the lines of the Century of Progress administration building. The architect is H. P. Henschein of Chicago, ranked among the foremost packing plant designers in the city.

The first two plants, Mr. Volynski explained, will cost $16,000,000, half of which goes for boilers, refrigerator installations, and machinery. The specifications, he said, call for Chicago made machinery as being superior to any on the market, but an order for such machinery is contingent on liberal credit and trade reciprocity.

GUN TOTER GETS 60 DAYS.

Patrick Brern, 26 years old, 1105 East 43d street, who was arrested when he waved a pistol in a surface car on 63d street Sunday, was sentenced to sixty days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Joy A. Schiller.

JUDGE LUPE BLAMES DRY ERA LIQUOR FOR DOMESTIC TRAGEDIES

Liquor plays an important part in the domestic tragedies which find their way to the Court of Domestic Relations, Judge John J. Lupe of the Municipal court declared in addressing the Chicago Bar association yesterday noon. Judge Lupe formerly presided over the Court of Domestic Relations for several years. The court is an effective means of reducing crime, he said.

"The liquor consumed by these poor men who come into the court when their wives sue for nonsupport," Judge Lupe went on, "is not prewar liquor. It is generally homemade moonshine. Some of them have drained the alcohol from automobile radiators and drunk it. A favorite drink among the men who cannot afford other liquor is 'canned heat.'

"By the time the court gets them they are in such shape that we must send them to institutions for care and treatment. When they return, the court, through its social service department, must help them get work and during all this time keep watch over their children."

Brazil Scraps Official Autos to Cut Expenses

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 31.—(AP)—To cut down government expense, Foreign Minister Mellofranco of Brazil today ordered all official automobiles, including his own, into the garage. Other departments of the government are preparing to do the same, after which it is planned to hold a public auction of all the cars.

FIND MAN'S COAT NEAR EX-FOLLIES GIRL'S DEATH CAR

Second Body Believed at Bottom of Cliff.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, March 31.—What at first looked like a simple case of suicide or an accident today suddenly turned into an involved affair, when police discovered a man's overcoat and hat alongside the wreckage of the car in which Mrs. David Townsend, formerly Peggy Davis of Ziegfeld's Follies, plunged over a cliff Saturday night to her death at Eze-sur-Mer.

The hat was marked with the name of Puvis de Chavannes, a descendant of one of France's most famous mural painters, who has been missing since the tragedy.

Spy Another Body.

A search by the police for the missing Frenchman started immediately, with no result so far, but late this afternoon investigators reported they had seen what is believed to be another body lying in an almost inaccessible ravine under a steep precipice about 50 feet from the wrecked car. It was impossible to descend the steep cliff during the night, so the search for the second body has been postponed until tomorrow.

Meanwhile it seems to have been established that De Chavannes was one of the gay party which Mrs. Townsend left to plunge to her death. Some of his friends think they have seen him since the accident, but they are vague about the time.

Police After Frenchman.

They suggest that he may have left his coat and hat in the car when he returned after driving one of the women guests home in the Townsend car. This explanation does not satisfy the police, who want to know why Chavannes has not come forward to assist in clearing up the mysterious angles of the case—if he is still alive.

Close inspection of the note left behind by the dead actress leads to the belief that the illegible name after the words "give my love to" is that of the Frenchman.

Mr. Townsend has refused to accept any other theory than that of an accident, insisting that he had not quarreled with his wife and that they had no financial troubles.

Menjou and Leila Hyams Discharged from Hospital

Hollywood, Cal., March 31.—[Special.]—Adolphe Menjou and Leila Hyams, film stars, were discharged from hospitals here today. Menjou was in Cedars of Lebanon hospital for a tonsil operation. Miss Hyams [Mrs. Phil Berg] underwent an operation for appendicitis at Hollywood hospital. Mae Sanders Sunday, divorced actress wife of Billy Sunday Jr., was declared today to be rapidly recovering from an appendicitis operation.

MRS. BRUNKER GOES TO RENO; CHILDREN HERE

Reformer's Wife Departs for Nevada Divorce.

Mrs. Margaret Gaylord Brunker, whose trip with her two children to the Reno divorce courts was halted two weeks ago by a Highland Park policeman, yesterday departed on a train bound for Reno. She was not accompanied by the children. Her husband, Albert R. Brunker, millionaire reformer, announced that a divorce agreement had been arranged.

The children, Barbara, 5 years old, and Robert, 2, who have been the central figures in the controversy, were left behind in the family home at 190 North Ahwahnee road, Lake Forest. It was after the start from this home on March 15 that Mrs. Brunker, the children, and a truckload of baggage were stopped by the policeman. Brunker was then in New York.

It developed that a gentleman's agreement had been drawn several months ago by which the affairs of the Brunkers were being regulated. According to this agreement, there was an understanding between Mr. and Mrs. Brunker that Mrs. Brunker was not to remove the children from Lake Forest without her husband's consent.

There followed a number of conferences. Shortly after breakfast yesterday Mrs. Brunker and the truckload of baggage set out for Chicago and at 10:30 a. m. she departed for the west on a North Western train. She will be one of the first Chicagoans to make use of the new six weeks' residence divorce law in Nevada.

Mr. Brunker, in his loop office, verified the reports that his wife was on her way for a divorce. Neither he nor the attorneys would reveal on what grounds the decree was to be obtained.

A property settlement has been arranged, Brunker said, which also provides that he will have the custody of the children eight months during 1931 and nine months during 1932. Beginning on Jan. 1, 1933, the children will spend six months with each of their parents.

Mrs. Brunker will return to Neenah, Wis., where her father owns a large paper mill. Mr. Brunker moved back to the Lake Forest home last night.

Color stops and sells the casual shopper

THE times demand exceptional measures.

The Chicago Tribune provides them in the full power of the newspaper page fired with the dynamic action of color.

Color in the main section of the newspaper is spectacular.

It stamps any message as important.

It smashes through buying inertia, gets attention and interest.

A campaign in Tribune run-of-paper color, costing but little more than black-and-white, is the most effective sales stimulant available to advertisers in the great Chicago territory.

A single page, used strategically, well merchandised, will slash a new short cut to recognition among dealers that your product is one to feature.

Its compelling shock on the individual reader reverberates through the entire range of Tribune circulation—over 795,000 daily and over a million Sunday.

No other Chicago newspaper offers you this new marketing aid, available on any day you want.

No other Chicago newspaper permits you to establish yourself so emphatically in the minds of consumers and retailers.

A portfolio of specimens showing how retail stores and national advertisers have used Tribune color to offset competition, to introduce a new line or to rejuvenate an old one will be submitted promptly on request.

CITY OFFICIALS' TESTIMONY FOR VOLPE ATTACKED

U. S. Witness Heard in Deportation Case.

Evidence was introduced yesterday to refute the sworn testimony of Dan Serritella, Mayor Thompson's city sealer and a Capone lieutenant, and that of former Ald. Albert Prignano and Ald. William Pacelli, on behalf of their friend, Tony [Mops] Volpe, notorious Capone gangster. The evidence was introduced at a hearing before immigration inspectors. Volpe, an alien, is facing deportation for illegal reentry into the country.

The city hall friends of the public enemy No. 2 testified under oath several weeks ago that Volpe told immigration inspectors at Key West, Fla., June 24, 1928, that he had only his first naturalization papers. Volpe was returning by airplane from Havana at that time and he was accompanied by Serritella, Pacelli, Prignano, Jack Guzik, another Capone captain, and one Rocco Fiachetti of Brooklyn.

Inspector Is Witness.

Immigration Inspector Phillips of Key West testified yesterday and identified the airplane manifest which he made out when the Capone party arrived, showing the entry of five native citizens and one naturalized citizen, the latter being Volpe. He was questioned by Inspector D. F. Ellefson.

Q.—Where did Volpe say he was born? A.—In the Argentine.

Q.—What, if anything, did he say with respect to his citizenship? A.—He said that he was naturalized in the Circuit court of Cook county in 1924. He said he could not produce his papers because he had left them in Chicago. [Volpe was naturalized in 1924, but his certificate was revoked three days later because of false statements.] Volpe's attorney, John Elliott Byrne, took up the questioning.

Q.—How do you remember the particulars relating to the entry of this party when you have about 50,000 entries a year? A.—Because one of the air line officials had told me that Al Capone's gang was coming in on the airplane Gen. Machado.

Hope to Strengthen U. S. Case.

Since Volpe and his city hall associates swore that he did not claim citizenship to gain admission to the country, the government, represented by Assistant United States Attorney Dodd Healy, hopes to strengthen its deportation case against the gangster. Volpe is charged with reëntering as an alien after the commission of a crime of moral turpitude (counterfeiting), which is a deportable offense.

The case was continued to Friday to permit Attorney Byrne to bring additional records from Florida. The evidence will be forwarded to the secretary of labor, who issued a deportation warrant for Volpe but withdrew it for further hearings.

FORMER PROSECUTOR TO BE LAWYER FOR BURKE AT ST. JOSEPH

St. Joseph, Mich., March 31.—(AP)—State and county prosecuting authorities joined forces here tonight in preparing the case against Fred Burke, charged with the slaying of Patrolman Charles Skelly.

While Prosecutor Wilbur M. Cunningham of Berrien county set about lining up evidence, Sheriff Fred N. Cutler made plans for the protection of witnesses against Burke.

Burke remained in his cell today while guards walked posts outside and inside the county jail. It was announced late today that Charles W. Gore, former prosecuting attorney, would defend Burke. Barratt O'Hara, the Chicago criminal lawyer, who conferred with Burke in the jail yesterday, was said to be out of the case.

The state of Michigan has placed its legal department at the disposal of Berrien county authorities. Prosecutor Cunningham said Assistant Attorney General Charles Waples would be associated with him in the prosecution.

Tells Yarn of Being Shot from Auto; Did It Himself

With a bullet wound in his right shoulder, Walter Dejnekowski, 16 years old, 3357 Fisk street, walked into the office of Dr. A. J. Prominsky at 1001 West 32d street early today and asked for treatment. The physician summoned the police and Walter asserted that he had been fired on from a passing automobile at 35th and Morgan streets. After some questioning, however, Walter admitted that he had accidentally shot himself with a supposedly unloaded pistol at home.

We Still Need Our Railroads

A Message from L. A. Downs, President Illinois Central System.

This is a vast country, with long distances to be covered and large areas remote from seacoasts. Railroads are peculiarly fitted to its transportation needs.

Railway service, purchases, employment and taxes have contributed greatly to the upbuilding of the country. These contributions must be continued.

We still need our railroads.

Yet many business men are using other methods of transportation, confident that the railroads will somehow get along and be available when needed.

This is a dangerous idea. No farmer expects to work his horses and feed them only when he wants to work them. Railroads too must live in order to work.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Chicago, April 1, 1931

This progressive railroad has exerted a large influence upon the development of agriculture, industry, population and wealth in the great Mississippi Valley.

BERLIN "INVITES" LEAGUE TO PROBE AUSTRIAN PACT

"Have Nothing to Fear," Foreign Chief Insists.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 31.—"We will not oppose discussion of the proposed Austro-German customs accord by the council of the league of nations. We have nothing to fear."

This was Foreign Minister Julius Curtius' reply today to European diplomats, who have asserted in speeches that they see danger to Europe in the preliminary pact between Berlin and Vienna.

Speaking before the national council, Dr. Curtius explained that when "a purely economic pact is to be presented to the league of nations council as constituting a breach of peace, Germany could not agree to its discussion; but the matter is different when the signatories to the league of nations' agreement with Austria in 1922 want to discuss the details of the project."

Hopes Parley Will Clear Matter.

"In fact, we reckon the plan will be discussed before the council meeting by the pan-European committee investigators," he continued. "I hope and trust that the two discussions will clear up misunderstandings which developed in debates recently. Austria is of the same opinion as we are over the proposed pact—namely: that it fits perfectly into the frame of international agreements."

Dr. Curtius stated that Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, and complained of the alleged infringements of obligations in the planned pact, despite the fact that no real basis for these had been put forward. As to the assertion that Germany failed to act loyally with her league of nations partners, Dr. Curtius countered by saying:

"We would be happy were we to be always treated with the same loyalty and openness. We are trying to give new impulse to the reorganization and development of European economics. A close study will reveal that the Austro-German plan fits perfectly in the frame of all-European cooperation and that it does not endanger peace."

Nationalists Attack Curtius.

The Nationalists are indignant that Dr. Curtius should have "delivered the customs pact into the hands of the league of nations." They also are annoyed because he "practically remained on the defensive."

Chancellor Bruening, Dr. Curtius, and almost the entire cabinet will leave Berlin over the Easter holidays. Today they received an Easter surprise from Adolf Hitler, the Fascist chieftain. The government feared that his "shock troops" would resent the emergency dictatorship decree aimed at political crime, but Hitler has ordered his followers to respect the edict and announced he would seek to upset it in a legal fight in the law courts.

Diplomats See Point Gained.

PARIS, March 31.—(AP)—Diplomats representing those nations which have protested against consummation of an Austro-German customs accord felt today that they had gained a point when Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, accepted the principle of juridical investigation in an address to the reichsrat.

It was understood that France and England were considering further action to delay conclusion of the proposed agreement, possibly by asking Germany and Austria to postpone its consummation until after the accord could be examined by the league of nations council next May, or by taking action to enlarge the council's power to examine the agreement as a matter of general policy under the league of nations.

RETURN NEW TAX INDICTMENT IN SAM GUZIK CASE

An additional indictment against Sam Guzik, Capone alky peddler and gambler, charging income tax frauds for 1929, was returned by the federal grand jury yesterday.

Guzik was indicted last summer on charges of failure to file returns and for attempts to evade taxes on an income totaling more than $300,000 for 1927 and 1928. The new indictment charges that he had an income of $81,524 during 1929 and that he filed no return.

Guzik's more important gangster brother, Jack, has been convicted and sentenced to five years in Leavenworth penitentiary for income tax fraud. His case is being appealed.

MARCH SHOWS WINTRY RECORD: COLD AND WET

The meteorological summary for March, issued by the weather bureau last night, showed a mean deficiency in temperature and an excess in precipitation, the first time either phenomenon has occurred since November. The winter months of December, January and February were the driest and the sixth mildest on record here.

The mean temperature for March was 34.3 degrees, compared with the normal of 35.1. The average daily deficiency was 0.3 of a degree. The total precipitation was 3.33 inches, as compared to the normal of 2.50, being an excess of .83 of an inch. Total snowfall for the month was 13.3 inches.

The forecast for today, issued by W. P. Day, calls for mostly cloudy weather with the possibility of a little rain or snow.

FRANCO-ITALIAN NAVAL DISPUTE FLARES UP AGAIN

Rome Charges Britain with "Double Cross."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 31.—Despite the confident announcement some weeks ago that the Franco-Italian naval controversy had been settled by British intervention, such is far from being the case. A hitch has arisen which is reported to be so serious that the work of drafting the treaty has been temporarily suspended and the Italian experts have returned to Rome to consult with Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi on the new situation.

The whole trouble seems to have been that the British mediators adopted a method of separate interviews with the antagonists instead of getting them together in a room where there could be no possibility of claiming a misunderstanding.

Row Over Tonnage Demands.

Instead, the British interviewed first one delegation and then the other, and each has repudiated what the British told the other it had said.

The chief trouble is over the French demand for right to replace superannuated tonnage. Under the British reading of the agreement Paris would be given the right to build up 45,000 tons to 1935 instead of 28,000 tons which the Italians say they agreed to. Now Sig. Rosso and Sig. Ruspoli, Italian experts, have left London in more or less of a huff, declaring that the British double crossed them in the interests of France.

A further hitch is over the Henderson-Briand agreement on submarines. Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, is prepared to yield to the French demand, but A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, and his advisers have thus far refused to accept his reading of the treaty. The whole affair has a far reaching influence.

Delays Disarm Talks.

When Secretary Henderson returned home from Rome a few weeks ago he had planned a spectacular meeting in London at which the new pact would be signed. At the same time the foreign ministers of Europe would be brought together to discuss the preliminary work of the disarmament conference.

Now this is off, and the need for the league of nations' council to discuss the Austro-German tariff agreement before anything else again hangs up disarmament.

The whole development is looked upon here as a triumph for French diplomacy, which does not want an agreement with Italy, does not want disarmament, and does not want an Austro-German union. They are saying in Europe now that Mr. Henderson "has taken over Chamberlain's discarded mistress," referring to Sir Austen Chamberlain's famous statement that he loved France like a woman.

FIND STREATOR PRIEST DEAD IN HIS ROOMS; RADIO STILL GOING

Streator, Ill., March 31.—(AP)—The Rev. J. P. Parker, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, was found dead in his room at the rectory today when his housekeeper went to call him to say the morning mass. His radio still was tuned in, and death had come apparently while he was retiring last night.

Father Parker was born at Gilman, Ill., and has presided over parishes at Bloomington, Chebanse, and Dwight. He came here seven years ago. He formerly was a student at St. Viator's college, near Kankakee.

Marshall H. Alworth, Iron Ore Financier, Is Dead

Miami, Fla., March 31.—(AP)—Marshall H. Alworth, iron ore financier of Duluth, Minn., died in a hospital here late tonight.

SOLDIERS' GUNS "WIN" WINNINGS OF DICE PLAYERS

Two residents of Racine, Roy Livingston of the Wagner hotel and Charles Sprader of 2321 Meade street, were homeward bound last night when they learned as they passed through the Fort Sheridan reservation that a dice game was in progress.

They stopped and "faded" the soldier boys a while with success. As they got into Livingston's car they were asked by two soldiers who had been in the game to give them a ride to Waukegan. The four started off together. But in front of the home of Mrs. Scott Durand, near Lake Bluff, the Racine men later told Chief of Police Eugene Spaid at Lake Bluff, the soldiers presented pistols and announced it was a stickup. Livingston was robbed of $82 and his car and Sprader of $85 and his watch. The robbers drove south.

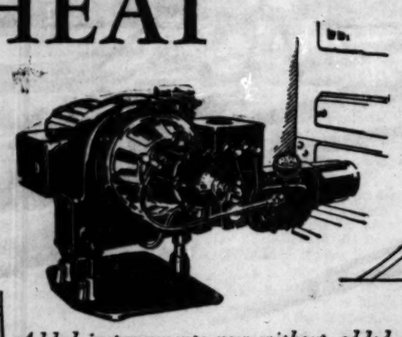
Special inducement during April on OIL-O-MATIC HEAT



Added improvements now without added charge! Lowest prices and easiest terms in history.

THERE are a dozen good reasons why it is better to order a Williams Oil-O-Matic burner installed in your furnace now than to wait until next Fall. But the most important one is the money you can save this month!

You save on fuel bills—we'll allow full cost price of any coal left in your basement. You save on heating cost because the thermostatic control on Oil-O-Matic delivers warmth only when needed. Your family's health is protected from the dangers of overheating. Your pocketbook is protected against fuel waste unavoidable with hand firing of coal during this changeable weather.

If you have a steam or hot water heating system, Oil-O-Matic will automatically supply hot water all year 'round. Chicago owners say they save as much as $10 a month over gas water heaters. The biggest saving of all is that Oil-O-Matic burns fuel oil which costs less per gallon yet contains more heat! Government tests show savings as high as 30% over burning distillate.

This month our new price on the world famous Model J Oil-O-Matic and this new Junior—at the lowest price in Williams history—includes the new Diffusor! This Diffusor ordinarily costs $45 as extra equipment and is well worth it for the money it saves by burning less oil more quietly. Come in today—learn about the special inducements we offer you this month.

MICHIGAN READY FOR CHOOSING OF BLOSSOM QUEEN

34 Beauties Will Face Judges Tonight.

Benton Harbor, Mich., March 31.—[Special.]—"Bow to the wittiest, kneel to the prettiest," became a civic theme song in the twin cities today. Southwestern Michigan is prepared to offer obeisance to the queen of the fruit belt carnival when a jury of five decides tomorrow night on her identity. Meanwhile, nearly three dozen handpicked beauties from as many communities are rehearsing the promenade and pivot they will be put through on the stage of the Liberty theater, and slicking up the all important ensemble.

Thirty-four girls in all will descend upon St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, host cities for the festival, by automobile, train and airplane during the day. Long and tall, lean and plump, blondes, brunettes, and Titian charmers, each with a train of relatives, friends and admirers in her wake. Headquarters for the "blossom princesses" will be at the Vincent hotel.

Judges for Contest.

Judges for the contest will be Rufus Dawes, president of the Chicago World's Fair; Ben Bernie, bandmaster, who will make the jaunt to Benton Harbor by airplane in order to keep his radio broadcasting contract and and be back in Chicago by 11:15 o'clock; Frank Carideo, Notre Dame football star; Mrs. Mildred Jaklon, society editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Miss Marie Callahan of Chicago, editor of Modern Beauty Shop magazine, and a recognized authority.

Each of the finalists in the contest tomorrow night was selected in her own home city or town by a committee sent in from outside, to whom the entrants were identified only by numbers. The thirty-four candidates remaining in the race represent the pick of more than 700 of the loveliest girls in the central and southwestern portion of the state. Thus the queen elected by the beauty jury will have won her crown through tremendous competition not only in her home district but throughout a large area outside.

Royal Robes Await Winner.

Her royal robes, presented to her by the committee in charge, headed by Elwyn Simons of Benton Harbor as general chairman, comprise a court dress of white satin, with a moderately long train, a short jacket of white ermine, white satin slippers, long white kid gloves, a huge white satin mantle, and a jeweled crown.

Miss Cecilia Eisenhart, queen of the 1930 carnival, will yield her throne to the 1931 sovereign after the judging tomorrow night, together with a floral token of her loyalty. Miss Eisenhart, one of the most popular of the growing line of blossom festival queens, represented her home city of Buchanan in the last competition.

The blossom festival will be held the week of May 4 to May 10.

Indianapolis Placed Under 180 Day Rabies Quarantine

Indianapolis, Ind., March 31.—[Special.]—A rabies quarantine went into effect throughout this county at midnight tonight to be effective 180 days. The quarantine will require that all dogs and cats when away from their owners be in leash and those not in custody shall be killed by peace officers. Rabies cases have steadily mounted here the last five years.

CABARET SINGER IS ACQUITTED BY JURY OF JEWEL SLAYING

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 31.—(AP)—Jean Dayle, former cabaret singer, was acquitted of the murder of Sam Frank, Memphis, Tenn., jewelry auctioneer, by a jury this morning. She was arrested early in December charged with the murder.

JEAN DAYLE.

"A thing that's stained can be cleaned again," she said. "It's not the mistakes we make; it's what we profit by. I've got a second chance and I'm going to profit by it."

"We might as well wipe the homicide laws off the statute books," said District Attorney Ray Van Cott. "The trouble is not with the law but with the juries. The verdict is the result of bias, prejudice, sympathy, and race appeal."

5 Rob Kansas City Bank and Escape with $5,300

Kansas City, Mo., March 31.—(AP)—Five unmasked men held up the Community State bank here today and escaped with about $5,300. Fifteen customers and employés were forced to lie on the floor while the robbers gathered up the money in the cages.

DANCER TELLS OF 'FAINTING' FOR $2 IN MARATHON

Testifies at Hearing on Promoters' Plea.

How she got $2 a collapse while she was in the White City "supermarathon" dance was told yesterday by Mrs. Theresa Zito, 23 years old, of 7123 Grand avenue, who testified for the city at a hearing before Master in Chancery Robert C. O'Connell.

The city will complete the evidence in its defense April 10. The hearing is being conducted on a petition of the White City Amusement company for an injunction to restrain city authorities from interfering with the marathon. Although a "supermarathon" has ended, another marathon started last Aug. 30 continues at White City.

Questioned by Attorney.

Questioned by Assistant Corporation Counsel William B. Daly, Mrs. Zito was asked what her occupation was.

A.—I'm doing nothing now.

Q.—How long did you dance at White City? A.—Eleven hundred and thirty-six hour.

Q.—Did you win a prize? A.—Yes. Third prize.

Q.—Did you ever collapse? A.—Twice. They were fakes.

"They were fakes" was ordered stricken from the record.

Q.—Were they real? A.—No.

Dancer Explains Collapse.

Q.—Why did you collapse? A.—Well, it was a nonrest marathon and we weren't getting any rest but at the noon hour, and Mr. Pressey [C. A. Pressey, promoter] promised us 20 minutes' rest every time we collapsed and $2.

Q.—Did you ever receive the $2. A.—Yes, twice.

Q.—What was your third prize? A.—Thirty dollars.

It's no easy matter to pilot a bucking log through white-tipped rapids. It's even harder to pry a Chesterfield smoker loose from his choice. A man wants taste in his cigarette and in Chesterfield he gets it . . . The better taste of milder and better tobaccos—nothing else! Nothing else is needed . . . thanks to the "cross-blend," which brings out the aroma and flavor of the tobaccos themselves!

FOR NINETEEN years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Doris Blake Advises Girls Affairs of Heart and Home

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 1, 1931.  23

A Pre-view by Fanny Butcher

CHICAGO is being very much visited and lectured these days. While the flowers on John Galsworthy's lecture of Monday evening were still fresh Albert Edward Wiggam, author of "The New Decalogue of Science," "The Fruit of the Family Tree," etc., arrived yesterday afternoon to tell a largely attended meeting of the Rotary club what are "The Marks of an Educated Man." He was very clear and concise about it. In three-quarters of an hour he set forth the main points of his latest book of the same title, which was published in September of last year.

There are these six marks of an educated man, he said in his talk, although in his book he expands that number:

"First—He cultivates an open mind.

"Second—He knows when not to think; that is, he knows when to call in an expert to think for him or to guide him in his own thinking.

"Third—He never laughes at new ideas."

He elaborated on these, first declaring people have got over laughing at inventions in this day when new inventions are everyday happenings, but stupid people, uneducated people, still are laughing at most new manifestations in our economic, social and political life.

"Young people," he said, "have to use their 'surprisers' so much these days that they are all 'wore out,' as they used to say. If the world came to an end they would count it a flop, probably."

"Young people as well as old, however, still laugh at the idea of heredity, while the laws of heredity are transforming the world. A law has recently been passed," he continued, "that makes it possible to patent plants and flowers that have been specially cultivated. Animals may soon be able to be patented. Think what it would have meant to some one if he could have patented the first mule. I have it on very good authority that a grower in Alaska has a new watermelon he is about to patent. It has fur on the outside. Seriously, however, people always have laughed at their saviors and stoned their prophets. The educated man doesn't."

"The fourth mark of an educated man," he averred, resuming his enumeration, "is that he always learns the fundamentals. If he doesn't learn the fundamentals he always is practicing his own errors. Some people practice their errors until they become absolutely perfect in them. Only by learning thoroughly his fundamentals will there be continuity to his knowledge.

"Fifth: 'the educated man looks about and achieves masteries which make him a citzen of the world, which broaden his horizon."

Mr. Wiggam once talked to the late Woodrow Wilson, he said, when Wilson was a professor at Princeton university, had not yet been discussed as presidential timber. They were discussing education, and Prof. Wilson said he thought an educated man must know four things—the history of the world, the history of human ideas, one science and on language, preferably his own.

Mr. Wiggam said that education should teach a man to see life as practical, to see life as dynamic, to see it as recreative, and as individualistic, must make him a broad cooperative member of human society and teach him to see life as idealistic withal.

"The sixth mark of an educated man," Mr. Wiggam stressed this, "is that he knows it never is too late to learn. Michael Angelo, at the age of 90, blind, feeling with his fingers, said, 'I still learn, I still learn.' A really educated man knows that education is a lifelong process."

Mr. Wiggam's book gives further and more definite requirements of the educated man. Such a man combines the three great heritages of education; he cultivates the habit of success; he knows as a man thinketh so is he; he knows that popular notions always are wrong; he cannot be sold magic; he links himself with a great cause; he builds an ambition picture to fit his abilities; he always tries to feel the emotion he ought to feel; he keeps busy at his highest natural level, and he lives a great religious life.

TOURIST INDUSTRY SAVES SIGHTSEEING BUSES FOR LONDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 31.—London's rubberneck busses have been saved for the sightseers, just in time. The open top char-a-bancs which haul thousands of American tourists over the city every summer, once banned by Herbert Morrison, minister of transport, will be allowed to ply their trade after all.

It was the value of this trade which forced Mr. Morrison to back down from a decision to drive them from the central area of London. Mr. Morrison said the streets are too crowded. The busses took up too much room and interfered with legitimate business traffic.

The agencies informed Mr. Morrison tourists in London, chiefly American, represented an industry as valuable to the city as many others. The business is worth roughly £100,000 weekly, they said, and without the pleasure of a ride through the city listening to the spell of a megaphone man other branches of the tourist industry would suffer, too. Tourists would go to France instead, and do all their sightseeing in a country where the chief pleasure, the rubberneck ride, could be had along with the cathedrals and the ruins.

Charlie Chaplin Plays in Doumergue Role at the Nice Rehearsal

NICE, France, March 31.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin became an understudy to the president of the French republic today.

President Doumergue is to visit Nice next week and local police, welcoming Chaplin on his arrival, made it a dress rehearsal for the Doumergue program. "Little Bagsy Pants" was given exactly the same protection that will be accorded the chief executive. The streets were blocked for miles and half the population of Nice went without lunch because Charlie's train was twenty minutes late in arriving. Frank Jay Gould, American, was called into service as official welcomer and will be Chaplin's host while the comedian is here.

Frances Williams to Face Charges of Quitting Show

New York, March 31.—(AP)—Ill or not, say her showmates, Frances Williams should have stayed on the job.

Frances, claiming illness, checked out of "The New Yorkers" the other day for Florida. The management said she wasn't ill. Her mother says she was. Yesterday most of the cast, in an ouster petition filed with the Actors' Equity association, testified she could have hung on "as well as running off to Florida when the rest of us are fighting hard to keep the show going."

TWILIGHT MEN

This is the story of a beautiful, sensitive youth, born into that twilight zone so little understood by a world sympathetic alone to virility in its men. It is a strangely tender narrative that will open a new world to the reader, a world which lives in fear and loves in secret.

Spring Style for Factory Drops Windows

Light and Ventilation All Depend on Science.

BY TOM PETTEY.

New York, March 31.—[Special.]—Spring styles for factory buildings indicate a radical change in construction this season. They are being built without windows. Development of a new lighting unit which approximates daylight in color and provides ultra-violet rays equal to natural sunlight during the month of May has made possible the construction of the first windowless factory building at Fitchburg, Mass., it became known here today.

The new lighting unit was born in the General Electric laboratories and is a combination of mercury and incandescent lamps. Spaced twenty feet apart, sixteen feet above a floor, the U-shaped lights cast a glow as pleasant and invigorating as spring sunshine.

Due to the ultra-violet rays and the entire absence of drafts and changes in temperature common to rooms ventilated by open windows, sneezes and colds are not expected to keep many of the workers in the Simonds Saw and Steel company's plant at home when the Fitchburg factory is completed this spring. The building will mark a revolution in factory construction, according to its designers.

The U-shaped lamps are three feet long and are rated at 650 watts. The illumination is about twice as bright as the average well lighted office. Each unit consists of a reflecting surface, a large Cooper Hewitt mercury light and four 75 watt incandescent lamps placed between the parallel sides of the U-tube.

Daylight does not at all times provide perfect illumination. Factory windows sometimes remain dirty because of the cost of cleaning.

There is the cloudy or overcast sky one day and possibly a bright sunlight day the next, and every day the intensity of light is changing with the rise of the sun. It will be different in the windowless factory where the machinery and workers revolve about their own private "May day" sun. There will be no particular machine, desk or work bench fought for by individual workers because of its location. One spot will be as ideal as another.

In connection with the installation of the new lighting system in the Fitchburg plant the effects of color have been considered. The interior walls and ceiling will be blue, green, and white. The blue to reflect certain ultra-violet rays from the lamps, the green to be the active energizing compound and the white to give the sensations of light and cleanliness. Machines will be painted with selected colors for visibility and consequent aid in accident prevention.

"In the windowless factory building," says G. K. Simonds, "with uniform lighting, ventilating, and other conditions, it will be possible to operate two normal day shifts of eight hours each. At best, machinery in the average plant is idle normally fourteen to sixteen hours a day. Machinery in this plant will be idle normally only eight hours a day."

FORMER CROWN PRINCE SEES "ALL QUIET ON WESTERN FRONT"

BERLIN, March 31.—(AP)—Ex-Crown Prince Wilhelm, son of the former kaiser, attended a private showing of "All Quiet on the Western Front" today at the invitation of Universal Pictures. He declined to comment as to what his personal reactions were. The crown prince recently was made an honorary member of the Stahlhelm [steel helmets], the group which opposed the showing of the film last December.

French Royalist Paper May Affect Wedding of the Prince of Guise

VATICAN CITY, March 31.—(AP)—The appearance of the names of two leaders of L' Action Française, the Royalist paper, among the guests may make it impossible for a cardinal to officiate at the wedding of Prince Henri de Guise, son of the pretender to the French throne, and Princess Isabelle of Orleans and Bragance at Palermo on April 8. This was indicated today.

L' Action Française is under the ban of the Roman Catholic church. The presence of its two leaders, Leon Daudet and Charles Maurras, was construed as giving an undesirable touch to the ceremony.

However, the marriage may be celebrated as planned, except that a lesser churchman will be designated to officiate. It was suggested at Palermo that Aboe Dartein, former instructor of the bridegroom, might act.

Pope Pius XI. held a private audience today for the Prince and Princess D'Orleans and Bragance and their daughter, Princess Isabelle, who will become the bride on April 8 of Prince Henri de Guise. The pope blessed Princess Isabelle and wished her happiness.

Chicagoan Receives Her Persian Rug, Bought for $185,000

An old Persian rug reputed to have belonged to a shah, a czar and an emperor in turn arrived recently in Chicago after being shown in the Persian art exhibit in London for the last two months. It will be lent to the Art institute for exhibition by its new owner, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

Mrs. McCormick, according to report, purchased the rug for $185,000 at a London auction sale after lively competition from another bidder who, she discovered when the sale ended, was her brother, John D. Rockefeller Jr.

Originally the property of a shah of Persia, the rug later was sent as a present to Russia and for many years was in the winter palace at St. Petersburg during Peter the Great's reign, 1689 to 1725. It was given to an emperor of Austria as a means of encouraging Austrian aid for Russia, it is said.

Bog's Enzyme Aids in Fight on Pneumonia

Rockefeller Institute Tells of the Find.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 31.—(AP)—In peat from the cranberry bogs of New Jersey, the Rockefeller institute has found an enzyme giving animals immunity against one form of Pneumonia.

The discovery was reported at the American Chemical society meeting today by Dr. Oswald T. Avery of the Rockefeller institute.

The peat enzyme digests part of the pneumonia germ, especially its protective overcoat or "capsule"—enough of it to enable the body's natural defense against disease to do the rest.

The peat enzyme acts only on type 3 pneumonia. Deadliness of pneumonia is partly because its germs, exactly alike in appearance, differ so widely that a remedy potent against one of them may be ineffective against the rest of the family. Enzymes, however, exist in all living substances, so there may be a possibility of finding a whole battery for pneumonia.

Used in mice this enzyme has raised resistance against type 3 pneumonia by 10 to 100 times. Summarizing the work, Dr. Avery said it shows pneumonia infections "can be attacked not only by antibodies but by other reagents, such as specific enzymes." Antibodies are natural disease resisting products of the body and the base of serum already in successful use for pneumonia.

Synthetic pneumonia germs have been made at the institute to help unravel some antibody problems. These synthetic germs were made principally of simple sugars; and, though not truly alive, they possess some of the powers of the live pneumococcus, enough to enable the institute to establish further evidence that the great variety of deadly weapons belonging to pneumonia germs are largely complex sugars.

Newly found evidence of the power of sulphur to protect the body against disease was reported by Dr. M. X Sullivan of Georgetown university. This protective sulphur is formed in the body in a complex substance name cystine. Its materials are obtained in the diet, particularly from fish, eggs and meat and to a lesser extent from vegetables.

He reported a case of arthritis in which improvement was proportional to an increase in the amount of cystine in the patient's body.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

A SOMBER, intense drama that handles a tragic theme with muted power—"The Sacred Flame," by W. Somerset Maugham—had its first acting in Chicago at the Goodman theater last night. This is the last offering of the repertory company's season, and it is the sort of finale that commands respect. The play is a striking example of the work of an eminent man of letters; it has been staged with distinction; it is acted effectively. As the closing chapter of the Goodman's program for 1930-'31, "The Sacred Flame" deserves warm applause.

In the background of this interesting production there are persistent rumors that the abandonment of the repertory company is now under discussion among the ruling powers of the Art institute. If such a step is being considered on the ground that the Goodman theater is making no artistic progress "The Sacred Flame" is definite proof to the contrary. It should serve to convert the skeptics of the board of trustees. An official announcement to the effect that the Goodman will end its career as an art theater three weeks hence, if made from the stage at last night's première, would have struck the audience like the scuttling of a seaworthy craft. Not a few stalwart citizens, I imagine, would have arisen in the audience and said: "Tear not her tattered ensign down!" or words to that effect.

In this domestic tragedy Mr. Maugham, whose touch is usually light, has reverted to the starkness of his debut into literature, when the austerity of his medical apprenticeship darkened his mood. That was the period of his naturalistic novel, "Of Human Bondage," and also the period, as he confesses in some of his autobiographical fiction, when he yearned to learn the Scandinavian languages in order to taste the full original flavor of Ibsen.

But although "The Sacred Flame" comes to close grips with grim facts and a sinister situation, it is written with the clarity and calm which are striking qualities of his work, in whatever vein he attempts. Maugham has the gift of lucidity and precision of utterance.

A young husband is hopelessly crippled; and his devoted young wife, emotionally starved, has been trapped by what Mr. Maugham, from his cool scientific point of view, regards as a biological accident. The fact that her partner in this accident is her invalid husband's brother throws the ethics of the case back into the realm of ancient Greek tragedy; but however forbidding the facts, Mr. Maugham treats them with reticence.

The husband dies suddenly in his sleep; and his nurse—who suddenly develops into a striking character with a curious kink in her psychology—bluntly informs the family that he has been poisoned. She accuses the wife of this act of euthanasia and exposes the ugly love affair.

You learn in the last act, however, that a mother, having given life, can also take it away and be forgiven by the biological Mr. Maugham. "The Sacred Flame," in short, is the strangest "mother play" that the modern stage has seen. When its story is told in blunt synopsis this play sounds like a morbid affair; but it is written with such deftness and persuasion that its aberrant ethics escape offensiveness. It sounds as if it might have been recorded in the serene memoirs of Dr. Axel Munthe.

Judith Lowry, recruited from Stuart Walker's company as guest player, appears with authority in the rôle of the wise, drastic, terrible mother. Harry Mervis, as the invalid; Katharine Krug, as the love starved wife, and Ellen Root, as the implacable nurse, are also effective contributors to a sound performance.

Michigan Will Share in Chicago 1933 World's Fair

Lansing, Mich., March 31.—[Special.]—Michigan would be well represented at Chicago's "Century of Progress" exposition in 1933 by terms of a bill offered in the senate late today by Senator Adolph F. Heidkamp of Lake Linden. Under the measure Gov. Wilber M. Brucker would select a five man commission to have charge of Michigan exhibits and $25,000 would be appropriated for leasing space in exposition buildings. An additional $15,000 would be provided for miscellaneous expenses, including employment of necessary help in property staging the exhibitions.

Famed Guelph Art Objects Are on Display

Craftsmen of Middle Age Relive in Work.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

SELDOM does an exhibit come to town of such historic importance as is possessed by the Guelph treasure, which yesterday was placed on public view in the Terrace addition galleries of the Art institute. And yet neither its historic import nor its religious character must frighten you. These things, beautiful as they are, were conceived in simplicity and wrought with candor. The craftsmen of those long ago centuries were commissioned by their princes to dream and give their dream shape in gold and other metals, sometimes wood, banded with enamels and garnished with jewels. Every piece was in honor of the church.

This direct reading of the mysteries of this treasure makes its various parts easy to understand. We stand in reverence before the delicacy of the workmanship displayed. We stand in admiration of the perfection that to the last detail pervades these pieces. Perhaps the choicest treasure is the "Cupola Reliquary," which dates from 1175 and was executed in Cologne. It is a fascinating little structure in the form of a Byzantine church, cross-shaped, domed; the bottom rests on four griffins. The most beautifully carved tiny figures dress the façade; they are carved from walrus ivory. The four principal groups are easily read: the Three Kings bearing gifts, the Holy Family, the Crucifixion, and the women at the empty tomb whence Christ had risen. You could spend an hour in delighted appreciation of this beautiful structure.

For the rest, attractive marvels meet you at every turn. There is the monstrance with the tooth of St. John the Baptist and there is the monstrance with a bone of St. Christina. Again another monstrance cherishes a finger of John the Baptist. Then there are the beautiful Guelph cross, the curious First Gertrude cross, the skillfully penciled Demetrius tablet, the exquisite panels of the Plenar of Duke Otto the Mild and the lovely tiny "Small Folding Alter with Foot," No. 55. To be exact, each and every part of this exhibition is interesting, unique and arresting in its character, now beautiful, now curious.

The Guelph treasure is shown at the Art institute under the auspices of the Antiquarian society, of which Mrs. Chauncey McCormick is president, and of the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago. It will be on view until April 20.

6 Months in Business Part of New U. of C. Commercial Training

Graduates of the school of commerce and administration at the University of Chicago in future will have to serve a period of six months, comparable to the interneship of young physicians, in actual business before they will be awarded degrees.

Announcement of this radical change was made yesterday by William H. Spencer, dean of the school, which is the first of the professional education divisions at the University of Chicago to adopt the principles of study reorganization recently approved by the board of trustees of the organization.

The school of commerce and administration has abolished course grades and credits, as the university has in its college divisions, and will make comprehensive examinations the basis of graduation.

Lent Day by Day

WEDNESDAY.

Dr. Charles W. Gilkey,
(Dean of the University of Chicago chapel.)

Just as when we have our eyes tested a single lens makes the whole world appear more clearly, so at this Lenten season experiences of our own give us fresh insight into the meaning of some of the aspects of the passion story.

To many of us in these modern days the differing sense of responsibility which people carry has become such a revealing lens. Through that lens we shall look at certain figures around the cross and at Him who hangs on it.

Today we look at Pilate—a man who had responsibility but tried to shift it to his colleague, Herod; to his counsellors, the priests; to his subjects, the people. Finally, he dramatized his supposed irresponsibility by washing his hands of the whole affair, but history has never let him escape so easily. In the words of the Apostles' creed, Jesus "suffered under Pontius Pilate."

The same impulse to dodge responsibility is strong in us all. We plead our heredity or the newer psychology for what we are or do; we shift to other shoulders the responsibility for our family and our civic shortcomings; but will not history, like the rest of the country at present, hold us who live in Chicago primarily responsible for what has given Chicago its greatest reputation?

Erect Posture Can Work a Miracle with Your Figure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You've seen those ads about how you can reduce without diet, without exercise, without pills, and so on. Seeing 'em and believing 'em after trying 'em is something else again. But I can give you a reducer that is absolutely painless, won't take more than a minute to convince you, and which the most ethical medical man in the country will indorse.

You won't have to go on any diet for this one, although if you're overweight you may be challenged to one later. You won't have to swallow any bitterer pill than seeing a narrower waist line, a flatter stomach, and less crunchy looking shoulders. And that, you've got to admit, is results from one treatment.

Try it now, as you read. Stand up with the paper in your hand (although it's not necessary to have it in your hand). Pull up your chest, pull back your abdomen, hold your head "tall," and if your silhouette isn't neater by a few pounds-minus look, then, I'm going to look for a nice, clean laundry job. But I never saw it to fail yet. In fact, the waist line shrinkage sometimes calls for one hanging on to the skirt to keep it from slipping.

But, of course, neither of us is going to get any fun out of it if you slip right back into the old slouch position. Just keep to the position described for the rest of your natural lives. I'll guarantee the youngest looking 50 for you that you can accomplish. Not that you're anywhere near that yet—but I'm assuming you are all far-sighted young women, willing to prepare for a day when it is the thickness, the slouchiness of figure that makes you look every day your middle age.

In the meantime you can collect on your premium, what with the belted waist line and the swaying skirts to help you distinguish that well poised head and body of yours. The formula given out by one of our most distinguished (and most expensive) dressmakers on how to wear her clothes effectively embodies just this posture description which I have given.

"The woman who holds her head well, who stands erect with chest up and abdomen flat, and who moves with an unaffected grace is the one I want to see inside my gowns." And the famous modiste added: "Such a woman always will have a better figure than the most perfectly proportioned sloucher."

Pecuniary Affairs Are Uppermost in This Fellow's Mind

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Speaking of the girl he'd like to marry, Sam says: "I have tried unsuccessfully to inculcate in her the ambition to save her money so that she may be able to help me in the first year or so of our marriage."

Now, that's a picture of modern courting, isn't it? One, me fears, that is contributing somewhat to the growing inertia toward men and marriage among our wage earning women. An honest proposition, you've got to admit, but awfully hard on the romantic yen that keeps on gracing the female heart, regardless of modern training.

Young women have shown that they're willing enough to help out the first year or two, or more, but they want to be allowed to feel that such assistance is of their own volition. So, any other young man with a similar idea in mind about his fiancée's savings had better adopt another line of selling the idea. It simply does not take—in so raw a form, as is being proved in Sam's case.

The girl goes out and spends more on clothes after one of Sam's sermons on how a young man should get on in the world. She gets a salary of $30 a week. She's given up saving at all now, and goes in for clothes in a great big thirty-dollar-a-week way.

Sam further complicates his position as a lover by confessing that because he is ambitious and thrifty he has saved quite a nice sum himself. Without the girl's pecuniary assistance, he cannot, however, get into the business his heart is set on.

In the face of all this the girl wants a sparkler of no mean size for her third finger left. And that's where Sam began to think it was time for him to withdraw from the scene and, in his own words, "try to get along without her." Which, no doubt, is the logical course to pursue. If a young man cannot sell a lady his idea of success based on her premarital saving ability, then for his success' sake he'd better look elsewhere.

Granted that good hard sense about two pay envelopes being better than one holds true in a number of our modern marriage alliances, still, isn't it just being a little too forward looking to build on the single girl's pay check? Shade of Eros answers, "Tis!"

Plain Party Is to Benefit Social Center

BY THALIA

"A COMMITTEE"—the one that arranges for the annual benefit for the Lower North Community council—feels that people are a bit tired of costume affairs and that such affairs are too much trouble. So this year's party will be a plain one.

It's to take place on Friday, April 17, at the Bendix gallery, and the invitations, issued yesterday, are formally conservative in contrast to those in past years for such blithe shindigs as the "Forty-niners'" party at the armory, a "Red" one at a Russian night club, and the others.

There will be dancing in the ballroom, and around in the various rooms there will be tables for backgammon and bridge. The complete personnel of the committee is as follows: Walter S. Frazier, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Clymer S. Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. Aldis J. Browne, Prince and Princess Michael Cantacuzene, Mr. and Mrs. Fairbank Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Payson, Mr. and Mrs. James Waller Rogers, Prince and Princess Rostislav, Mr. and Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Ruth Elting, Frieda Foltz, Margaret Hambleton, Beatrice Kirk, Dorothy Ranney, Dorothy Schmidt, Joseph C. Belden Jr., James Curtiss, Prince Nicholas Galitzine, Henry Knott Jr., Otto and William Madlener, Edward Vilas Platt, and Carroll H. Sudler Jr.

The Bendix gallery is getting to be quite THE place to give benefits. Mr. Bendix, I understand, makes no charge to organizations for the use of the residence, his one stipulation being that admission for whatever is being given be at least $5 a ticket. It is understood also that an adequate corps of private detectives be on duty for the protection of the valuable things that Mr. Bendix has installed. The ballroom walls are hung solidly with priceless tapestries. One of the innovations in the interior is an elevator entered through a silver and black modernistically decorated vestibule in what must have been a closet of the front drawing room. This opens on the second floor into the Chinese antechamber, and on the third floor on to the gallery, which has been completely screened in black and silver modern fabric. The fixtures, furniture, and draperies on the third floor are all modern, while the second floor rooms are done in gorgeous brocades and very ornate period furniture.

Yankee Day at Canterbury Will Be July 24

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANTERBURY, March 31.—American services will mark this summer's commemoration week in Canterbury cathedral.

The archbishop of Canterbury will lead the ceremonies, which will include a festival for the Friends of Canterbury Cathedral, opening of the refurbished chapel of Edward the Confessor, and a jubilee service on the final day of the observance. The program begins on Wednesday, July 22, and will continue until the following Saturday.

American day falls on Friday. A large number of personal invitations have been sent to Americans resident in England, and many more will be distributed through various travel agencies. Both the American Express and the United States lines are cooperating, and Ambassador Dawes is expected to attend on the day of the service.

Friends of the cathedral assert that this is the first time that Canterbury, or any other cathedral, has given a welcome of this nature to Americans in Europe.

The program for American day includes exhibition of the treasures in the cathedral library, and during the afternoon a service at which the preacher will be the primate of England, by his official title his grace the lord archbishop of Canterbury. Admission to reserved seats will be by ticket only, but these will be easily obtained.

Thereafter a collection toward the funds for the reparation of the Christ church gateway will be taken. Later in the afternoon Lord Darling will give an address on "Canterbury Pilgrims" in the chapter house free, by ticket only, to American visitors, and in the evening an illustrated lantern lecture will be given in the crypt by L. E. Tanner, keeper of the abbey muniments, on "Westminster and Canterbury."

Other events on the program are a lecture on "Life in Medieval England" by Sir Frederick Kenyon, recently director of the British museum; another on the stained glass of Canterbury and related work elsewhere by Bernard Rackham, keeper of the department of ceramics of South Kensington museum, and various choral services.

The commemoration concludes on Saturday, July 25, with communion and a jubilee thanksgiving service, followed in the afternoon by a festival service for Friends of the Nave and a lecture in the chapter house on Henry of Eastry, a great prior.

MILITARY SCHOOL'S EASTER STRIKERS ARE RETURNING TO DESKS

Danville, Va., March 31.—(AP)—"Strike-breaking" activities of parents were shown by the return today of approximately a third of the Danville Military Institute students. They left the school yesterday following refusal of the administration to grant an Easter holiday.

Less than 20 out of nearly a hundred students remained in the barracks last night, but class activities were resumed this morning with an attendance of approximately 40.

During the day messages were received from parents of a number of other students saying they were being sent back with the understanding that they were subject to disciplinary action.

A faculty meeting was held this morning at which forms of punishment were discussed but no definite decision was reached.

Brown and Yellow Combine in a Suit

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The Paris color combinations are skittish fashions, hard to handle, and there are about two thousand different ones. While color mixing is an essential of springtime chic, the wise maiden who hasn't a million to spend on her clothes will eschew the many rainbow harmonies that are offered and stick to common, beautiful garden varieties of combinations like the one used by O'Rossen in making the ensemble shown in our sketch. It is a soft chamois yellow combined with cinnamon brown, and many a distinguished lady will be wearing these two tones this season.

O'Rossen varies the suit idea in this ensemble by making an ensemble of a coat, skirt and blouse, and the way the colors are used is perfectly harmonious. The three-quarters coat is made of chamois yellow wool that has a chamois surface. The skirt is made of brown flamenga crepe—a ribbed crepe with the body of wool. The blouse is made of yellow triple georgette.

The cut of the coat is particularly good in this season of tailored fashions, and the side belts and flap patch pockets are notable details. The skirt is knife plaited from a fitted hip yoke, and the coat is lined with the same brown silk as the skirt.

Yankee Music Is Barred at Guadalajara, Mexico

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, March 31.—(AP)—A ban on American music, declared by the Guadalajara musicians' union, was effective here today. Not a fiddle was raised to play strains from north of the Rio Grande and not a single note of jazz came from the flutes of union musicians.

In dance halls and at any dance where union musicians play the young folk had to content themselves with the tango, danzon, and other dances not of American origin. In the movies also music smacking of the United States was barred.

Here's real comfort in sanitary protection ...specify Kotex

Kotex can be worn on either side with equal protection and comfort; it is shaped to fit; it is adjustable.

COMFORT is your first consideration in sanitary protection. Not merely physical comfort, but ease of mind, freedom from self-consciousness—the things that Kotex gives you.

Kotex, you know, is delicately soft and comfortable. Its sides are gently rounded and tapered to fit. It is treated to deodorize. It is disposable, easily and quickly.

Why Kotex is so absorbent

It is amazingly absorbent, too. And there is a special reason for this. You see, it is made of fold upon fold of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding and each of these delicate layers is a quick, complete absorbent in itself.

Kotex absorbs laterally, not in one concentrated area, but away from the surface. That is why it stays comfortable so much longer than the ordinary sanitary pad.

It may be worn on either side, with equal efficiency, with no danger of possible embarrassment from wrong adjustment.

Try Kotex yourself. Enjoy the same care scrupulous hospitals give their patients.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

IN HOSPITALS . . .

1—The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

2—Kotex is soft . . . Not merely an apparent softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

3—Can be worn on either side with equal comfort, no embarrassment.

4—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Regular Kotex—45¢ for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65¢ for 12

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town meets Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier. His wife, John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister, Gertrude, became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother, Hugh, away from home ten years ago to give her younger sister, Christine, and brother, Stephen, a better chance. Now that Hugh was dead, Hilary was returning home. Her stepfather is the only sympathetic member of her family.

Shortly after their return John and Hilary become engaged.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin, Prue, is her only friend. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her father she knows as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. John is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary continually into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough management in caring for Judith. John writes Gertrude for the truth. She replies that she cannot, as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith, at the farm of her former nurse Tracy's brother, is badly treated by the old servant. She meets Clive Harpenden, the little master of the home where she delivers cream for Tracy. Judith, receiving no mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue meets Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her aid for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim De Morrenville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home. Tim drives Prue home and makes an engagement to drive her next day to visit Judith.

Falconer leaves town on a business trip.

Prue sees and talks to Judith, and is indignant at Tracy's treatment of the little girl.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

SOMETHING TO WAIT FOR.

Prue laughed with relief.

"Did you ever know such an idiot as your old cousin? What else could Judy Harris' father's name be? Mr. Harris, of course. You leave this to me. You'll have to wait a bit, because I may not be able to hear anything right away," warned Prue, "but I'll be looking out, so don't you worry . . . and every day about this time you must try to be somewhere handy, in case this little car happens to be nosing round. Not just in a day or two, but next week, I'll try to come again, if it's only to tell you he hasn't turned up yet," finished Prue, in an earnest effort to temper the wind.

"Thanks awfully! I'll watch every day. It was only because if I didn't ever get any letters I didn't see how I could know," explained Judy, "but now I won't be so worried."

"That's the spirit. Never worry, and you'll turn up trumps one of these days when you least expect it."

Judy laughed, for Prue was wearing the look that always charmed away her sorrows, and nothing mattered, since she would come again and perhaps bring news of her father. It would be something to wait for, and count the days. Judy knew gratefully that she was not quite deserted after all.

Tracy didn't swallow a tale like that.

"Is old acid face very beastly to you, darling?"

"I don't mind, Prue. Rather cross sometimes, but it doesn't matter. Prue," Judy's voice fell to a husky whisper. "I wanted to ask you something—what is a bastard?"

There was a moment of silence.

"Never heard the word," declared Prue, stoutly. "You must have got it wrong, old thing. Where did you come across it?"

"She says it, and I don't think I've got it wrong. She mutters it when she's cross, and I sort of remember it, but not quite. Doesn't it come into history somewhere?"

"No, no, no!" cried Prue with an inspiration. "Not bastard—bustard, donkey! No wonder I didn't get the word. Tracy's pronunciation is all over the shop. Always was. Bustard."

"But what's it mean?"

"Some kind of a beast, or is it a bird? I'm not sure. If she mutters it at you, she probably doesn't like bustards . . . as if she said pig, or beast, which she probably wouldn't dare to do, as you're a visitor."

Judy, though privately doubtful of any such qualms in Tracy, was greatly relieved, for somehow the word had troubled her, but Tracy could call her all the beasts and birds and fishes, too, if she liked. That didn't matter. She sighed happily, and at this moment what should Prue find but an orange and another and another.

"One now and two to smuggle up to your room. Can you do it, do you think?"

Judy was afraid not. The ten shilling note was already safely inside her frock, and the chocolate would have to follow it, though the danger of its melting there was serious. Judy, peeling her first orange, looked longingly at the other two. Prue, however, was a lady of resource. Gazing carefully about to see that the coast was clear, she slipped from the car and buried the two oranges in the shelter of the hedge, tying a scrap of string above to mark the place. Then she was back again.

"There! When you feel hungry you must nip out and hunt for treasure," she said.

They heard light footsteps running, and Judy found herself pushed down and the rug flung over her.

"Time!" said Tim, opening the door and peering in. "What have you done with her? O, hullo!" as the head came up again, and Prue kissed Judy hurriedly. "I say, you're sure no one can see that garden from the house?"

"Yes," said Judy, creeping out.

"Come along then. I'll hoist you over the hedge. It's safer and you are no great weight. Just give a bit of a leap. Now——"

Over the hedge went Judy; into the car with several packages went Tim, and Jemima sped away.

"Done her!" cried Tim with relish. He was pleased with his day's work, and though it had cost him something, he considered it cheap at the price.

"Clever of you," said Prue in congratulation, though her face was gloomy. "I'm much obliged and all that. What on earth have you got there?"

"The smaller of those two interesting objects, lady," said Tim, "is a piece of priceless earthenware, early Georgian period, and very rare. We haggled about the price a bit, but I'm a good haggler, I've taken prizes in it. You owe that purchase five minutes at the very least. The larger parcel contains eggs for my invalid mother, bless her heart for never being ill in her gay young life. It took me a good ten minutes to sort 'em out, because they have to be a special shape, the doctor says. It is very important where the bulge is in an egg. I bet you never knew that before."

"Tracy didn't swallow a tale like that?"

Tim chuckled. "If you ask me, the renowned Tracy would swallow anything that was likely to be profitable. When she grew restive I threw in an extra shilling a dozen, and she jolly nearly embraced me on the spot. It was a narrow shave."

"Jolly good. What can you do with a pile of eggs in a service flat, though?"

"I thought you'd take 'em off my hands. O, come, be a sport. Think of their bulges!"

"How much were they?" asked Prue, anxiously calculating her resources.

"Never you mind about that. What I thought," said Tim pleadingly, "was that perhaps you'd invite me round to help eat them now and then. Besides, think how well they go hard boiled for picnics."

Prue laughed. He had been very helpful anyway, and she was grateful to him for asking no questions, though it must, she supposed, seem pretty rum to him that the youngster was stuck down there weeding their beastly garden and having to be visited by stealth.

"Fishy," thought Prue, "and so it is fishy, damn them!"

Her anger became so great when she thought of all that the little girl was hoping and all she was bearing without complaint because of that hope which could never be realized, that she almost stamped on Jemima. Prue did not in the least know what she was going to do about it, but do something she must, even if she went to her mother and fought it out—or wrote to her. Yes, that was an idea. A letter cannot be silenced by "That is for me to say." "Leave the room, Prudence," or any of those stock devices her mother found so useful when she did not want to hear. In a letter one can speak plainly and be certain of being heard. Prue determined to put at least one word very plainly indeed, and she fancied it would make her mother sit up. She could almost laugh at the picture.

BASTARD!

She would print it in large capitals. After that, perhaps, family honor would at least deprive the poisonous Tracy of a weeder and a scrubber, plus board and lodging for the summer months. Judy could hardly be worse off wherever they sent her, and quite possibly family honor would get such a fright that she would be brought home to Wansworth, Uncle John and his beastly marriage notwithstanding.

A Friend in Need

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Request for High Chair.

"I have a baby six months old and need a high chair for him. Would you please ask your readers for one about to be discarded? Mrs. I. W.

If your young son has outgrown his high chair, won't you pass it on to another family? Mrs. I. W. could make good use of it.

Needs Curtains, Sewing Machine.

"I need some curtains for my windows and thought you might be able to secure them for me at this time. I would like to have a sewing machine, too, for I have five children and would be able to save so much if I were able to make their clothing. My husband gets only three or four hours' work a day so we have a hard time getting along. "Mrs. F. K."

Housecleaning time should bring to light a number of articles which cannot be put to use in your home again. Perhaps curtains or a sewing machine will number among those you will be discarding.

You and Yours Can Find Spring in City Parks

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Sidelights on Stubbornness," one of a new series of booklets for parents, will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. This series deals with the various aspects of child behavior directly — not through suggestions for reading.

If you don't live in the country, but live in a great city and find it isn't practicable for you to get your children away to the country for even one day trips, don't think the spring must slip by without their seeing it.

There are always the parks. You can watch spring come in the parks and if there isn't the wild plant or animal life there that you would find in the real country, Nature is there, nevertheless. If you know how to go looking for her return, you can see and smell and hear spring amazingly well in the large parks of the city.

In the first place, many of our wild birds live in the parks and many others stop there on their way north or south even if they don't stay. Look for them early in the day with your bird guide under your arm.

Just as an example of the surprising things that happen even in the city—we saw one day in New York, in Bowling Green where there are always people, a pair of wild mallard ducks. They were quite bright and gorgeous sitting on the grass in the sun and we thought they were injured. But they were evidently only resting, because after a while they took wing and flew off across the bay.

Besides birds there are many things to see in the parks, but you must have your eye peeled. There are, for instance, the young to be seen—ducklings, lambs, etc.

There are tulips and irises and daffodils piercing the soil with their sharp leaves.

There are the early flowering shrubs.

There are all the different tree leaf buds bursting out at different times and in such different style—some pointed and perky, some soft and limp, some flat and horizontal, some curly and fancy.

This and more of spring can be found in the cultivated parks. Also, few of the larger parks are without their wild places where much more nature than this is to be seen.

Besides the cultivated parks, some cities have close to them stretches of untouched natural country that are reserved as public park areas.

Food Talk.

Mrs. J. G. C. writes: "I recently ate a most delicious piece of apricot cream pie in a tearoom, but I fail to find a recipe for this pie in my collection of cook books. Can you supply me with one?"

Mrs. C. does not say whether a cooked cream filling or whipped cream formed the base of this pie. We have a recipe for both kinds and we are giving the one prepared with whipped cream. The other recipe will be sent upon request.

In either pie the crust is baked before the filling is put in. It is best to add the filling just before serving time to prevent the crust from soaking and to obtain the best flavor. Any fruit that is as acid as apricots should not be combined with either a cooked cream filling or whipped cream very long before it is ready to be served.

Instead of the whipped cream evaporated milk may be used and the cost will be greatly reduced. Almost any kind of fruit may be folded into whipped cream or evaporated milk and used for pie fillings in the same way. Fresh strawberries, raspberries, and peaches are especially good.

APRICOT CREAM PIE.

Juice from 1 No. 2½ can of apricots.
¼ cup sugar.
2 egg whites.
Pulp from 1 No. 2½ can of apricots.
2-3 cup whipping cream.
4 tablespoons lemon juice.
Baked pastry shell.

First part: Drain juice from apricots. There will be 1⅓ to 1⅔ cups of juice. Boil juice and sugar until only ¾ cup of sirup remains. While boiling hot, pour sirup over the stiffly beaten whites of eggs, beating continuously. Cool.

Second part: Press drained apricots through a coarse sieve or potato ricer. There should be at least 1⅓ cups of pulp. Place in the refrigerator to chill for about 20 minutes. Chill cream thoroughly and whip until stiff. Then add lemon juice and continue whipping until mixture becomes very stiff. Add apricot pulp, cutting and folding lightly but thoroughly. Combine first portion [sirup-egg white mixture] with second [milk-pulp mixture] folding together lightly. Turn into a cool baked pastry shell just before serving.

Yield: Enough for two pies or twelve serving. Stewed dried apricots may be used in place of the canned.

A mimeographed sheet of ten liver recipes will gladly be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Printed silk crêpe in midnight blue combines with matching blue plain crêpe in this lovely model.

The pattern, 3038, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material, ¾ yard of 39 inch contrasting and ¼ yard of 39 inch all-over lace.

8 OF 110 MILLION TO BE SPENT ON MUNICIPAL ROADS

Chicago Gets $3,500,000 Over Two Year Period.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—[Special.]—The administration's appropriation bill for road work during the next biennium, as analyzed today by Chief Highway Engineer Sheets, discloses for the first time the extent of municipal construction contemplated by Gov. Emmerson under pending legislation to authorize the state to lay pavements within cities of all sizes.

The bill asks for appropriations totaling 110 million dollars as compared with $90,370,000 authorized by the last session of the legislature. An item of $7,000,000 is described "for the purpose of constructing, widening, reconstructing, resurfacing and improving state highways in cities, towns and villages and state highway belt line roads and for separating the grades of said highways with railroads and with highways." A million dollars more is asked for maintenance on these state highways within municipalities.

Depends on Hunter Bills.

"This $8,000,000," said Mr. Sheets, "is what we are asking to carry out the city work that would be authorized under the Hunter bills."

If Chicago were to get a pro rata share it would receive a little less than $3,500,000 in construction in the next two years. Cook county legislators are of the opinion that this is insufficient for any major traffic improvement, such as an elevated highway, for Chicago. Chicago automobile owners will pay approximately $44,000,000 of the state's 110 million bill.

Representative Homer Tice [Rep., Greenview], who introduced the administration's appropriation bill last week, today presented a resolution which would direct the department of public works to carry out a survey during the next two years for designating 5,000 miles of secondary roads to be added to the state highway system. The resolution was referred to the road committee.

Maintenance Bill Higher.

Other items in the appropriation bill are as follows: From the road fund for paving and for grade separation bond issue routes, $36,000,000; from this same fund for maintenance of bond issue routes, $10,000,000; for police, $2,300,000; for refunds to counties, $2,500,000; from the state bond issue fund for construction of bond issue routes, $2,200,000; from the gas tax fund for pavement and grade separations on bond issue routes, $39,000,000, and for widening, reconstructing, resurfacing, and improving bond issue routes, $10,000,000.

"Our request for $10,000,000 for maintenance is $1,800,000 higher than the appropriation of the last legislature," said Mr. Sheets, "and is made because the public demanding a better job of maintenance.

"The $10,000,000 we are asking for widening, reconstructing, resurfacing, and improving bond issue routes might be compared with the $7,500,000 that was appropriated by the last session of the legislature for widening near centers of large population.

Every Cent Needed, He Says.

"In 1929, the legislature designated specifically only $2,000,000 for grade separations at crossing of highways and railroads and at intersections of highways. In this legislature, our appropriation bill gives us funds for grade separations limited only by our discretion. The total appropriation of $75,000,000 sought from the road fund and from the motor fuel tax fund for construction on bond issue routes is described in the bill as for building durable, hard surfaces and for separating grades.

"Every penny included in the appropriation bill is needed for the completion of the bond issue system and for improvements urgently demanded by traffic. Our increase in automobile population and our increase in gasoline consumption allow more road developments than were authorized in the biennium appropriation passed in 1929."

AUTO FATALITIES UP 48% IN FIRST QUARTER OF YEAR

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen yesterday made public statistics showing that automobile fatalities for the first three months of the year increased approximately 48 per cent over the corresponding period in 1930. The 1931 records for the three month period show a total of 290 deaths, as against 195 in 1930 and 159 in 1929.

The toll of 113 deaths in January of this year was the highest for the month in the history of the county and one of the largest for any month. The high mark during 1930 was 116 deaths, in August.

Coroner Bundesen attributed the heavy toll during the winter to the favorable driving conditions resulting from the unusually moderate weather. Monthly statistics follow:

	1930.	1931.
January	55	113
February	74	95
March	66	82
Totals	195	290

Jacob Salkenstein, 72 years old, 178 North Lamon avenue, was fatally injured last night when he was struck at Madison street and Lamon avenue by an automobile driven by Edward P. Morgan, 730 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park. His death at the Garfield Park hospital raised the toll to 290.

CITY REALTY TAX BILLS DELAYED UNTIL APRIL 10

County Treasurer McDonough announced that the first of the city's real estate tax bills for 1929 will not be mailed before April 10. Taxpayers in the country townships have been receiving their bills for the last two weeks and payments are now being made to the township collectors.

Although today, April 1, is the tax delinquency date as fixed by the legislature, taxpayers will not be assessed the usual 1 per cent monthly penalty for failure to pay their bills until May 1 or later. A bill extending the penalty date to May 1 has been adopted by the senate and is pending in the lower house. This bill also empowers the county treasurer to fix the penalty date at one month after the last tax bill is mailed, if such action is deemed advisable.

The last obstacle to collection of the 1929 taxes was removed on Monday when Superior Judge Kavanagh set aside an order enjoining the taxing officials from continuing work on the tax bills.

✣ Trouble Here . . . ✣ causes Indigestion . . . Distress after Eating. ✣ Eating Yeast ✣ Brings Health! ✣

POISONS from clogged intestines back up into the stomach and cause

INDIGESTION! When discomfort always follows eating you can't enjoy even the most tempting refreshments. You can keep your digestive system trouble-free by eating . . .

YEAST. Three cakes a day clear away accumulated body wastes.

BETTER DIGESTION is the result! No more need to deny yourself food you like!

© 1931, Standard Brands Incorporated

She Always had to say "NO"...

Tempting food she actually hungered for—denied to her because of INDIGESTION. Read how to correct the cause of most stomach trouble

DO you have to say "No," too, whenever tempting refreshments are served? Does distress inevitably follow eating? Does indigestion spoil your enjoyment of every meal?

Then listen to this . . . It's really very simple to correct your trouble—provided you attack its underlying cause.

Indigestion—"stomach trouble"—nearly always results from a sluggish, unclean condition of one vital part of your body. It is usually a sign of Intestinal Fatigue!

A glance at the picture above (at the left) shows why this is so. For, as you can readily see, your stomach and intestines are adjoining parts of one continuous tube. When contaminating food wastes accumulate in your intestinal tract, poisons generate and back right up into your stomach.

Naturally these poisons upset digestion, cut off your appetite. In addition, they seep into your blood and circulate all through your body ... making you nervous and out of sorts, causing pimples and sallow skin, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, etc.

Now for 75 years doctors have known that Intestinal Fatigue yields to the action of a remarkable food . . . fresh yeast! Today, all over the world, famous physicians are advising this simple, sensible method of dealing with internal sluggishness and kindred ills.

Eaten regularly, three cakes a day—before meals, or between meals and at bedtime—fresh yeast softens and loosens the food particles that have been clogging the intestinal tract. At the same time it stimulates and strengthens the sluggish intestinal muscles.

Soon your body begins to throw off its daily accumulation of wastes in a natural, regular way. Your indigestion disappears. Headaches stop. Normal appetite returns. Your skin clears up. You are less susceptible to sore throats and colds.

And all this, remember, without a single violent expedient—a single cathartic or habit-forming pill! For fresh yeast is a food. It is richer than any other substance in elements ordinary food all too often lacks—vitamins B and G and the "sunshine" vitamin D. Every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast abounds in these three indispensable vitamins.

So don't put it off! Strike at indigestion by adding Fleischmann's Yeast to your diet, today. You can get it at grocers', restaurants and soda fountains. Eat it just plain, or with a sprinkle of salt, or dissolved in a third of a glass of water (hot or cold), or in milk or fruit juices. Eat it any way you like. And—most important of all—keep it up!

Fleischmann's Yeast is fresh yeast... the only kind that benefits you fully. Eat 3 cakes a day!

Remember, it's important to ask your grocer for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) . . . the only yeast that contains the Sunshine Vitamin D! Every cake is "irradiated" to give it this added element so important for sun-starved indoor workers. It is rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

Notched Tunic

Most becoming cut of all for women—done with a great deal of chic is the frock with snug fitting tunic notched around the edge. Then the soft rever collar ending in the side closing. Skirt is slenderly pleated. Silk crepe in black, navy, and gray.

Printed Frock with Plain Jacket—

At the Paris openings one of the triumphs of the printed frock was its plain color jacket. This misses' frock—one piece and very slender—uses organdy in wide collar and cuffs.

The jacket repeats the color of the occasional colorful dot in the frock. The jacket and dot are red with black. Brown and white, green and chartreuse, red and navy.

Distinguished Chiffon

A chiffon not like every other chiffon—graceful, to be sure, but with little important details to distinguish it—the ruffles on the short sleeves have their effect repeated in the double bolero line. The skirt takes on individuality in the set-on fullness of tunic line. Black, brown, light blue. For women.

N. Y. BOXERS SEE MOVIES OF CHICAGO BOUTS

They'll Meet Face to Face Tomorrow.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Fighting faces of Chicago's Golden Gloves warriors were flashed right into the eyes of New York's champions yesterday on a movie screen.

DON GONSALES.

Whether the New Yorkers became frightened as they watched Caserio, Rodak, Sylvano, Kranz, Gonzales, Long, Keenan, Scialaba & Co. slash down their opponents on the screen will perhaps never be known. The studio where the pictures of Chicago's championship battles were shown was kept in darkness long enough for the New York lads to shake of any sign of nervousness.

The New York scouts at the Chicago Golden Gloves championship matches brought along their own moving picture operator and he rolled off reel after reel of film as the boys from Chicagoland struggled along toward the Golden Gloves titles.

See Pictures for First Time.

The movies of the Chicago fights were not shown to the New York champions and runnersup until yesterday. As the moving pictures of the Chicago championships were run off the coaches of the New York team pointed out weaknesses and strong points in the fighting of the Chicago lads.

Andy Mella, captain of the New York team, was very confident of a New York victory tomorrow night in the intercity combat, after he had watched the movies of the Chicago boys in action. He was equally certain that he would toss so many gloves to Fred Casserio, captain of the Chicago team, that Mr. Caserio would not know what he is talking about."

He tried to tell a few followers of the Chicago team about it but they took their heads and said, "the New York captain doesn't seem to know what he is talk about."

After their movie show the New York squad of 28 boxers engaged in their last strenuous boxing drill in the Lakeside Athletic club gymnasium.

Chicago Boys Busy.

At the same time the Chicago boys were putting in their final training work. Their drill took place in the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium. Every boy on the Chicago squad boxed six rounds and did a lot of work before boxing.

As they stepped on the scales after the rehearsal it was evident that Chicago's color bearers will have but little trouble making weight tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. They are to weigh in at their own gymnasium in the A. C. shortly before 2 o'clock. Making weight didn't seem to be causing any worry in either camp.

The Chicago team's coaches held a meeting with the members of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves squad at 7 o'clock last night. Twenty-eight boxers are members of the Chicago squad and the 16 boys who are to fight New York's finest will not be picked until tomorrow, it was decided.

Boxing fans from outside of Chicago who were fortunate enough to get tickets during the six hectic days the sale was on began arriving today. Others who didn't have tickets were on hand trying to buy one, but they couldn't find any on the market. A canvas of ticket brokers' offices revealed that very few tickets have reached the hands of the public. No good ones were to be had at any price.

The boxers on both teams will engage in only light workouts today.

N. Y. Boxers Tell W-G-N Audience How They'll Win

The New York Golden Gloves fighters may be as brave as tigers in the ring, but before a microphone it's another story.

Yesterday afternoon Paul Gallico, sports editor of the New York Daily News, introduced his battlers in the Golden Gloves bouts tomorrow night in the Chicago Stadium to the listeners of WGN, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station. Then to a man his leather pushers went on as they spoke for the radio audience. Their central theme was: "We're glad to be in Chicago and are going to win!"

In order to give a realistic twang to the broadcast, two studio announcers, Quin Ryan and George Fidet, put on a sparring bout with the New York boys doing the cheering. Two of the visitors were invited to put on the gloves and spar before the microphone, but Gallico forbade it, saying that when the New York fighters put on boxing gloves it means fight, and he didn't want any unnecessary casualties.

This afternoon Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will broadcast the Chicago Golden Gloves bouts at 4 o'clock [central standard time] from WGN.

TOMMY COOK'S 3D PERIOD GOAL BRINGS VICTORY

Gardiner's 45 Stops Halt New York.

New York, March 31.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks swept into the finals of the National Hockey league play offs for the Stanley cup, emblem of the world's hockey championship, tonight when they defeated the New York Rangers, 1 to 0, in the second game of their semi-final series. Chicago won the two game total goals series, three goals to none, and qualified to meet the winner of the first place play off between the Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens, to be decided in Montreal tomorrow.

TOMMY COOK.

Just as they had outplayed the Rangers to gain their margin in the first game of the series in Chicago Sunday, the Hawks shone tonight in the style of play they had chosen, strictly defensive hockey. The New Yorkers had a wide edge in the territorial play, but they never could escape the clinging Blackhawks long enough to send a shot into the cage.

Gardiner Stars at Goal.

Chuck Gardiner, Chicago goalie, was at his brilliant best and saved every shot the embattled Rangers could send at him. Around the net Teddy Graham, Helge Bostrum, Cy Wentworth, and Taffy Abel were a quartet of solid defensive pillars, while the Blackhawk forwards did a great job of checking along with them. Every time a Ranger went to shoot he had one or two men covering him and an unbeatable goalie to aim at. Gardiner was credited with 45 stops to 16 for his rival, John Roach.

After stopping everything the Rangers had to offer for more than two periods, with only occasional sallies in return, the Hawks found an opening and rushed down for the only goal of the game. Young Tommy Cook was the scorer, with Wentworth and Stew Adams getting assists on a three man passing play that left most of the Rangers far behind and pulled Roach so far out of place that he had no chance to save.

The Rangers went out to make it an offensive game from the very start, slamming away at the Blackhawk defenders with the full speed and power of their bodies. The checking was violent from the first whistle. Their first setback came when Dillon drew a penalty for roughing. Even then their attack did not let up, although Chicago got in a few more thrusts, only to run into a clashing penalty to Bostrum. However, the Chicago defense held out against four man drives until the sides were even.

Hawks Worry Roach.

The action was furious, but the checking was so close neither team could get an opening for a fair shot at the net. Most of the play was around the Hawk net, except for a couple of fruitless raids which Ingram started just before the ten minute mark. Thomson finally got a pass from Keeling at the goal mouth and Gardiner fell on the puck. It produced a big scramble and came so close that Keeling put in a claim for goal. A moment later Boucher sent a shot past the net when it was almost wide open. Tommy Cook provided the first scoring threat for Chicago when he shot from scrimmage and Roach saved with some difficulty.

Adams fell afoul of the antidefense rule for a penalty, but with four Rangers in front of the goal, Boucher's shot was deflected over the net. The Hawks kept slamming the puck down the ice and withstood the drive. Wentworth and Ingram gave Roach trouble with a pair of quick shots and they sparred awhile in mid ice.

Peters was penalized for a body check and Abel missed a score by inches, poking a rebound against a goal post. The Ranger defense was not in serious trouble again. The last minute produced little action.

The second period started out to be the first all over again except that the Blackhawks did a bit more puck carrying. Roach had to stop two tricky, long ones in the first few minutes, while Gardiner's hardest work came when Bun Cook drew him to one side of the net and he barely got across to stop Bill Cook's shot.

Two Hawks Penalized.

The next relay of Rangers had trouble staying on also as it went into the attacking zone and two Hawks had every blue coat covered when there was a chance to shoot.

A raid by Johnson resulted in a holding penalty to Wentworth and the Rangers attacked with five men. Cook's shot moved like a jumping bean on a couple of shots, but Bun Cook drew a penalty for slashing Gottselig. The fans protested with a shower of paper and the game was delayed.

In a rugged fight Graham drew the next penalty for slashing Dillon. Gardiner had another tough one on Thomson's shot and the Rangers again threatened repeatedly when they had the extra man. Cotton got some nice ranging to slow up their drive. Ingram broke away from a Ranger attack for a neat shot, but the line

In the WAKE of the NEWS

KNUTE ROCKNE'S tragic death has stunned the football world. Those of us who have known him since he was a tow-headed ond on the Notre Dame eleven and have enjoyed his friendship through the intervening years mourn a friend as well as most remarkable football figure of all time.

DICK HANLEY.

Encomiums of Rockne will cite all virtues and abilities with which he was endowed and which he developed. To The Wake, one of the most remarkable features of his career was the wonderful loyalty of his players, both in their football prowess and to the man personally. And we look back to find the reason. It was, in part, because of a corresponding loyalty on the part of Rockne toward his players, present and past. He gave as much as he received.

An instance of this occurred within the last year. Criticism of tactics of an eleven coached by a former Notre Dame player was voiced in Rockne's presence. He interpreted it as a reflection upon his coaching and his boys. With true Rockne loyalty, he flared up and offered, even threatened, to terminate an existing contract if such a feeling existed. Disavowal was promptly made and the incident died. We cite it simply as an instance of Rockne's nature, which would brook no criticism he considered unmerited of his pupils, past or present.

Upon receiving the tragic news of Rockne's passing The Wake talked by telephone with many prominent middle western sports leaders, whose tributes are appended.

Coach Richard E. Hanley, Northwestern: "Knute Rockne's death is the greatest loss athletics ever has suffered. Rockne took football to the public. Walter Camp was a constructive critic whose influence was great while football was fighting for its place in college sports. Rockne and the spirit of Roekne popularized the sport.

"Teams which opposed Notre Dame's great eleven of 1929 observed that spirit of Rockne, whose boys, when their tutor was unable to direct them personally on account of illness, went out and fought to their limit to show their affection and loyalty for their great leader.

"In the fine Notre Dame-Northwestern relations that have existed for a number of years we learned to know Rockne personally and to appreciate the spirit of fair play, magnanimity and generosity of sportsmanship which typified him."

Athletic Director George Little, Wisconsin: "For the last ten years I

ROCKNE'S DEATH STUNS STUDENTS AT NOTRE DAME

News of Crash Shocks Players, Coaches.

South Bend, Ind., March 31.—[Special.]—While a stunned student body and faculty knelt at Sacred Heart church here this evening praying for one they couldn't believe is dead, plans for the burial of Knute Rockne, killed today in a plane crash, were awaiting the arrival of his wife, Mrs. Bonnie Rockne, who is speeding here from Miami, Fla.

First reports that Coach Rockne, the man who had made Notre Dame famous with his football elevens, was dead arrived after many of the students had finished their examinations and departed for the Easter vacation, which starts tomorrow at noon.

Those who remained—about 2,000—filled the church tonight at benediction and many of them will remain for the solemn requiem high mas to be sung by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the university, tomorrow morning.

Widow En Route to South Bend.

Father O'Donnell, in a telephone conversation with Mrs. Rockne this afternoon, was informed that she will leave for South Bend tonight. She said: "I want him buried from the church at Notre Dame amid the surroundings and the boys he loved so well."

The church is the one in which Rockne was baptized a Catholic Oct. 25, 1925, the day of the Northwestern football game which Notre Dame won, 13 to 10, by a desperate second half attack.

Mrs. Rockne is bringing with her her daughter, Mary Jean, 10, and her son, little Jackie, 5. Two other sons, Bill, 15, and Knute Jr., 13, will return from Pembroke academy, Kansas City, for the funeral.

Thousands of telegrams and cables and a constant stream of telephone calls this afternoon and this evening brought to Notre Dame the condolences of nationally known figures in every part of the country.

No Classes Until Wednesday.

It was planned at first for examinations to continue tomorrow morning so that students might leave, as planned, on their vacations. Later it was announced that no classes will be held until the students return next Wednesday. The time of the funeral is still undecided. No masses can be said on Good Friday and no requiems can be said Saturday or Sunday. So it is definitely established that Mou-

How Knute Rockne Became a National Figure---and Why

BY ARCH WARD.

It is possible, even probable, that the death of no other man in intercollegiate athletics would have caused such widespread concern as that of Knute Rockne.

His success as a football player, coach, and strategist seldom, probably never, has been equaled. His tragic end puts the game of the most colorful figure it has developed.

Rockne was best known as head coach at the University of Notre Dame, for there it was that he won prominence as a builder of national championship football teams. Everybody who knows football is acquainted with Rockne's record and Notre Dame success. It has no parallel.

But let's have a closeup of the man who evolved gridiron genius. What kind of a man was Rockne? What were his methods? Was he a driver, an easy going teacher, a warm sort of a human or an Eskimo?

Dies at Age of 43.

Rockne was 43 years old. Premature baldness, combined with a recent leg ailment, made many think he was older.

We first met Rockne in the summer of 1919. That was just before his first real season as head coach at Notre Dame. He had handled the team the previous fall, but that was the war year and like other schools Notre Dame's schedule was somewhat abbreviated. During the seasons of 1919 and 1920 Rockne was our constant companion. It was only a short time before we came to appreciate his tremendous magnetism and personality.

Rockne was a benevolent despot in a powerful masculine democracy. He was a driver and yet there was nothing harsh about his methods. As an instructor of chemistry and as a coach on the gridiron he gave boys sufficient time to master his systems. But woe betide the lad who failed to grasp things. There was no place for that type on Rockne's teams or in his classes.

Rockne was a driver but he never became abusive. He was an insistent master but an understanding one. He was an uncompromising demander of discipline and adherence to rules of training, eligibility and method.

A Master Psychologist.

Sharp and decisive in action and speech, he had unusual ability to teach and to rouse and keep roused. He was famed as a master psychologist. There are others coaching football who probably knew as much about the game as Rockne. Few had his knack of inspiring men. When Notre Dame reached the climax of a terrific schedule the boys battled to exhaustion not alone for the colors they wore. They were fighting for Rockne. Not because Rockne wanted it that way. He simply was that kind of a fellow.

Rockne did more than any man in football to encourage the development of what he called he-men. In his after dinner talks, for which he became almost as famous as for his gridiron genius, he never failed to belittle the tailor's model, the two bound, the poser and the man who can't take it. He was the son of an immigrant and he liked that type. He preferred the boy from the poor home who came from a hard hitting line and virile stock.

Rockne's position at Notre Dame was unique. He was more than the head football coach. He received the homage given a potentate. That was because he knew his stuff. Behind this respect there was sincere love for the man, from the President down to the lowliest scrub on his multitudinous teams. No player ever has left Notre Dame with an unkind word for Rockne.

Born In Norway.

Rockne was born at Voss, Norway, March 4, 1888, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Rockne. His father was a carriage maker. The elder Rockne first came to the United States in 1893 to exhibit his product at the world's fair in Chicago. His exhibit won a medal and he was so pleased that he decided to remain in this country. Two months later his wife, son, and two daughters joined him.

The hard working Rocknes put Knute through grammar school. Then he had to go to work to earn money for his high school and college education. He attended old Northwest Division High school, now Tuley, doing odd jobs after hours. He worked in the Chicago postoffice, on lake steamers, and on railroads to earn enough to finance his way through Notre Dame. To this may be traced his sympathy with athletes who had to

Five Undefeated Grid Teams Mark Rockne's Regime

In thirteen years as head football coach at the University of Notre Dame, Knute Rockne only twelve times led a defeated team from the field. In only two years under Rockne did the Irish suffer more than one defeat. Their poorest season was that of 1926, when they were beaten four times.

Notre Dame's complete record for the 13 years of the Rockne régime shows 105 victories, 12 defeats, and 5 ties. In compiling this record the Irish scored 2,847 points to opponents' 667. Five Rockne elevens were unbeaten, those of 1913, 1920, 1924, 1929 and 1930. Rockne's record:

PIRATE BATTERS POUND MALONE; WHIP CUBS, 9-5

Three Homers Included in 12 Hit Shower.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 31.—Pat Malone today emerged from an 18 day retirement to pitch against the Pittsburgh Pirates and got badly lacerated for his trouble. The score was: Pittsburgh, 9; Cubs, 5, thus giving the Pirates their first victory in the six games of the series.

At the end of the third inning our boys were boasting a 4 to 0 lead, but three-fourths of this was dissipated in a home run shower which the Pirates gave Pat in the first of the fourth. The homers in this inning were propelled by Gus Suhr and Eddie Phillips, and Eddy's was just a warmup for a bigger and better homer which he made in the subsequent explosion in the eighth. As for Suhr, he was warming up for a triple which enabled the Pirates to tie the score in sixth, and a single which was an important factor in the aforementioned eighth inning slaughter.

Collect 12 Hits.

All in all the Pirates collected 12 hits off Pat for a juicy total of 29 bases. Pat's only solace was the fact he was able to strike out six and the circumstance that he was able to go nine innings without having to be carried to the clubhouse.

The Cubs and Pirates will play the final of their spring series tomorrow. Sweetland and Spencer are scheduled to pitch.

The Pirates made two hits in the first inning, but failed to get a man past second. L. Waner filed to Cuyler and then Grantham signed past Hornsby, P. Waner filed to Cuyler, and Traynor singled to center, Grantham stopping at second. Malone fanned Comorosky on three pitches.

Cuyler launched the Cub offense by fanning, but English was safe on Grantham's throwing error. Hornsby then filed to P. Waner and Wilson fanned.

Suhr sent Wilson to the center field screen to accomplish the first putout of the second inning, then Thevenow popped to Grimm and Phillips fanned.

Cubs Score Twice.

After Stephenson and Hartnett had furnished outs in the second inning Bell knocked out the first Cub hit, a single to left. Grimm shot a long single into left center and for some reason Bell stopped at second. It made no difference, however, for Malone singled to right center, scoring Bell

O'Connell to Meet Damen in K. C. Final

Damen of the west division and O'Connell of the north earned the right to play for the Knights of Columbus Basketball league championship last night by winning their semi-final games at the Coliseum before a crowd of 6,000.

Damen was forced to go into overtime to eliminate Perez of the south division, 20 to 19, while O'Connell rallied to nose out Loyola-Hyde Park, also from the south section, 25 to 23. The two winners will meet Sunday at the Coliseum in the championship game, while the losers, who tied for first place in their divisional race, will meet for third and fourth places.

A free throw by Joie Kluchinski and a basket by Red Barak gave Damen enough points to beat Perez, 20 to 19, in the extra period, a shot from the middle of the floor by Lipinski accounting for the south side team's tallies. Damen fought an uphill battle all the way except for a few moments near the end of the first half, which ended in its favor, 7 to 6.

A spurt in the closing minutes, led by Barney Varnes with two one handed shots, pulled St. Patrick's from behind into a victory over Hennepin, 25 to 20, in the first game of the consolation bracket. The contest was a see-saw affair throughout, with neither quintet more than a couple of points in the lead until the late rally by St. Patrick's put the contest on ice. At the half St. Patrick's led 9 to 7. The winners held the league title last year, but were eliminated last Sunday by Perez in the quarter-finals.

Lineup:

O'Connell, the dark horse of the tournament, won the right to play for the title by another of its sensational rallies, similar to the one that won over Marquette in the quarter final round.

Connolly counted 12 points for the losers, while Mangan accounted for ten of the O'Connell points.

Marquette exercised its old jinx over De La Salle to qualify for the other end of the consolation final, winning, 31 to 22, chiefly on the sharpshooting of Smith, who sagged six baskets. Marquette led at the half, 11 to 8.

WHEN ROCKNE MET WITH AMERICA'S LEADING GRID COACHES

ROCKNE FUNERAL TRAIN TO ARRIVE IN CHICAGO TODAY

Thousands to Honor the Memory of Rockne.

Rockne Was Ready

ATLANTA, Ga., March 31.—(AP)—Death, Knute Rockne once said, might as well strike in a plane as anywhere else. L. W. (Chip) Robert, Georgia Tech trustee and friend of the Notre Dame coach, was recently a fellow passenger on an air liner between Atlanta and Miami, when Rockne said:

"I think each of us has a time to go and when that time comes, no matter where we are, it strikes. So I figure it might as well be in a plane as anywhere else."

was forced to leave the station 20 minutes before their arrival to reach the airport in time to catch his plane, scheduled to take off at 8:30.

Cloudy, and Drizzling Rain.

Low gray clouds hung over the Kansas prairie and a drizzling rain was falling as Rockne and his fellow passengers arrived at the airport. For a time there was a question about the wisdom of venturing forth into the muggy weather. Delayed by the mails, the plane took off 45 minutes behind schedule with Pilot Fry, a world war flyer, at the controls of the ten passenger Fokker F-10, transport ship. Pilot Fry elected to fly a course above the clouds, and the roar of the plane's three motors died away as the ship disappeared into the gray mist aloft.

Pilot Mathias was heard working his radio and asking for weather data as the plane sped across the Kansas countryside bound for Wichita, the first stop on the journey to the coast. Radio contact with the Kansas City base broke off about the time of the crash.

See Wing Fall.

Farmers working in their fields near Bazaar, Kas., looked up from their work when they heard the noise of the motors. Clouds hid the plane. Suddenly as they watched, the huge ship appeared out of a bank of clouds spinning earthward like a falling rocket. Clarence McCracken and Charles Carpenter, feeding cattle nearby, saw a wing tear away from the ship and flutter to the ground a quarter of a mile from the wreckage.

Edward Baker, a farmer boy, said he heard a sound like an explosion and ran two miles to telephone Cottonwood Falls for doctors and ambulances. His father, S. H. Baker, on whose farm the ship crashed, described the accident.

"We heard the plane flying over this morning but couldn't see it because of the clouds," he said. "A minute later it sounded as if the motors were missing, and then we couldn't hear them at all. It seemed like five minutes after the ship passed over the house that we heard the crash. It landed out there in the pasture about a mile from the house, and when it hit it sounded like a muffled explosion. It didn't catch fire after it hit."

Motors Burrow Into Mud.

Witnesses believed that the plane was traveling at an altitude of 1,000 feet. It fell to the ground in the heart of Flint Hills, a rolling pastureland, soggy from melted snows. When the plane struck, nose down, its three big motors burrowed deep into the mud.

Jammed up in the forward control room were the bodies of the pilots. Two others were found in the tangled wreckage of the cabin beneath littered luggage and torn chairs. Only by their personal effects could the passengers be identified. Lying about the debris, some at a distance of 50 yards, were the mangled bodies of four others.

The news was flashed to the nearby cattle towns of Bazaar, Cassoday, and Matfield Green, and soon a cavalcade of automobiles was racing over the roads to the scene.

All Instantly Killed.

Dr. Jacob Hinden, Cottonwood Falls coroner, after an inspection of the wreckage declared that none of the passengers had been burned and that all had been killed instantly. He said he found no indication of an explosion. Department of commerce inspectors and officials of the T. A. T.-Western Air line were hurrying to the scene tonight to commence an inquiry. There was little hope that they could find sufficient evidence in the wreckage to establish a definite cause.

A watch, stopped at 10:45, established the time of the crash.

The plane was not overloaded, pilots pointed out, for only six passengers were carried, whereas the plane's capacity is 10, and the mail amounted to only 63 pounds. The plane was identified by its department of commerce license marking, No. NC 399.

Goldthwaite was an advertising man flying to Pasadena to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Goldthwaite. Miller was an assistant superintendent of sales promotion for the Aetna firm and was en route on a business trip. Bobrecht was a produce merchant and was bound for Amarillo, Tex.

Sons Face Tragedy Bravely.

Dr. Nigro, who took charge of the coach's body, hurried to Cottonwood Falls tonight with the two Rockne boys. They were not told of their father's death until they arrived there.

The inquest will be held tomorrow morning at Cottonwood Falls after federal authorities and officials of the air lines have inspected the wreckage.

The theory that ice had formed on the wings was given to Coroner Hinden tonight by H. G. Edgerton of Wichita, district passenger agent for the line, who expressed the belief that the weight of ice on the wings had caused it to break away.

Local pilots, however, scouted this theory, pointing out that the temperature was scarcely below freezing and explaining that sufficient ice could not have gathered on the wings to cause a structural failure.

ST. JOSEPH BUYS 2 PLAYERS.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 31.—(AP)—Jimmy Hamilton, owner of the St. Joseph Western league club, announced today the purchase of Shakar Kats, right handed pitcher, from Buffalo of the International league, and Zelusa, reserve outfielder with Minneapolis of the American association last year.

find work to help them obtain higher learning.

The world didn't hear much about Knute Rockne until an unknown Notre Dame football team climbed the heights at West Point on an October afternoon in 1913. Maj. Charles Daley was coach of the Army eleven. Jess Harper was the leader of Notre Dame. The Cadets had one of the strongest terms in their history. Its supporters criticized the West Point athletic officials for scheduling such a weak opponent at that stage of the season.

Irish Amaze Spectators.

But, much to the amazement of the spectators and to the complete consternation of the Army eleven, Notre Dame swept up and down the field to a 33 to 13 victory. That game probably had a more decisive effect on the future of football than any other. It was the first successful use of the forward pass as a major weapon of attack.

The man who stood out in that contest was Notre Dame's left end. His name was Rockne. All afternoon Quarterback Gus Dorais hurled passes from one end of the field to the other. And all afternoon Rockne gathered them in. His work that afternoon won him national recognition. The Army thought so well of this new type of play which Rockne and Dorais had perfected that the Notre Dame players were asked to remain at West Point long enough to teach the Cadets how to beat the Navy.

The next summer Rockne married Miss Bonnie Skiles of Sandusky, O., whom he had met while serving as a life guard at Cedar Point, O., during the summer of 1913. His widow, three sons and a daughter survive him.

Notre Dame kept Rockne after his graduation in 1914 as assistant to Harper. He also served as a chemistry instructor. He made good from the start at both jobs and when Harper resigned in 1918 to devote his time to his ranch in Kansas, Rockne was the only candidate who had a chance to land the position of head coach.

Record of Victories Begins.

Throwing out the S. A. T. C. year of 1918, in which his team lost only one game, Rockne got his first test as a coach in 1919. His team made good with a record of nine straight victories. That was the year George Gipp, the greatest player Notre Dame has developed, came to the front. Rockne's eleven, with Gipp in the van, was undefeated again in 1920.

Iowa's Big Ten championship team of 1921 was the first to check Notre Dame's victory march. It was the only team to turn the trick that season. Then came an off year as off years go at Notre Dame, two defeats being marked against the squad. But it marked the formation of the greatest back field the game has ever known—the Four Horsemen. The next autumn they were galloping up and down the gridirons of the nation with no one able to stop them until Nebraska did it in the final game. They carried on in 1924, however, to the national championship.

Rockne's teams in the next few years dropped a game now and again until 1929. That season his men were undefeated. They were given various trophies emblematic of the national championship. Last year they repeated for the most amazing string of victories ever compiled, when the caliber of the opposition is considered.

He Trained Coaches.

Rockne's leadership among coaches was nowhere more marked than in his summer schools. Hundreds of high school and college athletic leaders from the Pacific coast to the Atlantic, and from northern Wisconsin to the gulf of Mexico, have attended his lectures. His formations and plays have been more widely copied than those of any other coach. He has written several books and magazine articles on football, and there was an ever growing demand for him as a speaker. His wit and his keen intellect made a hit everywhere. He always has been a champion of his sport, particularly against the recent attacks of reformers who would curb the expansion of the game.

Rockne's personality was reflected in his teams. He stressed speed, alertness, and intelligence. He was the first to make use of what came to be known as shock troops. This was the outgrowth of a system of mass athletics in which every boy had a chance to take part.

If football was good for the varsity players, it was also good for the entire undergraduate body, Rockne argued.

There are scores of famous players who today are mourning the loss of the man who taught them what they know about football. Close your eyes while the parade goes marching by—Gipp, Flanagan, Miller, Layden, Crowley, Stuhldreher, Kiley, Anderson, Walsh, Carideo, Connolly, Savoldi, Brandy, Bergman, Barry, and Schwartz.

For "Rock" there will be no going on to greater heights. He died in the flush of his fame.

I think he would have wished it so.

Purdue Puts Flag at Half Staff in Tribute to Rockne

Lafayette, Ind., March 31.—[Special.]—Purdue university's campus flag was at half staff today by order of President Edward C. Elliott, as tribute to Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach. The news of the football expert's tragic death shocked the Purdue student body and faculty. A warm admirer and friend of Rockne, President Elliott said:

"It is a tragic climax of an extraordinary career. Knute Rockne was more than an athletic coach. He was a great leader of men, whose influence was nation-wide. A genius has passed from us. We at Purdue are stunned."

Purdue felt itself particularly close to Knute Rockne, since the Rockne style of football has been used here for 10 years and brought Purdue the Big Ten championship in 1929. Jimmy Phelan, a Rockne student, introduced the system at Purdue, and Noble E. Kizer, present coach, continues it.

ROCKNE'S FAMILY INFORMED OF HIS DEATH BY RADIO

Mother and Sisters Wire News to Wife.

A radio flash broke the news of Knute Rockne's death to his mother and four sisters, all living in Chicago. The family telegraphed his wife, Mrs. Bonnie Stiles Rockne, who was at Miami, Fla., with two of her four children. Mrs. Rockne and the children left last night for South Bend.

Besides his widow, Rockne is survived by four children: Billy, 15; Knute Jr., 13; Mary Jean, 11, and Jackie, 5.

One of the sisters, Mrs. Martha Stiles, 7014 Osceola avenue, heard the news bulletin over station W-G-N. She then made inquiry by telephone and was told that although Rockne was known to have booked passage on the wrecked air liner, his body had not been positively identified.

Gather at Mother's Home.

Mrs. Stiles telephoned her sisters, Louise and Florence Rockne, who live with the 72 year old mother, Mrs Martha Rockne, at 4824 North California avenue. Another sister, Mrs. Anna Leggett, 3825 Richmond street, was also notified and all gathered at the mother's home.

Uncertain still whether Knute had been killed, the sisters told their mother he had merely been hurt. But the mother telephoned THE TRIBUNE and, without identifying herself, asked whether the famous coach was dead.

Mother Hears News.

Informed her son was killed, Mrs. Rockne turned to attend Louise, who had fainted at the news. Only Monday night mother and daughter had seen Coach Rockne in a news reel, putting the Notre Dame football team through spring practice at South Bend.

MRS. ROCKNE ON WAY HOME

Miami, Fla., March 31.—[Special.]—Mrs. Knute Rockne left here tonight with her daughter, Mary Jean, 11, and son, Jackie, 5, for South Bend. They will arrive Thursday afternoon about 5 o'clock, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Neil of Akron, O., who have been the closest friends of the Rocknes during their winter residence here for the last two seasons.

Mrs. Rockne might have heard of her husband's death on the road had it happened a day later. She had planned to drive north tomorrow morning with the two children. Rockne was making the trip to the coast by plane so he could be back in Kansas City in time to spend Easter with his two sons, Billy, 15, and Knute, 13, who are in school there.

Friend Hears News.

The coach's wife almost heard of her husband's death from the lips of newsboys. She had gone from her home in Coral Gables with Mary Jean in the morning to spend the final day on the beach with the O'Neils.

They were in the O'Neil car about 2:30 in the afternoon when a garage attendant informed O'Neil. O'Neil tried to break it to her easily.

He said, "I've some serious news for you."

She knew that Rockne was going to take the plane and immediately surmised what had happened. But four hours later, while directing packing, she still was trying to convince herself that Rockne might have escaped.

Receives Rockne's Telegram.

Telegrams had begun to arrive when she got back to her home in Coral Gables. One was from Rockne himself. He had sent it before boarding the plane—a warm message, typical of their long love, which no amount of fame had ever touched.

Little Jackie played with a popgun, got out his marbles, and kicked a football. That football was the last thing Mrs. Rockne saw before she left the house. She asked that it be packed away. Rockne and Jackie had played with it and Rockne had blown it up himself.

day is the earliest possible day that burial can be made. Whether the funeral will be still later depends on the wishes of Mrs. Rockne when she arrives Thursday.

Members of the Monogram club tonight met and made plans to meet the body when it arrives. Plans also were made for a guard of honor to stand watch by the casket in Sacred Heart church when Rockne's body lies in state.

The Scholastic, Notre Dame student weekly paper, printed a special edition this afternoon eulogizing the Notre Dame coach.

Father O'Donnell this afternoon said:

"Nothing that has ever happened at Notre Dame has so shocked the faculty and the student body as the tragic news that came at noon today of the accident which took Mr. Rockne's life. To every person at Notre Dame this was a personal grief as it would be if a member of his own family died.

"Everybody was proud of Rockne, everybody admired him: but something far more than that, we loved him.

"Altogether, apart from the unique and deserved success which he achieved as director of athletics and as football coach, he was a great personality with the attributes of genius.

Knew Rockne 20 Years.

"My own friendship for him extends over the last 20 years, when I was a student in Corby hall, where I was a prefect. The friendship then formed has remained unbroken, and it will always be for me one of the fairest memories of life.

"Our hearts go out in loving sympathy to Mrs. Rockne and to his four children. The university will hold a solemn requiem service in Sacred Heart church, Notre Dame, tomorrow. All students will receive holy communion for the repose of his soul."

"I can't believe it," Huntly Anderson, assistant coach, said. "Rockne was a part of Notre Dame. It can never be the same without him. The boys on the team loved Rock they loved him because of the great lessons he had taught them by his unfailing work and his wonderful example as a sportsman, a teacher and a friend."

Tom Conley, captain of the 1930 team and star right end, said, "I can't believe it! I'm too broken up really to say anything. 'Rock' died as he had lived—in action."

Captain Elect Speaks.

Captain Elect Tommy Yarr, center, said: "Mr. Rockne's death is the biggest personal loss I've ever experienced. I only hope that I will be able to live up to the ideals which he has left me."

Frank Carideo, all American quarter back for the last two years, stated, "I feel as bad as the remaining coaches and authorities over the death of Mr. Rockne. I have had the privilege of dealing just a little more with 'Rock,' as we called him, and therefore perhaps carry a little more feeling for him. He was a man of the highest, none better.

Jack Chevigny, back field coach, who was a player on the 1928 team, was in tears when he heard of Mr. Rockne's death. He would make no statement, and his usual buoyancy and vitality seemed to have left him.

have known Knute Rockne as a fine counselor when aproached on any matter pertaining to sport or to personal affairs. He was interested in all sport, whether it concerned Notre Dame or athletics in general. I have appreciated most highly his personal friendship for the last five years since coming to Wisconsin. In his chosen field he was the outstanding man of his day and his great genius for football brought him world renown."

Judge Walter P. Steffen, advisory coach, Carnegie Tech: "Words fail to adequately express my deep sorrow over the death of my lifelong friend, Knute Rockne. Rockne, the outstanding figure in American athletic life, passed away at the height of his wonderful career, not only the peer of American football coaches, but a fine, lovable character.

"It was always a pleasure to be in his presence. His keen intellect and wit made his a most attractive personality. Like his personality, his football teams were just different from any of the others. We will surely miss him, but his fine traits of character will live on."

Coach Noble Kizer, Purdue: "It is almost unbelievable. Bad news from home could not have come any closer to my heart, for Rockne, as my former coach, confidant and counselor, represented my ideal of a real man. He was far more than a football coach. As an inspiring leader he had no equal and his influence in my life has meant more than I can describe."

[Editor's Note—Upon receipt of word of Rockne's death, Coach Kizer called off spring football practice for the day. President Elliott directed that flags on Purdue university campus be displayed at half mast.]

Athletic Director George Huff, Illinois (with Illinois baseball team at Oxford, Miss.): "I am deeply shocked to hear of the death of my good friend Knute Rockne. Few men who have been active in sports will leave such an impress for the generations to follow. I've known Knute for twenty years and enjoyed a close personal friendship. The relations between Illinois and Notre Dame always have been most friendly.

"The world has lost one of its greatest grid coaches and leaders. In my judgment he would have made a success in any line of endeavor. He was most generous with his time, and it is small wonder that the public loved him."

Director A. A. Stagg, Chicago: "Knute Rockne's death is a shock to me. Death at 43 seems cruel. It was not my privilege to see his greatest teams play, but I know he was a master coach and a great leader. He evidently welded his teams together mechanically and spiritually. Otherwise he could not have had such remarkable success throughout his career."

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner Big Ten: "Knute Rockne's death was a greater loss to society than to football. This country that appreciates the things Knute stood for paid him, during his lifetime, some of the tribute he deserved. His true worth to society, however, will be recognized more and more as time goes on."

Charles E. Dorais, athletic director at the University of Detroit—"To me Rockne was more than a great football coach. He was one of the best friends I ever had. He had a great capacity for friendship and many men feel toward him as I do. The loss to football is incalculable. Rockne contributed as much to the game as any man I know and was in position to contribute a great deal more. And his contribulations were not limited to Notre Dame. They were nation-wide."

TWO CHICAGOANS AMONG VICTIMS IN PLANE CRASH

One Rockne's Traveling Companion.

Two of the eight victims of yesterday's air transport disaster in Kansas were Chicagoans. These and two other victims, including Knute Rockne, left here on the same train Monday night for Kansas City, where yesterday morning they boarded the ill fated plane.

It was the second airplane trip in his life for John H. Happer, 33 years old. Mr. Happer lived with his wife, Anna, and their five small children at 6312 North Washtenaw avenue, and was controller for the Wilson Western Sporting Goods company, 2037 Powell avenue, a subsidiary of Wilson & Co., packers.

An old friend of Coach Rockne, Mr. Happer had looked forward to the trip they planned to take together to Los Angeles. Mr. Happer was making the trip to assist in opening a new branch of his company in Los Angeles.

Given Advice by Rockne.

Rockne, a seasoned air traveler who had made a hop from Miami to Champaign, Ill., in a chartered plane only two weeks ago, was advising his companion before they left here on how to provision himself for the trip. An associate of Happer's, W. L. Robb, was with them at the Dearborn station and recalled the conversation.

"Better take some literature along," Rockne had counseled before they boarded the 7 p. m. Santa Fé train. "Those airplane engines make an awful roar and there won't be much chance for conversation."

Happer, whose only previous airplane experience was a ride from Kansas City to Chicago, demurred at Rockne's suggestion, explaining that he had plenty of work to keep him occupied. Following his own thought, Rockne purchased an armful of magazines and a couple of mystery novels, and both boarded the train, waving Robb farewell.

Another Chicagoan Aboard.

Aboard the same train, unknown to his fellow air travelers, was the other Chicagoan, H. J. Christen, 41 years old, an interior decorator, who had closed his office in the Wrigley building and his apartment at 45 Cornelia avenue, to resume his profession in Los Angeles. His wife had preceeded him there by train.

It was his first airplane trip for the fourth man on the train, Wade F. Miller, 29 years old, unmarried and a division chief for the Etna Life insurance company at Hartford, Conn. Arriving here Monday morning, Miller had spent the day conferring with an associate, Paul M. Watt, insurance agent at 1737 Howard street, and was accompanied to the depot by Watt.

Miller was a bit apprehensive over the air trip, Watt recalled. He feared he might become sick because of the altitude.

DuPaul Votes to Abolish Its Baseball Team

Definite decision to abandon intercollegiate baseball competition was reached yesterday at a meeting of the De Paul university athletic committee.

Members of the committee who voted to abolish the sport from the curriculum were Athletic Director James Kelly, the Rev. J. W. Blechle, faculty moderator of athletics; Dean Gaffney, and the Rev. D. F. McHugh.

"It was the consensus that the declining interest in intercollegiate baseball does not warrant the continuation of the sport this year," said Mr. Kelly.

"Increasing difficulties have been encountered each year in the scheduling of games. Our present plans call for the development of an intramural program of baseball if sufficient interest is shown by the student body."

After Easter De Paul will devote most of its attention to spring football training. Many veterans are expected to report to Coaches Eddie Anderson and Ben Connor for the opening workout on Monday.

NOTRE DAME ALUMNI TO MEET BODY OF ROCKNE

The board of directors of the Notre Dame club of Chicago yesterday made plans for the club's participation in the funeral arrangements following the death of Coach Knute K. Rockne.

A committee will meet the body upon its arrival in Chicago at 7:45 this evening on a Santa Fé train, and will act as an honorary escort to South Bend. This committee is headed by James H. Brennan, as president of the club, and consists of the following past presidents:

Warner, Ingram Learn News on Way to Reunion

Glendale, Cal., March 31.—(AP)Two great men of football, Navy Bill Ingram, coach of California, and Glenn [Pop] Warner, veteran mentor of Stanford, stepped smiling from an air transport plane here today. They were beaming in the hopes of a reunion tonight with the greatest of them all—their friend, Knute Rockne. They had flown from San Francisco.

Smiles froze into pained set features and color left their cheeks when they were greeted with a few words from an Associated Press staffman.

"Knute can't be dead. I don't believe it," cried Navy Bill.

Tears came into old Pop Warner's eyes.

"He was the greatest figure in football today," said Pop as his voice trembled. "One man with no enemies. The greatest friend of all his players and he did a lot for them, but he did an awful lot more for the game."

Then words failed the Stanford veteran.

"The best friend I ever had," said Navy Bill, who could not talk for ten minutes after his first outburst. "Without doubt Rock was the greatest figure of intercollegiate athletics. He leaves a great work unfinished, for much as he has done for football, he had greater plans to bring it even to higher standards."

Minnesota Legislature Plans to Honor Rockne

St. Paul, Minn., March 31.—(AP)—A resolution honoring the memory of Knute Rockne was prepared for introduction in the Minnesota state legislature today after word of his death was announced. It was drafted by Warren Hastings, Two Harbors; Ray Quinlivan, St. Cloud, and Ray Kern, Lake Elmo, and said, in part: "Resolved, that this assembly hereby expresses its sincere sorrow" over the death of "Knute Rockne, . . . perhaps the greatest figure in the history of football."

DULUTH DEFEATS PLA-MORS, 3 TO 2, TO EVEN SERIES

Kansas City, Mo., March 31.—(AP)—Duluth evened the semi-final American league hockey playoff series tonight with a 3 to 2 victory over the defending champions, the Kansas City Pla-Mors.

Three games now have been played. Each team has won one and one was tied. The total goals are also even, five each. The fourth and deciding game will be played here next Thursday night.

Vezie, Former Notre Dame End, to Aid Lieb on Coast

Los Angeles, Cal., March 30.—(AP)—Manfred Vezie, who played end for Notre Dame 1927 to 1929 and last year was one of Knute Rockne's assistants, today was signed by Tom Lieb to assist him at Loyola college during the 1931 football season.

THREATS OF RAIN WASTE THE DAY FOR WHITE SOX

Team Folds Tents Today; Will Go to Little Rock.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 31.—[Special.]—There was more or less confusion attached to the White Sox training affairs today.

First Manager Bush, upon observing the weather, decided he would take his boys by the hand and lead them on to Little Rock, Ark., tonight. Then the sun suddenly appeared after a night of rain and Bush decided he would not. So the Sox stayed here today without turning a wheel and they'll be here again tomorrow when they hope to be able to indulge in at least a few exercises calculated to keep them in condition.

The day's commotion started as soon as Bush had arisen after a night of dreaming in which he thought Bill Terry was playing first base for the Sox. As soon as he picked up the morning paper and made sure nothing of that nature had happened, he peered out the window and noticed everything was very wet and the heavens threatening. He promptly called Secretary Lou Barbour on the phone and then the commotion started in earnest.

Bush Changes Plans.

Mr. Barbour was enjoying the customary breakfast of tomato juice, oatmeal, four boiled eggs with a side of bacon, a stack of wheat cakes, and a cup of coffee when the page requested him to desist from his favorite occupation. It was Bush calling. As soon as contact was made Bush asked if it would be possible to alter transportation plans so that the Sox could leave tonight for Little Rock. Barbour assured Bush that the change could be made without trouble to anybody except the railroad people, who are accustomed to such things. Bush said to go ahead and order the change.

Word was flashed around to the players' room and there was immediate activity on their part. Those who are married dashed off wires requesting their spouses meet them in Little Rock tomorrow instead of Thursday. Then the sun came out. Bush decided Fort Worth wasn't such a bad place after all.

Barbour Called Again.

Mr. Barbour who by this time was debating whether he would nibble a whole ham or a side of beef for lunch, was called again. He was told that the Sox would stay here until tomorrow night and Barbour passed the word along to the railroad men. Then the players were notified and they dashed off fresh telegrams telling the wives not to appear in Little Rock until Thursday. Baseball is getting more complicated every day.

About an hour after all this off again on again Finnegan stuff had been perpetrated there came a fresh indication that the monotony of spring training is liable to bring on an epidemic of any kind. A half dozen of the boys sauntered into the lobby wearing abbreviated sombreros, the pattern the cowboys adopt for Sunday appearance. A kindly merchant had dispensed them at the reduced price of six dollars per number. Lyons, Cissell, Appling, Henline, and an unidentified scribe took the kind that don't show the dust. Bennie Tate selected a black one, giving him the appearance of a combination small town rector, undertaker, and sheriff.

Players Don Uniforms.

Later in the day Mr. Bush tried to get his boys back on a working basis, but it was a futile effort. He selected the pitchers and catchers as proper candidates for a drill out at the local park. They slipped into uniform and went to the place, but upon arrival discovered it was so muddy and cold that labor was out of the question. So they taxied right back to the hotel. Tomorrow they'll endeavor to do something from which they can derive some benefit. In the evening they'll board a train for Little Rock unless Bush should decide upon taking a ride to some other place.

RUTH'S CLOTHING SHOP TO BE SOLD TODAY IN AUCTION

New York, March 31.—(AP)—Babe Ruth's enterprise took him into the haberdashery business one day last fall.

An auctioneer is going to take him out of it tomorrow. The Babe Ruth Shop for Men on Broadway was a flop. Conductors of the sale don't expect it will bring much, about 7 cents on the dollar.

So while Babe's bat is busting 'em out in spring training they're selling out the business. But it's more than that.

The Babe has about $1,250 in royalties coming to him from hat, shirt, collar button, and sock sales or lack of them.

HARLEM FIGHTER IS KNOCKED OUT BY BERLENBACH

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 31.—[Special.]—Paul Berlenbach, former world's light heavyweight champion, made his comeback to boxing after an absence of about two years tonight at the Broadway arena, Brooklyn, where he knocked out Eddie Clark, a Harlem light heavyweight with pacific tendencies. Rivals in a special four round bout, Berlenbach and Clark furnished an unsatisfactory encounter until the former champion ended the battle with a right left and right to the jaw after one minute and eighteen seconds of the third round.

Minnesota Senate O. K.'s 15 Round Boxing Bouts

St. Paul, Minn., March 31.—(AP)—Approval of a boxing bill permitting boxing shows in all parts of the state and limiting 15 round bouts was voted by the Minnesota state senate today, 41 to 12. The house is expected to act on the measure soon. Only Minneapolis, Duluth and St. Paul now are permitting boxing shows and bouts extend to 10 rounds.

Pirates Pound Malone; Beat Cubs, 9 to 5 and putting Grimm on third. Charley went on home and Malone proceeded to second when L. Waner's throw to get Grimm at third evaded Traynor and went into the Cub dugout. Cuyler flied to L. Waner.

After Kremer had struck out to start the Pirate third L. Waner doubled along the right foul line and went to third on Grantham's fly to Cuyler. He died when English threw out brother Paul.

The Cubs in the third again made two runs after two were out. English for the second time reached first on a Pirate error, when Comorosky dropped his liner. Woody stole second. Hornsby flied to L. Waner. Then Wilson grounded to Thevenow and English was run down between second and third, Wilson reaching second. Stephenson doubled to left, scoring Hack, Stephenson scored on Hartnett's single to left. P. Waner made a fine catch to retire Bell.

Pirates Get Three.

The Pirates made three runs and should have had at least four in the home run shower in the fourth. Traynor got to second when Bell threw the ball into right field, but some stupid coaching caused Pie to try for third and he was out. Cuyler to Bell. Malone threw out Comorosky and Suhr knocked the ball into the right field stands. Thevenow walked and then Phillips smacked the ball to the top of the center field fence. It bounded back into the field but Thevenow and Phillips were home before Wilson could get the thing back to the plate. Kremer rolled out to Grimm.

Malone got a walk and English a single in the Cub fourth but Hornsby ended the inning and his day's work with a strike out before a score could be tabulated.

A double play got Malone out of a jam in the fifth. L. Waner singled to center and Grantham walked, but P. Waner hit into the double, English to Grimm, L. Waner stopping at third. Traynor flied to Cuyler.

The Cubs got Stevie to second after a walk in the fifth, but all this inspired the Pirate to step out and tie the score, 4 to 4, in the first of the sixth. Suhr tripled with one out and came home on Thevenow's fly to Wilson. Phillips popped to Jurges. After Grimm had fouled to Phillips and Malone had struck out in the sixth, Cuyler singled to center and then English fanned.

Malone Fans Two.

In the seventh Malone added two strikeouts to his record. Dugas fanned for Kremer, L. Waner flied to Stephenson, and Grantham fanned. Woods took over the Pirate pitching job in the seventh. Jurges and Wilson grounded to Thevenow and Stevie fouled to Traynor.

Jensen batted for P. Waner to start the eighth and doubled to center. Traynor popped to Jurges, but Comorosky singled to left, scoring Jensen. Suhr singled to left center, putting Comorosky on third, after which Thevenow tripled, scoring Comorosky and Suhr. Phillips followed with his No. 2 homer, scoring Thevenow ahead of him. L. Waner flied to Cuyler. The Cubs made a run in the ninth on three walks and two infield outs. Lineup:

PEIPING, China, March 31.—Private Mate Ban, 1333 Medbury street, Detroit, Mich., a member of the American legation's marine guard, today was notified that he was the winner of 122,500 (about $122,500) in the Shanghai sweepstakes on the British Grand National race. Private Ban paid six shillings (about $1.50) for a share in a syndicate block of tickets.

Wild Turkeys Thrive Most in Dense Forests

BY BOB BECKER.

Forty wild turgeys that were released about a year ago near Baraboo, Wis., are flourishing and it is more than likely that the Badger state may succeed in bringing back this great game bird to the central states where once it was abundant. Sportsmen and conservationists are watching the Wisconsin experiment with marked interest.

Opinion was that the turkey could not thrive in Wisconsin because the timbered country which the bird must have has been disappearing rapidly. Just as the prairie chicken needs broad open prairies if he is to keep up his numbers, so the turkey requires heavy woodlands. However, the success of these 40 birds, released a year ago, has encouraged Wisconsin to the extent that 80 more wild turkeys have been turned out in the Wisconsin woodlands.

Although the game hog and the pothunter who shoots out of season are a menace to small flocks of new birds such as big turkeys, it seems logical that the wild turkey can be grown again in some of the wooded areas in the central states. They'll need protection if much restocking is done. But Pennsylvania has been able to grow turkeys in its forests. States around the great lakes should be able to do the same.

We have been in turkey country of several southern states and have seen the kind of wooded lands they need in order to live. There isn't any doubt that this large game bird must have lots of cover. Quail need thickets, weed patches, and other protective cover with food supplies in them. The bob whites can't thrive on bare ground.

However, fields denuded of trees can grow coveys of quail while wild turkeys demand large areas with nothing but heavy timber. In Mississippi where we bagged a couple of gobblers one March we were hunting in a veritable jungle, a forest which had not been cut over and which was all tangled up with vines and underbrush. In Florida pretty much the same thing is true.

AUSTRALIAN WINS SOUTHEASTERN OPEN GOLF MEET

Augusta, Ga., March 31.—(AP)—Joe Kirkwood, Australian professional, won the southeastern open golf tournament and first prize money of $1,000 by scoring a 70, one under par, on the final 18 holes today for a total of 290.

Kirkwood played the last 18 holes in a driving rain, which made the course soggy and sent scores of most contestants skyrocketing.

Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., finished with a 292 and second place, while Willie MacFarlane, Tuckahoe, N. Y., ended one stroke back of Runyan for third place.

Johnny Farrell of Mamaroneck, N. Y., turned in a 295 for fourth place, and Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N. Y., and Walter Hagen of Detroit tied with 296 to share fifth and sixth places and prize money.

Dazzy Vance Gets $23,000 from Robins

New York, March 31.—(AP)—Arthur [Dazzy] Vance, the most effective pitcher in the big leagues last season on the basis of runs scored against him, today agreed to sign a contract with Brooklyn calling for a salary of $23,000 for the season.

This was $2,000 less than he had demanded and $500 more than the club first offered.

"The $23,000 salary makes Vance one of the highest paid pitchers, his stipend being exceeded, if at all, only by the salary checks of George Earnshaw and Robert Grove of the Philadelphia Athletics.

Vance was paid $25,000 for the season of 1929, but he made a poor showing that year, partly caused by his late training start, and his salary was cut to $20,000 for 1930. Because of his fine record last year, of only 2.61 earned runs a game, Vance demanded the same salary he received in 1929.

Vance planned to join the team at Macon, Ga.

A'S ROOKIE MAKES GOOD.

Athens, Ga., March 31.—(AP)—Capt. Eddie Collins, acting skipper of the Philadelphia Athletics, introduces a novelty frequently and Bob Johnson, a rookie, has become the star actor of the cast. Johnson, an outfielder up from Portland, has been in all the infield positions, due to injuries to regulars, and has made good.

"I like the infield best," the young Cherokee said, "because there's more action there. I like plenty of action; that's why I gave up an office job to play ball."

The A's canceled their game with the University of Georgia today because of rain.

Baseball Chiefs Attend Rites for Barnard

Cleveland, O., March 31.—(AP)—While leaders of the baseball world paid silent tribute, funeral services were held here this afternoon for Ernest Sargent Barnard, president of the American league, who died last Friday in Rochester, Minn.

The body was placed in the mausoleum at Knollwood cemetery here.

Prominent Figures Attend.

More than 40 of the national pastime's most prominent figures and hundreds of fans who knew the sportsman, attended the rites at the Masonic temple, which were held in the ritual of the Knights Templar.

Allenby commandery, No. 73, of which Mr. Barnard was a member, conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. Miles H. Krumbine, a Cleveland pastor, who was one of his friends.

Johnson Rites Today.

After the burial of Mr. Barnard, many of the mourners were to go to Spencer, Ind., for the last rites tomorrow for Byron Bancroft Johnson, who preceded Barnard as the American league president and outlived him only 16 hours.

Minnesota Lifts Ban on King Tut, Billy Petrolle

Minneapolis, Minn., March 31.—(AP)—King Tut and Billy Petrolle and their managers were reinstated today by the Minnesota boxing commission, which had suspended them after their fight in New York when Tut was knocked out in the fourth round.

Joe O'Gordon, secretary of the commission, said the men were reinstated for lack of evidence after the commission investigated charges of irregularities which cropped out after their last fight Feb. 27.

Reports of a betting coup and the unexplained switching of odds on the Minneapolis fighter to Petrolle the day before the fight prompted the Minnesota commission to suspend the boxers and their managers. In a bout a few weeks previous to the New York match, Tut knocked out Petrolle in 24 seconds.

At the executive meeting today no one appeared to press the charges and three commissioners voted for reinstatement.

Tut recently had his appendix removed at Rochester, Minn. He attributed his poor showing in the New York bout to appendicitis.

Jack Hurley is manager of the Duluth lightweight, and Leo Leavitt and Ernie Fleigel handle Tut.

N. Y. MILK FUND WITHDRAWS FROM FIGHT PROMOTION

Move Aids Negotiations for Chicago Bout.

Chicago's prospects of landing the heavyweight championship boxing match between Max Schmeling and Willie Stribling increased yesterday when William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden announced that the New York Milk Fund had withdrawn from the promotion.

The Chicago civic committee headed by Sheldon Clark and George Getz insisted they would have no part in the promotion of the bout if any of the proceeds were taken back to New York charities.

Barred From New York.

Madison Square Garden in cooperation with the New York Milk Fund had planned to put on the fight in New York. They were forced to look elsewhere for a site when the New York boxing commission barred Schmeling for his refusal to give Jack Sharkey first crack at the title. Schmeling won the championship on a foul in a bout with Sharkey last summer. The New York commission as well as the National Boxing association had agreed to recognize the winner as successor to the crown which Gene Tunney had vacated.

Efforts to transfer the Schmeling-Stribling fight to Chicago encountered trouble immediately. Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, said he opposed renting Soldiers' field to a promotion for New York charities. Civic leaders protested vigorously.

Deals With Cleveland.

Carey and others interested in the bout yesterday agreed that the venture would not succeed in Chicago as a Milk Fund enterprise.

Cleveland is the other city bidding for the match. Carey left for the Ohio city last night. He expects to reach a decision on the site by tomorrow.

HAWKS ENTER CUP FINAL; WHIP N. Y. RANGERS, 1-0

coats were back again in the next moment with a smooth rush that only Gardiner's brilliance kept from scoring. He stopped close ones from both Cook brothers. The Hawks again broke loose, but failed to pass when they had a good chance.

Bostrum Saves Goal.

Boucher swept down the right alley to close quarters but Bostrum saved a goal at the expense of a tripping penalty. Bill Cook protested that it should have been a major. Wentworth followed him, charged with deliberately hoisting the puck over the boards.

The Rangers sent five men down, passing and shooting all around the net, but the Blackhawks put a solid wall of muscle and wood around the goal mouth and Gardiner covered a wide territory to clear away shots his mates could not reach for him.

The third period hardly had started when Peters got Bun Cook's pass right at the goal mouth with plenty of time to get set, then slammed the puck right into Gardner's pads as the goalie came out to meet him. Once more the Rangers threw all they had into a series of raids, only to have them shatter on Chicago's stonewall defense.

Tom Cook Scores.

The Hawks took no chances but when they got an opening they took it to score the first goal of the game and their third of the series. With four Rangers in a hopeless scramble far down the ice, Tommy Cook, Adams and Wentworth broke clear, passed their way down the ice and Tommy took the puck to sink a final shot into the net as Roach was watching his two mates on the other side. The goal was timed in 5:30.

The Ranger return brought a pile-up in front of the net and on the next play both Murdoch and Boucher missed Johnson's pass across the goal mouth. In another moment Gardner blocked close in shots by Boucher and Bun Cook. Johnson joined in the New York drive and five men kept plugging away at the Chicago goalie. But Gardner wouldn't miss one and his defense men saved him a lot of trouble by blocking and clearing shots. Tommy Cook escaped again just after the ten minute mark, but this time Roach stopped him when he shot from two feet out.

Cook nearly repeated the feat a moment later but shot wide, and with Adams and March aiding him kept a lot of the play in Ranger territory. The regular Rangers came back again and had Gardiner flat on the ice with the puck under him in one rush. They still kept plugging away, but their attack lacked a bit of fire while the Hawk defense was as tight as ever and their sallies faster and more frequent.

A goal judge caused some excitement when he flashed the red light when Ripley's shot went just outside the net instead of just in. The Hawks followed up this attack with a few more touch ones. The last couple of minutes were as fast as tired legs could carry the players, but the scoring chances were over.

BRUDER ENTERS WRESTLING CLAN; IN BOUT MONDAY

Makes Debut at Calza Show.

Hank Bruder, captain of Northwestern's football team last fall, will make his bow as a professional wrestler Monday night at the Coliseum, introducing a grip of his own which he has nicknamed the "Wildcat."

The grip itself is Bruder's own secret. But it starts with a leaping, wildcattish, flying tackle. At the conclusion of the leap Bruder has his grip, if the attack is successful, and he pins his man there.

Bruder, one of the most popular athletes at Northwestern since the days of Paddy Driscoll, will wrestle Rudy Hoffman, who was a De Paul university student, on the Coliseum mat card, which is being staged by Jim Mullen and Joe Coffey. Hoffman has had considerable experience at both amateur and professional wrestling.

Bruder and Hoffman will appear in one of the preliminaries, though Hank hopes to be in a windup spot shortly against Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame football star, who also is wrestling for money these days.

George Calza, Italian champion, and Georges De Long, French giant, will wrestle in the windup, best two falls out of three, to a finish. Bob [Bibber] McCoy, former Holy Cross athlete, and Frank Judson [ex-Harvard coach, will clash in another match.

Charles [Buck] Weaver, former University of Chicago football star, who has been wrestling in the east, will appear against Abe Kaplan, Jewish champion

Fort Sheridan Polo Club Beats Boston Trio, 13-2[illegible]

New York, N. Y., March 31.—(AP)—The Fort Sheridan Polo club of Chicago defeated the Commonwealth Polo of Boston, 13 to 2½ tonight in a class D championship game in the National Indoor Polo tournament.

Hawks to Root for Canadiens—Just Tonight

Les Canadiens are one of the National Hockey league teams which Chicagoans like to see the Blackhawks defeat, but Hawk fans will be rooting for the Flying Frenchmen tonight when the latter meet the Boston Bruins at Montreal. For if Les Canadiens win, it means that Blackhawk partisans will have two more chances to see their favorites in action on the Stadium ice this season. If the Bruins win, there will be no more hockey in Chicago until next November.

The Hawks won the right to compete for the Stanley cup and the title of world's hockey champions by defeating the Rangers at New York last night. Their foe in the final rests on the result of the Boston-Canadiens game tonight. Unfortunately the Bruins have refused to play any of the final five games here if they win. The Canadiens on the other hand, generously agreed to play the first two games in Chicago, meaning Friday and Sunday nights, if they beat the Bruins. Why Boston insists on playing all of the final series at Boston is unknown, but the fact that the Hawks have beaten them in their last six appearances here may have something to do with it. In addition, the Hawks can do nothing but go to Boston and play all five games in the event the Bruins win tonight, since the victor in the series at Montreal has the final choice of playing sites.

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Hawks, yesterday wired Frank Calder of Montreal, president of the league, as follows:

"Boston's refusal to accommodate us by playing here on third and fifth, our only available dates, leaves us no choice. Should we and Boston both win, we will therefore gladly spot Boston the added advantage and play all our games against them on their own ice. We wish at the same time to express our appreciation of the sporting offer of the Canadiens in the event of their winning to play their first two games on our ice."

CENTRAL A. A. U. BOXING TOURNEY STARTS TONIGHT

There will be 16 semi-final bouts, two in each of the eight classes, and eight finals. The winners will compose the team which will represent the Central A. A. U. in the national championships at Boston next week.

William T. Kenney, National A. A. U. chairman of boxing, of Boston, will be present at the tournament tonight as the guest of Capt. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the boxing committee of the Central A. A. U.

JERSEY BOWLERS ADVANCE IN A. B. C. BOWLING MEET

Buffalo, N. Y., March 31.—(AP)—Jersey bowlers created two upsets among the American bowling congress tournament leaders today, but Roy (Cap) Speare, Des Moines veteran, furnished the real excitement. W. Munn, Newark, reached a total of 1,889 to acquire ninth berth in the all-events division while M. Murzinski and W. Witt, Elizabeth, pegged their way into eighth place in the doubles class with a total of 1,251.

Thistle Ann Wins at Bowie and Pays $67

Bowie, Md., March 31.—[Special.]—Thistle Ann, at 33 to 1, woke up a chilled crowd at the Bowie race track today when she galloped to a smashing victory in the Inaugural handicap, with Morsel, the heavily backed favorite, second and thirteen others strung out behind them up the track. There was hardly a glimmer of support for Thistle Ann and her stablemate, Patricia Marian, in a field which included some of the crack racers from the winter courses.

At the end of the 7 furlongs the daughter of Sir John Johnson and Even Money had won by a length and a half from Morsel and paid $67.80 for $2.00. Morsel, winner of his previous three races in a row at Miami, was hard put to get second, for he held off Protractor by only a head, while Pennant Lass was another head farther back in fourth position.

George Collins is the owner of Thistle Ann, Patricia Marian, and Thistle Fyrn, the last named getting second in the Old Virginia purse, and he is a newcomer to Bowie racing. On the opening day the Glen Riddle farm stable, making its first Bowie appearance, captured the feature and Collins' success gives the newcomers the best of it over those who have been coming here for some time.

The victory was the first in the Inaugural for a filly since Lispardess won in 1925. Thistle Ann finished in the smart time of 1:26 and earned $3,580. Jockey Paul Remillard was up on the winner.

The Old Virginia was the secondary feature and saw S. W. Labrot's Rocket Glare the winner.

Gets Asks Legislature to Legalize 15 Round Fights

Springfield, Ill., March 31.—(AP)—George Getz, Chicago sportsman and member of the state athletic commission, today asked the state senate to legalize 15 round fights in this state.

LEVINSKY WHIPS CON O'KELLY IN 10 ROUND FIGHT

Boston, Mass., March 31.—(AP)—King Levinsky of Chicago won a decision over Con O'Kelly of Ireland in a ten round bout tonight. The decision was not popular. Levinsky weighed 182 and O'Kelly was 10 pounds heavier.

The Irishman fought cautiously in the opening rounds. He repeatedly hooked and jabbed his left to Levinsky's head and body. Levinsky countered with rights which occasionally found O'Kelly's ribs, but for the most part glanced off his weaving head and shoulders. In the fourth round O'Kelly backed the King against the ropes, jabbed him twice in the midriff, and then brought it to his head. Levinsky staggered for a moment, but came back strong. O'Kelly continued his persistent jabbing in the fifth.

Levinsky did his best work in the closing rounds. In the seventh he drove the Irishman across the ring. O'Kelly weathered the storm, however, and when the round closed he was still poking his left into his adversary's face.

THE VAST MAJORITY DEMANDS GILLETTE

SHAVES the face of the world

MORE than a hundred million men of every nationality and every walk of life meet on common ground when they buy razor blades. In England, Sweden, Germany—in one country after another famous for the manufacture of fine razor steel—the Gillette blade is the first choice of the vast majority. Such universal preference is positive proof that it gives users unsurpassed shaving satisfaction.

When you put a new Gillette blade in your razor you get a shave free from harshness and irritation—a shave that's smooth and easy on your face. Scientists and expert engineers—far more critical than any user—dedicate their efforts to the constant improvement of this blade. Today's triumph is the starting point of tomorrow's achievement in this great institution where allegiance to the highest manufacturing ideals is made possible by constant scientific research.

Gillette shaves the face of the world—is accepted everywhere as the prime factor in modern shaving comfort. It is natural, therefore, that the majority of men ask for Gillette when they buy razor blades.

KING GEORGE'S SECRETARY DIES IN LONDON AT 81

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 31.—Lord Stamfordham, a close friend and confidential adviser to three reigning monarchs and King George's private secretary, died in London today at the age of 81.

He saw more than half a century of service in the British royal household, and is said to have possessed more state secrets than any other man. He entered Queen Victoria's service as private secretary in 1895, acting in similar capacity to King Edward, and last to King George.

Born Arthur Bigge, the son of a country vicar, Lord Stamfordham was elevated to the peerage in 1911. As Capt. Bigge of the royal artillery, he distinguished himself in the Zulu campaigns. He is survived by two daughters. His wife, the former Constance Neville, daughter of a clergyman, died in 1922.

LAYS STREET MURDER OF INFORMER TO DOPE RING REVENGE PLOT

Lieut. Otto Erlanson, head of the police homicide squad, said yesterday he thought Max Tendler, 719 Montrose avenue, who was shot to death on the street Monday night at Leland and Racine avenues, was killed because he had given evidence to the government against members of a narcotic ring. At his request Coroner Herman N. Bundesen continued the inquest into Tendler's murder until April 10.

At the inquest the widow, Mrs. Bernadine Tendler, and a brother, Hyman Tendler, testified they knew of no reason for the shooting. Mrs. Tendler, the daughter of Policewoman Anna L. Murphy, said her husband had been a jewelry broker. Anthony Yonkus and Max Katz, who were selling newspapers on the corner, testified they saw two men walk up behind Tendler and shoot him. Six shots were fired, according to the testimony.

Coroner Bundesen was told Tendler was known as an informer.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

HELPED HER DIGESTION MORE THAN ANYTHING ELSE

"Suffered over thirty years with acid indigestion. ACIDINE has helped me more than anything I have ever taken," says Mrs. Emma Green, of Detroit, Michigan.

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, cold, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money. Get it today.

NICOLL, NOTED N. Y. ATTORNEY, IS DEAD, AGED 76

Prosecuted the 'Boodle Aldermen' Cases.

DR. LANCEY NICOLL

New York, March 31.—[Special.]—De Lancey Nicoll, noted New York lawyer, prosecutor of the "Boodle Alderman" cases back in the 1880's, died at his home here today at the age of 76 years. He had been in failing health for years.

Mr. Nicoll was born in 1854 on Shelter island. A graduate of Princeton university, Nicoll began his career in the law office of Clarkson N. Potter, a brother of the noted Bishop Potter. He early attracted the attention of Randolph Martine, one of the most celebrated lawyers of that day, who became district attorney in the middle eighties. Martine invited him to join his staff when he became prosecutor.

A National Sensation.

Nicoll accepted and proceeded to make a nation wide reputation for himself.

He started out by convicting Ferdinand Ward, who had been Gen. Grant's partner in a brokerage concern. Then came the hue and cry about the "boodle aldermen" and their prosecution. One after another grafting alderman was started on a parade to prison, and with them Jake Sharp of the Third Avenue railroad, their briber. The prosecutions were a national sensation.

Mr. Nicoll made himself strong with Tammany Hall in those prosecutions. As a matter of fact, Tammany was unsmirched. It was Republicans and county Democrats who were caught, convicted and sent to prison.

Clashed with Reformer.

In 1887 he ran for district attorney on an independent ticket and was beaten, but when he ran in 1890 on the Tammany ticket he won easily.

It was in 1892 that Mr. Nicoll, the Tammany district attorney in a wide open town, came into collision with the reformer, Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, pastor of the Madison Square Presbyterian church. Dr. Parkhurst preached sermons in which he uttered a blistering arraignment of the city government and of the Tammany overlordship of the city. He made savage charges, but they were generalities. Mr. Nicoll challenged them. Dr. Parkhurst admitted that he could not make oath personally to the truth of the evils he had denounced, but he informed Mr. Nicoll that he proposed to go out and "see all these things for myself."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ontario, March 31.—Rioting among unemployed was predicted by James Woodsworth and Abraham Heaps, Winnipeg Laborites, in the house of commons today when they demanded extension of federal unemployment relief beyond April 1. The $20,000,000 relief fund expires tonight.

FIND LEAKY GAS BAGS AND GALE WRECKED R-101

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 31.—The crash of the world's largest dirigible, the British R-101, in which forty-eight men lost their lives, including Lord Thomson, secretary of state for air, near Beauvais, France, on Oct. 5, was chiefly due to leaking gas bags. This is the conclusion of the court of inquiry, which published the report today.

The disaster, the court found, was not due to structural weakness. The report reveals that the giant airship experienced an unusual chain of misfortune after its start on a flight to India. She struck a 40 to 50 mile gale, a radical departure from meteorological reports. At 2 a. m., just before the crash, the "watch" was changed, but the court found no failure in the control gear, nor "is there any reason to attribute the accident to any failure in the competence of the officers and men.

"If the weather had been good the airship would have had a much better chance to escape," the report states, suggesting that the gas leakage was probably connected with "specific misfortune, such as ripping the forepart of the envelope. The court discountenanced the suggestion that the trip had been accelerated because of the desire to put on the flight during the imperial conference in London.

GIFTS TO A. OF C. FOR CRIME FIGHT ARE TAX EXEMPT

Contributions to the crime fighting fund of the Chicago Association of Commerce and its "Secret Six" may be deducted from taxable income in the making of federal income tax returns, according to a ruling received from the treasury department yesterday by the association.

The ruling called attention to the cooperation extended by the "Secret Six" to federal officials as well as state, county, and city crime fighting agencies. It was based on the phase of the revenue acts that permits deductions for contributions resulting in direct benefits to businesses or professions.

The ruling is retroactive for 1930 and will enable contributors to the "Secret Six" to file amended returns for last year.

Mills, William Jobelmann, and Olive Clark Day was delayed by Municipal Judge William Baird until April 30 when the case was called today. The continuance was granted on request of attorneys for Mills.

RADIO'S MOTIVE POWER SINCE 1915

Turn your radio dollars into radio's motive power.

SOARING to new heights—An airplane's flight depends on power to give it "wings"; just as your radio relies on wide-awake tubes to furnish it life.

A single inferior radio tube saps the strength of the others—have them tested frequently and avoid crippled radio performance. Insist on Cunninghams for replacement.

CHICAGO STOCK SALES REFLECT MARKET TREND

Monthly Volume Sign of Cautious Trading.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The monthly sales figures issued by the Chicago Stock exchange last night bring into graphic relief the situation which exists in the securities markets today in comparison with a year ago. Speculation is now being carried on at a moderate rate and there has been a lack of violent price fluctuation since the market turned up late in December.

A year ago this time an aspiring bull market was marching upward with colors flying, gradually approaching the peak from which the recession was to begin about May 1. It seems apparent that traders are now interpreting the events of trade in a manner more in keeping with facts than was the case a year ago at this time.

Shows Sharp Decline.

The exchange reported total volume of shares dealt in during March amounted to 3,941,000 shares, which compares with a total turnover of 8,349,700 shares in March last year, which gives an index to the conditions prevailing generally in securities markets. The par value of bonds traded in last month was $938,500, as compared with $9,951,000 in the corresponding month of 1930.

Trading yesterday on the exchange fell off to around 140,000, while an irregular price trend prevailed, in contrast with the definite down trend which held sway on the previous day. Price movements were narrow, holding generally within a one point range.

The electrical business of the Western Power, Light and Telephone company more than doubled in 1930, due to the expansion program carried out by the company. During the year seventeen communities were added to the system and sales of electricity jumped from 7,077,000 kilowatts in 1929 to 17,539,368 in 1930. In a letter to stockholders it is stated that a reduction in operating cost was effected because of the increased business.

Consolidate Management.

The company was formed in 1927 to take over and consolidate under one management a group of properties located in eight western and southwestern states. It also has properties in Pennsylvania. The class A stock of the company is currently quoted around 2¾ on the exchange.

First quarter business and earnings of the Abbott Laboratories were head of 1930, J. F. Stiles Jr., treasurer, states in a letter sent to stockholders with the first quarter's dividend checks. The company paid a regular quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share.

The Hartman corporation acquired 64,879 shares of its class B stock in the open market last year, and the stockholders will be asked to retire the stock when the annual meeting is held April 28. If the stock is retired there will remain outstanding 335,121 B shares.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Interest was centered in De Forest Radio on the Chicago curb yesterday, the issue finishing a fraction higher. Hammond Clock advanced a point, while Union Copper and Corporate Trust Shares were steady to fractionally higher. Indiana Pipe Line on a single trade was nearly two points above the last previous final price.

Chicago curb stock sales in March totaled 527,000 shares, an increase of around 10 per cent over February, while par value of bonds traded amounted to $173,000, a decrease of around 40 per cent from the previous month's volume.

CITES LIMIT TO CURTAILMENT OF RY. OPERATIONS

Atterbury Explains Why Roads Suffer.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Proposals of various measures of relief for the American railroads have recently been so many and varied as to be confusing. Much of the argument, however, has been couched in technical terms.

A more clear statement of the present difficulties of the railroads and an explanation of their needs are set forth by Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, in his annual report, made public last night. It explains why the railroads have suffered more from depression than the general run of industries.

W. W. ATTERBURY. [Moffett Photo.]

"There is a vast difference in the extent to which operations of railroads and industries can be curtailed," Gen. Atterbury says. "In times of depression many industries can close unprofitable plants to reduce expenses to balance more closely decreased revenues, thus adjusting production to consumption. It was impossible, however, to reduce railroad expenses to offset fully such a decline in revenues as was experienced during 1930 without detriment to property and impairment of service to the public.

Must Maintain Service.

"The railroads are frequently required to perform service known to be unprofitable and it is essential that the roadway, track, equipment, and other facilities be adequately maintained, so that the flow of commerce may be uninterrupted when business again becomes normal.

"The drastic recession in business and the consequent decline in railroad revenues during 1930 again emphasized the fact that during periods of expansion the railroads are not permitted, because of inadequate rates and the handicaps of restrictive legislation, to participate fairly in the country's prosperity. Notwithstanding the world-wide depression, the railroads have endeavored to protect the country's welfare against the unwholesome effects of disturbed financial and business conditions by proceeding with programs of large capital expenditures to improve and expand their facilities and equipment and to establish higher standards of service and safety.

"These expenditures amounted to about $900,000,000 in 1930 and for the eight years ended with 1930 involved almost seven billion dollars. The net return of the railroads for 1930, however, was only about 3.4 per cent on their investment, less than any year since 1921 and contrasting with 5 per cent in 1929. During the eight year period the average return was about 4½ per cent, which is far below the moderate return of 5¾ per cent fixed by the interstate commerce commission for rate making purposes under the provisions of the transportation act.

Net Income Is $68,809,818.

"It is of paramount importance that the nation and its industries receive the best and most economical forms of transportation. The railroads have no complaint as to any form to serve as that is a legitimate and natural economic development, but intelligent consideration of the railroad situation should result in such legislation and regulatory relief as will assure them economic equality of opportunity to engage profitably in all kinds of transportation service by land, water and air."

The financial details of the report show that the Pennsylvania last year had net income of $68,809,818, equivalent to $5.28 a share on the capital stock. Dividends of $4 a share or 8 per cent on the $50 par value stock, were paid, after which $11,431,273 was added to surplus. Net income for 1929 was $101,378,518, or $8.32 a share.

The total railway operating revenue in 1930 was $570,465,360, a decrease of $112,237,571. The railway operating expenses were $478,283,803, a decrease of $71,279,502.

The Pennsylvania announced that it had placed contracts for more than 100,000 tons of structural steel and accessories to be used in its $175,000,000 improvement program. The cost will be about $7,500,000. The improvement program includes electrification of the company's lines between New York and Washington, D. C., improvements in Newark and Philadelphia.

Sees Narrowed Field for Profitable Water Power

BY SCRUTATOR.

Those who hope for further profitable exploitation of America's sources of water power on a large scale appear to be on the wrong tack. The most favorable locations ha already been developed. The untapped sources are largely in places too remote for profitable development and would require a greater expenditure of capital than the results would warrant.

As this fact becomes more and more apparent, the clamor for government construction of water power plants will increase and greater pressure will be brought upon congress to spend the taxpayers' dollars on projects that private industry refuses to touch because they are uneconomical.

The chief protagonists will be those who expect to gain from large federal expenditures — owners of property along streams who want to sell at inflated prices, and workmen and contractors who are taught that this is another means of livelihood.

Hide Real Motives.

The real motives, will, of course, be obscured by the old arguments that profits taken by private corporations are inordinately large and that the government can borrow money at a low rate of interest.

According to the United States geological survey, 69 per cent of the potential water power resources of the nation is in the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast states. Seventy-nine per cent of the demand for electric power is east of the Mississippi. If the mountains could be split up and a range or two moved up near each of the large industrial centers, then this potential power could be profitably developed. It has been demonstrated that electric power cannot profitably be transmitted more than 250 miles from its source.

Hydroelectric plants require a greater outlay of capital per unit of energy produced than do steam plants. In the ten leading water power states, including Rocky mountain and Pacific coast regions, Maine, Vermont and the Carolinas, the total value of all plants and equipment averaged $271 per horsepower in 1927, compared with $225 per horsepower in the twelve principal steam power states.

Becomes More Economical.

Not only is the generation of electric power by steam plants, with few exceptions, more economical now, but is likely to become even more so in the future. Water power plants have been developed to a point where they can expect to go little further. They now operate at 90 per cent efficiency or better. The new Big Creek plant of the Southern California Edison company is 93 per cent perfect.

Yet this same company recently announced that future installations would be steam plants, because of the progress made by steam electric generation and the effect of variations in rainfall on the availability of water power.

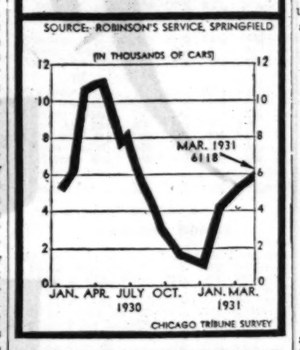
Have Ace in Hole.

Steam plants still have an ace in the hole. Twenty-five years ago they were able to convert into electricity only five per cent of the heat energy contained in coal. Today the thermal efficiency is five times greater, but it is still 75 per cent below perfection.

And this improvement hasn't stopped. Even now down in Hartford, Conn., there is a mercury vapor boiler installation that converts 34 per cent of the heat energy in coal into electricity.

As the cost of generating power by steam continues to drop, the desirability of developing hydro-electric plants will diminish, such projects will become less attractive to private capital and demand for public development will grow.

AUTO SALES IN COOK COUNTY SHOWED A FURTHER GAIN IN MARCH



NATIONAL CITY BANK REGAINS POSITION AS NATION'S 2D LARGEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 31.—Publication of the statement of the Guaranty Trust company today following the report of the National City bank show: that National City has regained its position as the second largest bank in the country in point of total resources.

The Guaranty shows total resources of $1,806,380,221, compared with $1,749,321,065 in the statement of March 27, 1930. Total deposits were $1,224,015,893, against $1,133,385,430 a year ago. Surplus and undivided profits amounted to $208,068,599, against $205,035,101.

The Chase National continues in first position with total resources of $2,517,816,372, a decrease of $179,512,479 from the total of last Dec. 31, $2,697,328,855. Deposits on March 25 were $1,883,807,874, a decline of $189,967,048.

REPORT INCREASE IN LOADINGS OF REVENUE FREIGHT

Washington, D. C., March 31.—(AP)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ending March 21 were announced by the American Railway association today as totaling 741,942 cars. This was an increase of 7,680 over the preceding week but a reduction of 133,443 below the same week last year.

On the basis of February results of railroads already received, all class 1 railroads had net operating income aggregating about $27,300,000 last month, the lowest since February 1921, when a deficit of $5,164,000 was reported.

Profits of 1,900 Concerns in 1930 Total 3½ Billions

New York, March 31.—(AP)—Net profits of 1,900 leading corporations for 1930 aggregated $3,513,348,000, a decrease of 41.1 per cent from the cumulative 1929 total of $5,968,574,000, says the monthly business review of the National City bank, published tomorrow.

Sues to Collect "Excess" Profits from Bethlehem

Philadelphia, March 31.—(AP)—A legal battle involving $20,000,000, between the government and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation and three of its allied companies, began here today at a hearing before William Clarke Mason, special master appointed by the U. S. District court.

The government is suing to recover $11,000,000 alleged "excess profits" made by the companies during the world war in the construction of ships for the merchant marine.

The Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, the Bethlehem Steel corporation, the Union Iron works, and the Fore River Shipbuilding corporation, the defendants, have filed counteraction demanding payment of $9,095,783 which they contend is the balance due them from the government in ship contracts.

Oil Output, Gasoline Stock Show Increase

New York, March 31.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 7,300 barrels in the week ended March 28, totaling 2,275,350 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates.

Refineries representing 95.7 per cent of estimated total capacity, operated at 65.3 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,332,400 barrels. The daily average for the previous week was 2,297,000 barrels. Gasoline stocks at these refineries were 47,444,000 barrels against 46,758,000.

Wrigley Makes First Deal Under Cotton Aid Offer

BY PAUL POTTER.

Dixie gum chewers yesterday began using cotton, of which there has been accumulating a sizable surplus the last four year, in lieu of cash, to satisfy their chicle appetites.

WILLIAM WRIGLEY JR.

Twenty minutes after the William Wrigley Jr. company had announced that it would use every dollar derived from its southern sales from April 1 to Dec. 31, 1931, to purchase cotton through the New York Cotton exchange. The market shot up 6 points a bale [500 pounds] and later receded to closer lower at around 10¾ cents a pound. Cotton was selling a year ago for 16 cents.

"We are merely offering to share in the present plight of the south," declared Wrigley, who is also owner of the Chicago Cubs baseball team. "We offered 18 years ago to buy cotton in exchange for our products in the south when it was selling for around 5 cents a pound. We believe that cotton at less than 12 cents a pound is a good buy for holding, and are therefore willing to take up to 100 million pounds on that basis."

Takes Wheat in Canada.

The plan, which is similar to that in which the Wrigley firm was successful back in 1913, is now in force in Canada, where the receipts from sales of the Canadian Wrigley company in the three western provinces are being used to purchase wheat. Almost half of the million bushels which the firm agreed to buy three months ago is now in its possession, according to J. Allan Ross, its president.

The plan operates in this fashion. Wholesalers are supplied with Wrigley Cotton Fund certificates, indicating that an amount of cotton has been purchased by the fund equal to receipts from retailers or jobbers. If money is sent to any southern bank or to Chicago from Dixie purchasers, it also will be used in whole to buy cotton on the New Orleans or New York exchanges.

"We'll hold this cotton in future delivery contracts or accept it for storage, and will hold it until it brings a fair price," declared Wrigley. "Today's price is not a fair one."

In reality, it was pointed out, the 200,000 bales which it is proposed the gum money will buy is about 4 per cent of the visible stocks of raw cotton in the United States. The new crop now being planted, even with curtailed acreage, is estimated to add upwards of 12,000,000 bales before the Wrigley offer expires.

The Chicagoan's offer yesterday added private capital to the millions in federal funds already invested in the southern staple. The federal farm board's stabilization corporation has been holding nearly two million bales and continues to carry this load at a financial loss, according to fiber merchants in local trade circles.

Farm Board Comparison.

"But we can be more effective than the farm board in bettering southern conditions because we have something to trade, Wrigley averred. "If the farm board had clothing or foodstuffs to exchange for cotton, there would be a direct benefit on a barter and exchange basis. Ours is an exchange of credit and patronage in which all parties gain."

Corn belt farmers and Chicago grain men yesterday likened the Wrigley proposal to an offer made in 1926 by Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester company. Legge offered to accept corn instead of cash, on the basis of $1 a bushel for No. 2 delivered at the nearest elevator, in purchasing implements. The market at that time was 74 cents, and in four months nearly 2 million bushels were taken in, stored for some time, and ultimately sold at very close to the dollar a bushel value Legge had set.

No Effect in New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., March 31.—(AP)—News of the proposal of William Wrigley Jr. to purchase up to 100,000,000 pounds of cotton in the next eight months had no effect on today's early trading on the New Orleans Cotton Exchange.

Traders professed interest in the proposal but explained the plan only involved 200,000 bales, a small fraction of the crop.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 31.—Stocks reached the end of the first quarter of the new year in a highly uncertain mood. Something that passed for a rally developed in the first half of the session, but gradually petered out after the turn of the day and the close found most of the active list headed again toward lower levels, with about as many minus signs as gains showing up in the procession. Except in the utilities, which were generally higher, these mixed price changes were the rule throughout.

Thus the final transactions placed American Can, Foreign Power, Consolidated Gas, Atchison, General Motors, Anaconda, and Montgomery Ward among the key gainers. United States Steel common, General Electric, Peoples Gas, Standard Oil of New Jersey, New York Central, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse and North American were among the losers. And Radio, Johns Manville, Eastman Kodak, Western Union and Fox Film were unchanged from yesterday.

Market Turns Sluggish.

There were some fairly wide price swings in the volatile specialties section during the course of the day, but later operations evened up the score pretty well even here so that net changes of more than a point or two on the day were rare.

After the failure of the forenoon rally, which seem to have been largely

He Saved Inheritance Taxes

THE estate of Mr. C's* father was subject to two inheritance taxes and two sets of administration expenses—once at the time of his father's death and again, ten months later, upon the death of his mother to whom the entire estate had been left.

But Mr. C profited from experience. He drew up a will under which he created a trust naming Central Trust Company of Illinois as trustee. By the terms of the will his wife will receive the income from his property during her lifetime and, at her death, the trustee will distribute the property to his children.

Inheritance taxes will be levied once against the heirs instead of twice and administration expenses may be cut approximately in half. There will be no delay—no extra expense or trouble.

For a more detailed account of Mr. C's experience, write for a copy of our new folder, "He Forestalled Double Taxation and Administration Expense."

BUILDING IN CHICAGO GAINS FIRST QUARTER

Is Double First 3 Months of Last Year.

BY AL CHASE.

Building construction in Chicago during the first three months of 1931, based on permits issued for new structures, is double that of 1930, according to E. M. Craig, executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association. It is pointed out that the permit for the $12,000,000 Marshall Field office building, taken out last week, aided materially in the lead over last year. But even with this amount deducted 1931's first quarter is approximately $2,000,000 over the same three months of last year.

Mr. Craig believes that the increase in building permits thus far in 1931 is an encouraging sign pointing to the gradual resumption of construction activity after a period of quiet for nearly two years.

Home Building Announced.

He stated that in several sections of Chicago's metropolitan district home building in group construction has been announced by builders. The present construction program, however, lacks the momentum essential to reduce unemployment on a large scale among the building trades mechanics, he said.

Chicago's building program for the first three months of this year as compared with the same period last year is as follows:

1930.		1931.
Jan.	$5,444,500	Jan.	$2,838,400
Feb.	3,400,600	Feb.	7,877,000
March	5,814,400	March	17,745,100
	$14,659,500		$28,460,500

Building construction totaling $3,170,000 was contracted for during the last two weeks in March in the metropolitan area.

Trust Official Optimistic.

Kenneth E. Rice, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, in a talk delivered before the Cook County Real Estate board yesterday, made the following prediction:

"It would seem that the upward turn in real estate should commence during the fall of the year 1931 and for a period of years, should history repeat itself, gradually but surely increase in volume as indicated during the two previous depressions of 1873 and 1893, particularly the one of '73."

"Real estate, well chosen, is and always will be, one of the best investments. As long as the country is generally prosperous there'll be an accumulation of wealth from the profits of business which must find investment in real estate as the ultimate and safest security. The great insurance and trust companies are daily professing their faith in the future of Chicago by investing in real estate mortgages. The company with which I am associated owes much of its financial strength to investments in carefully made real estate loans.

Says Reaction Is Nearly Over.

"In conclusion, then, I don't think I'm unduly optimistic in forecasting a brighter future for the real estate market. If history repeats itself, the period of reaction is nearly over and prospects for an early revival should encourage the real estate dealer. He is reasonably sure of an upturn in his commodity in the near future and if he confines his activities to projects where both the owner and the lender have a sound investment he can do much to avoid in the future troublous years such as we have passed through."

The Lake Shore Medinah Florists, Inc., a newly formed organization, has leased for five years the store at 507 North Michigan avenue, in the Medinah Athletic club building. The shop contains approximately 1,000 square feet with a mezzanine floor of 1,500 square feet additional. In addition to the usual line of floral goods, a department of garden furniture, pottery and statuary is planned. The opening is set for next Saturday. Howard L. Storch of Ross & Browne, agents for the building, was broker for all parties.

The general contract for the erection of another wing to the Evanston Township High school, designed by Hamilton, Fellows & Nedved, and to cost $285,000, has been awarded to the Ralph Sollitt & Sons Co. Work will start this week. It is hoped to have the structure completed by Sept. 1. It will accommodate 750 pupils. It will be a duplicate of the present wing.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

Times are good in the wallpaper industry, reports E. D. Belknap, executive vice president of the Wallpaper association, who says factories are running full time to fill demands for paper that has set a record for recent years.

A move for higher retail prices on popular brands of cigarets may follow establishment Saturday of higher prices for cigars, according to reports in trade circles. Retailers claim that the present margin is inadequate and that the establishment of a price scale of 15 cents a pack and two packs for 27 cents has been suggested. The present scale provides a profit for the retailer of about 2 per cent.

Production of cast iron pressure pipe has been increased 10 per cent in the Birmingham district to meet demands for early delivery on lettings placed recently.

New passenger automobile registrations in New York state in February numbered 13,034, an increase of 24 per cent over January. The total for February, 1930, was 16,680 cars.

Joseph Kaltenbacher, president of Seton Leather company, said he expects 1931 to prove one of the company's best years, both in sales and profits. Plants have been operating at capacity since March 1, he said, for the first time since May 1929, and at present the company has more diversified buying of its products than for several years past.

Ingersoll-Rand company has received an order from the Bush terminal for seven oil-electric locomotives.

World production of all kinds of cotton during the current season is proving to be about 1,100,000 bales less than early season indications, and is less than last season by the same amount, the New York Cotton exchange service reports. This reduction in the world crop is due to the fact that the crops in several important countries are turning out less than was indicated last fall, the service says.

PAYMENTS ON DIVIDENDS WILL BE LARGE TODAY

New York, March 31.—Dividend disbursements by several hundred corporations on more than 2,000 separate issues of stock and large interest payments will make up a huge total tomorrow, roughly estimated at more than $500,000,000. The dividend and interest payments in April, it is calculated, will exceed $750,000,000, an impressive total even when business was more prosperous.

The aggregate turnover will be swelled to $350,000,000 this month by subscriptions to a new issue of $250,000,000 of noninterest bearing bills of the treasury department. Half of the issue will be taken up tomorrow and the other half on the following day.

$40,000,000 LOAN TO POLAND IS MADE BY FRENCH

(Copyright, 1931, By the New York Times.)

PARIS, March 31.—[Special.]—The French loan to Poland, which had been in process of negotiation for several months, has finally been arranged. A contract between the French lenders—the Schneider-Creusot steel interests and the Banque des Pays du Nord—and the Polish government was initialed this morning in the offices of the bank.

The amount of the loan is approximately 1,000,000,000 francs (about $40,000,000). Polish Foreign Minister Zaleski, who came from Warsaw for the final consultation, returned to his country tonight.

Coincident with the conclusion of the loan a Franco-Polish company, to be known as La Compagnie Franco-Polonaise des Chemins de Fer, was formed for the purpose of leasing and operating the new railway line from Upper Silesia to the new Polish port of Gdynia on the Baltic. The construction of the line, which was begun several years ago, will be completed with the proceeds of the present loan.

The details of the bonds which will be issued under the loan agreement have not been decided upon, but it is understood the terms will be somewhat less severe than those surrounding the recent French loan to Rumania.

CITY DIVIDEND.

A dividend of 25 cents a share has been declared by the city of Boston, against 37½ cents three months ago.

PLUS AND MINUS SIGNS DIVIDED ON WALL STREET

due to covering by small fry shorts alarmed over talk of a technical recovery, the market turned sluggish, with the rank and file of the speculative element presumably inclined to go slow in the matter of entering into new commitments on either side. Expert observers thought the boys were standing aside to await the publication early tomorrow of the usual weekly steel trade summaries. These will be consumed with more than customary interest just now in an effort to ascertain a line on the immediate outlook for the industry. Week-end reports indicating a slowing down from the peak of a fortnight ago have served to turn attention sharply toward the various business indices on which the trade has come to dote.

General Asphalt Drops.

Individual features of the day were the heavy selling that came into a number of isolated issues like General Asphalt, U. S. Industrial Alchol and Allied Chemical. Asphalt's acute weakness was due to news of the reversal by the British court of appeals of a recent decision favorable to the company rendered by the lower courts in litigation involving certain royalties in Venezuelan oil lands The stock suffered a wide open break of around 12 points when the news came through and it succeeded in recovering only about 2 points of the loss before the finish.

Air Reductions was another issue to drop to a new low. Kolster Radio sold at the lowest price in its history. When listed on the exchange in 1928 it was as high as 95¾. Today shareholders thought so little of their chance in a foreclosure sale of the assets that they were glad to accept 50 cents a share.

Kelly Says Fair Store Will Continue Dividends

Directors of The Fair, one of Chicago's big department stores, contemplate no change in the annual dividend rate of $2.40 on the common stock. This was made known yesterday by President D. F. Kelly in connection with his annual report, which recites that average earnings per year for the last 20 years have exceeded present dividend requirements.

"This record demonstrates the increasing and continuous earning power of The Fair and that 1930 was a subnormal year," Mr. Kelly says. "In view of this and because of the policy pursued in prior years of reserving as earned surplus a substantial portion of annual earnings, the directors had no hesitancy in paying dividends for 1930. Our faith in our city and nation and in the 35 year record of the earning capacity of our store justifies our continuing our dividend policy for the present."

A. T. & T. VOTES TO MAKE CAPITAL $2,500,000,000

Corporation Existence to Be Perpetual.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 31.—The stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph company held their annual meeting here today, increased the authorized capital stock from $2,000,000,000 to $2,500,000,000 and voted to make the existence of the corporation perpetual.

The increase in capital was necessitated by the fact that recent issues have increased the total to almost the present $2,000,000,000 authorization. The stock outstanding at the beginning of the year was $1,795,651,200. About $39,000,000 in stock offered in 1930 will be paid for this year and issued. In addition, there are bonds outstanding that can be converted into $12,923,000 of stock.

Increase in 1926.

The last increase in authorized stock was in March, 1926, when the total was lifted from $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000.

There will be no stock issue by the company this year and probably no other financing by the company, but it was deemed advisable to provide for future contingencies.

Coinciding with the meeting it was estimated unofficially that the earnings for the first quarter will exceed the $9.22 annual rate for the whole of 1930. It is understood that the earnings this year have been satisfactory, although reflecting the smaller volume of business throughout the country.

Expect Full Dividend.

It is regarded as probable that the company will earn its full $9 dividend requirements in 1931. Some sections of the country have shown improvement in the telephone business and others have declined.

At the close of 1930 the company had $351,803,743 in temporary investments—that is, municipals, state, United States government and short term obligations. In addition, the company had $37,054,020 in cash.

PRODUCE MARKETS

With the March delivery out of the way, there was a letup in the demand for butter and prices dropped 1c. Receipts, 13,850 tubs. Fresh eggs were somewhat firmer, although undertone was somewhat nervous. Receipts, 23,880 cases. Live weight hens were 1c higher and heavy hens steady to 1c lower. Broilers advanced 2c. Receipts, 3 cars and 16 trucks. Potatoes somewhat easier, due to a rather slow demand. Receipts, 124 cars, with 402 cars on team track.

Borg-Warner.

Please give me all the information you have in regard to Borg-Warner as to previous earnings, prospects as to future business, financial statements, capitalization, etc.—P. W. S.

Borg-Warner corporation is an important factor in the automotive equipment industry. It is an independent holding company operating through subsidiaries.

Net income to the corporation for 1930 was $2,318,120, which was 3.54 times dividend requirements on the 38,800 shares of 7 per cent preferred [par $100] and was equal to $1.66 per share on the 1,230,783 common shares [par $10]. After payment of preferred and common dividends in 1930 deficit for the year was $1,290,672.

Net income to the corporation for 1929 was $6,684,504, or $5.23 per common share.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $15,193,658 and current liabilities were $2,629,043. This left a net working capital of $12,564,615, against $14,830,025 the year before.

Late in 1930 the company, with Studebaker corporation, formed a subsidiary to manufacture and sell the recently developed "free wheeling" for automobiles. This unit has been adopted as standard factory equipment by Studebaker, Hupp, Pierce-Arrow, and Lincoln.

The common was placed on a $1 quarterly basis on July 1, 1923, which was continued to July 1, 1930, when a quarterly payment of 75 cents was made. On Jan. 2, 1931, the common was placed on an annual dividend basis of $1 a share.

The company's earnings are primarily dependent on conditions in the automobile industry, but the management stated that it is endeavoring to diversify its products through the manufacture of electric refrigerators and agricultural equipment.

The preferred stock is rather high grade.

The common is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

New York Central Railroad.

I recently ordered a New York Central railroad 4½ per cent bond, due Oct. 1, 2013. I have been reading so much about railroads losing ground generally that I am wondering whether to keep this or not. I have to make conservative investments.—H. M.

New York Central railroad for the last few years has been financing much of its capital requirements through the sale of stock to stockholders. This policy has resulted in the placing of a very large equity behind its bonds. It was stated on March 10, 1931, that fixed charges for 1930, which was generally a poor year for railroads, were earned 1.6 times. In 1929 interest charges on the funded debt were earned about 4 times, and for the nine year period through 1929 such charges were covered almost 3½ times. The refunding and improvement mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, series A, due Oct. 1, 2013, are sound.

PRICES OF GRAIN SLIGHTLY HIGHER AT MARKET CLOSE

U. S. Commences to Sell Winter Wheat Today.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The March deliveries of grain passed into history yesterday without untoward developments. Trading was largely of an evening up character, and, while the open interest was not large, minor advances were witnessed, with wheat at the top touching 82¾c, the best figure since the middle of January. However, it reacted toward the last and went out ½c higher at 81¾c. March corn was 1¾c higher at the close at 61¼c, while March oats were up ⅝c at 29⅞c, and March rye ⅝c higher at 35⅝c.

May wheat was bought by domestic and foreign shorts and at the extreme showed ½c above Monday's finish, touching 83⅜c. Selling by houses that sometimes act as brokers for government agencies caused a reaction at the last and the close was unchanged at 82¾c. Commencing today the Stabilization corporation will commence to offer its holdings of No. 2 hard winter in the leading markets at a minimum price of 82½c at Chicago and 73¼c at Kansas City, with an advance of ½c per bu every ten days until June 30.

July Wheat Advances.

There was a little pressure on the new crop deliveries of wheat early, due to disappointing cables from Liverpool, but the July acted a little tight, and when shorts and spreaders started to take the July and sell the September the former advanced quickly and went to 1½c over the September, touching 61c on the bulge. Commission houses were on the selling side of the September and it closed unchanged at 59⅜@59⅞c, while the July was 60⅜@60¾c, gaining ⅝c for the day. Trading in the December future will be inaugurated today. There were a few sales yesterday around 3½c over the September.

Reports of a revival in the foreign demand for Manitobas, with sales of around 600,000 bu in all positions, brought in fair buying of futures at Winnipeg, with the close at net gains of ⅝@1c, July being 59c, while the October was 61¼c, the latter being 1½c over Chicago September. Liverpool was unchanged, with July at 62¼c, while Buenos Aires was ⅝@⅜c higher.

Corn Is Unsettled.

Corn market was unsettled, easing early on scattered selling only to advance around 1c from the inside figures and finish ⅝@½c higher on the active months, with May 62⅝@62½c; July, 64⅛@64¼c, and September, 63¼@63⅜c. There was some selling of May against purchases of September by a local house. Final trades were about the top, despite reports of a light shipping demand and purchases of 97,000 bu to arrive, the latter including 85,000 booked from other terminals. The spot basis was steady to ¼c higher, with dry grain wanted, and No. 2 yellow sold as high as May price.

Oats Close Higher.

Commission houses and interests with northwestern connections were on the buying side of oats, and the close was ⅝@¾c higher, with May at 31⅛@31⅜c and July and September at 32c.

Rye was dull and the market somewhat easier, despite the firmness in wheat, the finish being ¼c lower to ⅛c higher on the deferred future, with May 37¼c; July, 39¼c, and September 40½c.

Wheat Prospects Good; Small Loss in Acreage

Condition of winter wheat on April 1 is given as 86.5 compared with 77.4 in April, last year, and a 10 year average of 79.2, by E. H. Miller, the J. E. Bennett & Co. statistician. Condition on Dec. 1, 1930, as given by the government, was 90.3.

"We believe that April 1 is too early to forecast winter wheat production and therefore will make no estimate at this time," Mr. Miller says. "Preliminary reports on probable abandonment of acreage indicate only about 2.5 per cent, compared with 11 per cent last year and usual average of about 11.8 per cent. Should later reports confirm this estimate of light abandonment, we will have slightly over 2,000,000 acres more than harvested last year. Condition in Kansas is unusually high, 92; Oklahoma, 80; Texas, 95. In the soft winter wheat states, from Pennsylvania to Missouri, conditions range from 70 to 92. Wisconsin being the lowest, but with the exception of 77 in Pennsylvania, other states show 81 to 92, the latter for Illinois."

NEW LOW ON BUTTER

Selling pressure in November butter sent the delivery down to a new price level for the year on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, hedging orders being placed on somewhat unfavorable news, causing a break at ½c to 29¼c. Potato futures were easy and off 1c at the close. Egg futures gained ¾c, buying developing on improved storage news. Sales: Butter, 46 cars; eggs, 81 cars; potatoes, 15 cars. Prices follow:

1930-'31 WHEAT CARRYOVER 275 MILLION BUSHELS

Estimate by Agriculture Department.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 31.—[Special.]—The department of agriculture's wheat estimate, announced today, supports previous estimates which indicate that the carry-over of the 1930-'31 crop will be between 275 and 300 million bushels.

Today's estimate of stocks in interior mills and elevators showed a total of 82,840,000 bushels. On March 1 the department reported 160,282,000 bushels held on the farms. Adding these amounts to the 213,366,000 bushels of the department's estimate of the visible supply on March 28 and the estimate of the total amount of wheat in the country becomes 456,488,000 bushels.

Deducting 150 million bushels as the milling requirements between now and the end of the marketing season, and 25,000,000 bushels for spring seeding, and a carry-over of 281,488,000 bushels is left.

The Chicago Board of Trade figures for the visible supply are about eleven million bushels less than those of the department, but a reduction of that amount would still leave a carry-over of 270 million bushels on July 1.

The federal farm board will be forced to take up nearly all of this amount. By July 1 the board winn in all likelihood be holding well over 200 million bushels.

MARCH 1 WHEAT STOCKS

Available supplies of wheat in the United States on March 1, as estimated from reports to the department of commerce aggregate 451,000,000 bu, or 60,000,000 bu more than last year, and 100,000,000 bu in excess of the average of the last five years.

Stocks in country mills and elevators March 1, which were given to the trade yesterday, showed 18,000,000 bu less than a year ago. The mill and elevator figures, however, do not include any wheat reported to the bureau of agricultural economics at 39 markets or the quantities in merchant mills and attached elevators which report to the census bureau. Comparative stocks for the last five years follow, last six ciphers omitted:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Frequencies of rallies after breaks is creating an impression that for the time being it is not wise to press the short side too strongly on the weak spots, as they develop buying support which brings fair upturns. The trade is in a position to follow any news that may come, but the wide price swings are not to be expected unless something drastic and unlooked for develops. In wheat the bears are favoring sales of September, while in corn sentiment is more mixed, with an increasing disposition to buy on all breaks.

"The wheat situation looks better than it has for a long time. Recent developments indicate that many millers who thought they had supplies sufficient to run until June have discovered that they are actually short of wheat to meet their sales of flour," says a cash handler. "These figures are, in a measure, confirmed by the government report on mill and elevator stocks given out late yesterday showing 82 million bu against 100 million bu last year. Good sales of wheat are being made by the farm board agencies to mills and for export. Within the last few days sales have increased materially. I understand that the farm board agents are not loading out any wheat except that which has been sold," said the cash wheat man. "There have been no track deliveries of wheat in Chicago during March, despite the fact that 9,356,000 bu were delivered, which shows that the elevator people are taking the wheat," he said.

Crop reports on winter wheat condition April 1 will be given out by Chicago statisticians early today. Expectations are for a showing of around 91 to 92.5. In December it was 86.3, and in April, last year, it was 77.4, and the ten year average, 79.2. The Miller-Bennett report issued yesterday makes the condition 86.5.

PROVISION TRADE SMALL

Business in bellies was larger and in lard smaller yesterday, the latter closing without material change, while bellies were offered more freely and prices averaged lower. Cash trade was slow but a little more export business developed in lard, while domestic trade was light. Expectations are for no material change in lard stocks for the month. Liverpool lard was 3d lower to 6d higher, the former on spot. Exports of lard were 702,547 lbs and of bacon, 426,000 lbs. Hogs were sharply lower at the close with receipts increased materially over a week and a year ago at western packing points. Prices follow:

Top yesterday, $9.40; average, $8.85.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 9,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 10,000.

Cattle and hogs sold slowly at weak to lower prices yesterday, hogs losing almost all of Monday's gains, while the market for fat lambs scored one of the most decided advances of the season. Brisk competition featured the market for lambs and closing sales were highest of the day, all interests paying up to $9.40, the extreme top.

Late sales were only 25c under the highest point of the year and exactly $1.00 above the low spot in January. Lamb receipts are dropping off rather sharply at many of the leading centers. The seven leading western markets during the first two days of this week handled 17,000 fewer than a week ago and 47,000 fewer than a year ago.

Hogs ruled steady to 25c lower, a big share of the day's offerings showing 10@25c loss in mid-session and later, with 200@250 lb averages weakest. The close was more active, when only 20,000 were posted for today in spite of the fact that some of the leading points in the west reported substantial increases in receipts yesterday.

April Hogs Bring $7.65.

Medium weight hogs for delivery during the first half of April were sold at $7.65 on the futures market yesterday. Lightweights for April delivery were bid $8.00 and offered at $8.50, while May light were bid $8.25 and offered at $8.50. September light were bid $8.50 and offered at $9.00. Heavy grades for next September delivery were offered at $9.00 and bid $8.75. On the "to arrive" market lightweights for today's delivery were bid $8.00, mediums were bid $7.50 and heavy $7.25.

Although cattle receipts were only moderate on yesterday's market, available supplies exceeded immediate requirements and buyers gained control soon after the opening. Steers ruled weak to slightly lower. Butcher stock was fairly active and about steady. Prime weighty steers were absent. A small lot of choice 1,166 lb averages reached $10.50, while a carload averaging 1,370 lbs sold at $10.35. The bulk had to go at $7.25@9.25. Calves tumbled $1.00 near the close of the market when a big share of the day's offerings changed hands.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 31.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw, was unchanged today at 3.33c for spot duty paid. Early gains in raw futures as a result of Cuban or European buying, were not maintained and were followed by reactions with the market closing net unchanged to 2 points higher. Approximate sales, 29,000 tons. Prices follow:

HIDE FUTURES

Trading in futures on the New York Hide exchange was active. The market closed 5 to 20 points lower. March set a record for one month's trading on the Hide exchange with a total of 96,000,000 lbs sold. The previous record for one month's trading occurred during October, 1930, when 51,360,000 lbs were sold. Total sales, 3,760,000 lbs. Prices follow:

CURTAILS OPERATIONS.

COTTON LOSES EARLY GAINS

Cotton markets developed strength during the morning yesterday, only to lose it later in the day. Good support, with small offering, combined with the Wrigley offer to accept cotton from the south, was the basis for the strength, the south leading the buying. Prices moved up 5@6 points at the best. At the close futures in Chicago and New York were unchanged to 5 points lower, with New Orleans 3@5 points lower. Spots were unchanged in New York at 10.70c, with New Orleans off 5 points to 10.45, the same as Houston, with Galveston 10.60c, Liverpool was unchanged to 1 point higher at the close, with sales of 7,000 bales.

Trade review says the world has used more foreign than American cotton the first half of this year. The domestic mill situation is unchanged, although in the east mills seem to be absorbing more cotton and doing a fair business. Prices follow:
